'PAROLE SALES' STIR STORM

Crowd of 26,000 Jams Stadium to Cheer for Cermak

HEAR SPEAKERS ASSAIL TACTICS USED BY MAYOR

Nominee Tells Need for Cleanup.

BY PARKE BROWN.

There were the earmarks of a stampede in the Democratic massmeeting in the Chicago Stadium last night.

It was considered remarkable when the crowd that went to hear James Hamilton Lewis there toward the close of his long campaign last fall filled the big hall—large enough for a national convention—to overflowing. But it was pronounced even more remarkable that the real opening of the campaign for A. J. Cermak for mayor packed even the standing room of the huge auditorium.

Not Crowd at 26,000.

A light rain fell during the early evening, interfering to a slight extent with a torchlight automobile parade through the west side and dampening the ardor of some enthusiasts, but it was estimated by the management of the stadium that the crowd inside the doors totaled at least 26,000.

That attendance was considered genuinely indicative of the standing in the race between Cermak and Mayor Thompson as it is understood here, but veterans of many campaigns said that their greatest astonishment was caused by the spirit that seemed to overwhelm the throng—indignation and anger over the character of the campaign being conducted by Thompson, a campaign described by leaders as one of abuse characterized by secret and even semi-public appeals to "prejudice, intolerance and bigotry."

Assail Tactics of Foe.

The first note of this came at a noon luncheon at the Hotel Sherman when Ernest J. Kruetgen, for many years a leader of German-American thought in the community, denounced Thompson for this sort of tactics and Floyd E. Thompson, former justice of the Illinois supreme court and gubernatorial nominee in 1928, warned against the needlessness of any answer to that sort of attack.

But it had not been expected that this sort of anger would appear at the big evening rally. It was announced that there would be three principal speakers—Cermak, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who declined to run as an independent, and Senator Lewis. All of these, it was said, would have "set speeches."

Call Campaign Disgraceful.

But the atmosphere in the Stadium was not of the kind that invited set speeches. There was apparent a desire to get into the fight, and before the meeting had dissolved half a dozen speakers had condemned the Thompson campaign program of attempting to stir up the Irish, the German, the Poles and other elements in the political life of the community as disgraceful.

In addition to the scheduled speakers, Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council committee on finance; County Clerk Sweitzer, State Representative Igoe, minority leader at Springfield; Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, and Dr. Bundesen had blasted away at the Thompson campaign methods. Comparatively, Cermak and Senator Lewis were restrained. The Democratic addresses were ten times as long.

Ald. Clark Assails Thompson.

Thompson has referred to Ald. Clark as a man of Irish descent who was thrust into the background by Cermak. "The only reason for bringing in my name," said the alderman, "was to engender intolerance."

"This meeting," said Sweitzer, "is the result of the awakening of the public conscience. Chicago will not submit to such tactics."

Representative Igoe, who was introduced as a "formidable candidate for governor," criticized the Thompson campaign as unjustifiable. Judge Fisher bitterly attacked it as "disgraceful if he realizes that his cause is lost." Then came Dr. Bundesen.

No Creeds, Says Bundesen.

"Why in Chicago," the doctor said, "we had enough of buffoonery, of Big George, of school book scandals, of leadership by proxy, of tax burdens that would have stunned old Louis XIV himself.

"It is true, unfortunately, some are prone to incite class against class and creed against creed. But don't let them do it. We have no class or creed dis-

STATE TO START BROTHERS TRIAL EVIDENCE TODAY

Jury Is Completed in Murder Case.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Evidence which the prosecutors for the state have obtained against Leo V. Brothers of St. Louis, who is on trial for the murder of Alfred Lingle last June, will begin to be unfolded today before a jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's court.

TYRRELL KRUM.

Opening statements to the jury which was completed and sworn in yesterday, will be made this morning by Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks, and by Attorney Tyrrell Krum for the defense.

The state's case in chief is not expected to take more than two or three days to present. Judging from questions which Mr. Brooks put to various jurors yesterday it will consist of the formal proof of the murder, through the testimony of coroner and police, to be followed by witnesses who will identify Brothers as the actual slayer, with the question of motive left for inference by the jurors.

Pick Jury in Six Days.

The defense is to have witnesses to the killing who will say that Brothers is not the man. They are also seeking to bring before the jury the Frank Foster indictment in this case and the Frank Bell confession. The state's effort is to confine it to Brothers as the principal, no matter how many others may have been involved.

The jury was completed an hour after the morning session began. In view of the interest in this trial and the publicity attendant upon it, attorneys felt that less than six days was a remarkably short time in which to fill the jury box. The proportion of those who had fixed opinions in the case was also relatively small. The state had seven peremptory challenges of the allotted 20 left and the defense had six when the jury was completed.

This is the first of the big gang murders in which any one has ever been brought to trial, and the evidence against Brothers is awaited with deep interest in many quarters. He has three attorneys and an investigator to take care of his interests, and his mother, father, and sweetheart are in attendance upon the trial. He has taken it all so far with great calm, and was active in picking out the jurors.

Jury Is Completed.

Henry W. Hanselman, a linotype operator, who had been locked up with the jury over Sunday, was excused by agreement when the case opened yesterday morning. Several veniremen who failed to qualify followed him, and then the state came to Lars Aadnesen, 1451 North Luna avenue, a painter, who proved to be satisfactory to both sides. When the state passed him on to the defense for a short questioning there was a conference of defense lawyers, a nod of approval from Brothers, and Mr. Krum said:

"The defense accepts these last two men and asks that the jury be sworn."

The other three men who completed the last panel are Philip Hagerman, 906 North Karlov avenue, a motorman on the surface lines for 22 years; Edward Larsen, 611 East 75th street, a carpenter, and Herbert Thompson, 1268 East 52d street, an employé of a La Salle street credit firm.

Questions Show State Attitude.

In questioning Juror Aadnesen, Mr. Brooks gave an indication of the state's attitude on several phases of the case, as follows:

Q.—When the case starts, you know that the defendant is presumed innocent and the state must prove his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. You also know that although a number of men may conspire to bring about a murder there may be but one man on trial at a time. You are to decide this case and no other. You understand that, don't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—It is a question of whether this

SKETCHES OF THE NEWS

FIVE VOLUNTEER FIREMEN DIE WHEN ENGINE OVERTURNS

Malvern, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—Five members of the Malvern volunteer fire company were killed and eleven injured late today when the company's fire engine overturned on King road two miles west of Malvern.

Those killed were Clifford Kilpatrick, 19; William Garrett, 21; Clarence Gregg, 23; Clarence Matlack, 17, and Henry Munch, 48.

The men were speeding to a grass fire. As the engine turned from a macadam road onto a dirt road it struck a rut and overturned. Every man on the truck was either killed or injured.

Word of the tragedy brought death to a sixth victim, the father of one of the firemen who was killed. He was Percy Matlack, father of Clarence, a high school boy. He collapsed when he heard the news and died of shock, a physician said.

PA AND MA BOTH GET LOST ON TOUR IN TWO MOTORS

John A. Cordell, wealthy retired grocer of 1333 Ridge avenue, Evanston; his wife, Hattie, and their children, Lillian, Virginia, and Raymond, boarded two automobiles yesterday, and waved a final farewell to the home town. They were on their way to Florida.

At the wheel of one car sat Mrs. Cordell. With her was Raymond. At the wheel of the second machine sat Cordell. With him were the girls. They passed the boulevard bridge, and continued southward.

At Monroe street a flivver inserted itself between the two Cordell cars and Mrs. Cordell, driving in the rear, lost sight of the leading machine. Cordell got as far as the east side police district before he missed his wife and son. He called Desk Sergt. John E. Barrett.

"My wife is lost—or rather," he corrected, "I've lost her. If she calls, tell her I'll be at the Hotel Lincoln in Indianapolis."

Mrs. Cordell drove on to Indianapolis. Last night Chief William O. Freeman received a long distance call from the lost wife:

"My husband is lost, or I lost him. If he calls, tell him we're at the Hotel Claypool in Indianapolis."

There was an interchange of police messages and last night the lost husband and wife and their children were reunited.

N.Y. City Graft Inquiry Voted by Legislature

BULLETIN.

Albany, N. Y., March 24 (Tuesday).—(AP)—An investigation of the affairs of the city of New York was assured early today when the assembly, after protracted debate, concurred with the senate in the adoption of a resolution calling for a thoroughgoing inquiry of all departments of the municipal government and the inferior courts. The vote was 76 to 70. As in the senate, the division was strictly on party lines.

Albany, N. Y., March 24 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—Coming with complete surprise to the Democrats, the senate, by a strictly party vote of 26 to 24, adopted at 12:30 a. m. today a resolution for an investigation by the state government of New York City by a legislative committee consisting of three senators and four assemblymen.

Senators Seabury C. Mastick and Walter W. Westall, the two Westchester senators, who voted with the Democrats against a similar resolution a few weeks ago, voted this morning with their Republican colleagues for the resolution.

Two Republicans Shift Votes.

The shift in the votes of the two Westchester senators followed withdrawal of the opposition of William L. Ward, Westchester Republican leader, to the inquiry resolution as amended. Mr. Ward's support for the amended resolution was obtained by telephone conversations of prominent Republicans in New York with him during the day.

Money for the investigation is provided by an appropriation of $250,000 in the resolution. This does not require the approval of the governor. The original resolution did not carry an appropriation, because its adoption required merely a majority of those present in each house, a quorum being present, while a resolution carrying an appropriation requires a majority of the membership of each body.

Inclusion of the appropriation was decided upon by the Republican leaders when they found they had a clear majority in each house, although the governor had announced his willingness to sign a bill transferring $250,000 from the contingent fund if the legislature ordered an investigation.

Asks Walker to Reply.

Gov. Roosevelt reached a temporary solution yesterday of the moot question of what to do with formal charges of misfeasance and negligence in office filed against the Tammany mayor, James J. Walker.

Instead of authorizing ouster proceedings against the mayor, or of referring the matter to the state legislature for an inquiry, the governor mailed a copy of the charges to Mayor Walker and asked him to make a reply. Since the mayor is sun bathing in Palm Springs, Cal., the governor addressed his letter direct to the mayor at his retreat and informed Mr. Walker that he was not to make any reply until he returns to the mayoralty office in this city. The mayor is not expected back for ten days or two weeks, so the question of a city-wide investigation will remain in status quo.

The governor's letter was written and made public in Albany, after he had given a week's consideration to the charges, filed by the Rev. John Henry Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

DISCARD KHAKI, GET BLUE UNIFORM, IS ORDER OF POLICE

The official arrival of spring was brought to the attention of the police department last night with the annual notice regarding summer uniforms. This year heralds another change and the khaki will be discarded for the blue.

"To all members of the department," the order read, "now that spring is officially here your attention is called to your uniform needs. Get ready. Also the fact that every officer in the uniform rank will require a new summer uniform this year means that the uniform tailors will be busy when every one starts ordering their summer uniforms and to avoid the rush and possible disappointment it is advisable to place your order early."

Receipt of the order caused an uproar among members of the department. One ray of hope was found. "The khaki uniform dyes nicely," a patrolman remarked. "I dyed mine and have been wearing it all winter."

Charity Gets 100 Million Wendel Hoard

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—The wealth of the Wendels was scattered today after more than a century of hoarding. It was one of the greatest landed estates ever gathered by a single family and its conservatively estimated $100,000,000 worth represented frugal living and tenacious holding of property.

It went for the most part to hospitals and churches and $17,500,000 now lying in rock and earth under the skyscrapers of Manhattan will find its way to China to aid the work of Methodist missions there. Three individuals share less richly.

There was no remaining Wendel to carry on the family motto: "Buy, but never sell real estate." The last of the Wendels, a little old spinster who lacked but two years of eighty, died a week ago in the gloom of a crumbling red brick mansion on 5th avenue. The house was valued at $6,000, the land it stood on at almost $3,000,000. It was Ella Virginia von Echtsel Wendel's will that was up for probate today.

Direct Heirs Are Few.

After some of the choicest of the properties have been divided among a nephew by marriage, a lawyer, his daughter, and several old retainers, the land of the Wendels, barons of New York real estate, will be sold to create a magnificent trust fund to be divided among fourteen hospitals, churches, and philanthropic institutions.

Whether the Wendel family, founded by the first John Gottlieb Wendel at the turn of the nineteenth century, was a family of eccentric recluses or staid, generous gentlefolks cannot be determined by reading between the lines in the last Wendel's will.

It is a lengthy, involved document with only the barest touch of human vanity. The original testament was made by Ella Wendel in July, 1923. There are two codicils, one dated Feb. 18, 1929, and another June 13, 1929. Apparently the last surviving sister, Mrs. Rebecca A. D. Swope, who died a year ago, and Miss Wendel had jointly worked out the disposition of their wealth.

Old Homes Goes to Charity.

The old Fifth avenue home—the house of mystery—in which the Wendels lived and died in seclusion, is a gift to Drew Theological institution of Madison, N. J., a Methodist Episcopal institution which is also one of the principal beneficiaries from the residuary estate.

The entire estate consists of about $4,500,000 in cash and negotiables, and 200 parcels of land, including some of the choicest spots under the downtown skyscrapers. Unofficial estimates have set the value of the Wendel barony at considerably more than $100,000,000, but based on assessed valuations with a conservative upward margin for actual worth it appears unlikely the realty will bring more than $100,000,000 on the market.

A Nephew Is Remembered.

The human touch in the spinster's will came when three individuals were remembered. One is George Stanley Skirk, nephew of Luther A. Swope, late husband of Mrs. Swope. He inherited the block on lower Broadway occupied by an old building that houses the Wendel estate offices.

Another beneficiary is Charles G.

DAN SERRITELLA IS ACCUSED IN PRISON INQUIRY

Board Members and Legislators Clash.

During a clash yesterday between two angry members of the legislative committee investigating the causes of recent riots at the Stateville and Joliet penitentiaries and a member of the state board of pardons and paroles, charges were made that state legislators frequently made attempts to influence the board in granting paroles to convicts.

"O, yes," said Thomas H. Cannon of the parole board, "we have members of the legislature who come to us and say 'Don't forget I am on the appropriations committee.'"

Representative Harry McCaskrin [Rep., Rock Island] rose and shouted to Cannon:

"Name one."

"Daniel Serritella," snapped Cannon.

Aid of Thompson and Capone.

Serritella is city sealer for the Thompson administration, Thompson committeeman for the First ward and a state senator, besides being known as an ally of Al Capone.

Earlier, the name of the Rev. George L. Whitmeyer, ousted chaplain of the Joliet penitentiary, had been brought into the investigation again. W. C. Jones of Streator, chairman of the parole board, asserted that Whitmeyer seemed to have ill feeling toward the board and intimated that he was disappointed because the board refused to let out two rapists for whom he had interceded.

Reveal Chaplain as Ex-Convict.

It was made known yesterday, although not at the official hearing in the Joliet penitentiary, that the Rev. Mr. Whitmeyer is himself a former convict, having served 12 months in Elmira reformatory, New York, for automobile theft, and six months more for violation of parole. He has been a storm center through the whole inquiry, his charges of brutality by guards having been met by assertions on the part of some of them that he helped foment the riots by asserting that the prison "needed a good one."

Shortly after the name of Serritella had been tossed into the prison parole investigation, Representative McCaskrin added that of another state senator, James J. Harbour [Rep., Evanston], as a seeker of favors from the board.

Questioned by Legislator.

"Senator Harbour has good success with you, doesn't he?" the representative demanded of Cannon. "How many men have you paroled for him?"

"We paroled Jake Goldman at his request," replied Cannon.

"Barbour can reach you for anybody," declared Representative McCaskrin.

"Not any more than I can reach you," said Cannon. The controversy went on, as follows:

McCASKRIN—I said it and I'll say it anywhere.

CANNON—I'm going to take care of Cannon.

McCASKRIN—I'll say you'll take care of Cannon. You have no heart in you.

CANNON—What do you know about Barbour? I never saw you in my life before.

McCASKRIN—This is the way you try prisoners, isn't it?

Refers to Convicts' Charges.

This reference was to charges that had been made by convict witnesses that the parole board habitually spoke to them contemptuously and roughly in hearings. Representative Little [Rep., Urbana], chairman of the committee, induced McCaskrin to take his seat. But another committeeman, Representative M. E. Bray [Dem., Litchfield] took up the attack on the parole board.

"Let me continue this," he demanded. "I have something to say to this man and I'll say it, too."

Cannon, without giving him a chance to talk, spoke out sharply:

"I'll tell you about Bray's complaint. He was interested in a prisoner against whom there were eight charges of burglary. This man had committed an additional crime while he was out on bail. After he had been committed to Pontiac reformatory it developed that he was the father of the expected child of a girl under 16 years old. That constituted statutory rape."

Tells of Prison Marriage.

When Bray insisted that there was a discrepancy about the age of the convict, and that he was in fact under 16, Cannon asserted that the youth's statement as to his age was accepted

VETERAN OF CITY HALL ENDS LIFE; $20,000 TO CHARITY

Missing since Jan. 28, Frank O. Dryer, 60 years old, 239 West 64th street, a retired city hall employé, was found dead yesterday in a vacant second story flat at 6149 Wentworth avenue. He had committed suicide by hanging, and had been dead at least six weeks.

With the finding of the body, Henry Clay Calhoun of the Central Trust company, executor of Dryer's estate, revealed Dryer had left $20,000. Of this, $20,000 was distributed to four organizations, Englewood Masonic lodge No. 696; the Pullman Manual Training school in Kensington, the Chicago Orphans' home, and the Chicago Y. M. C. A. Two sisters were left $2,000 each, and his divorced wife was given $1,000.

by the board. He added that the parents of the convict had taken the girl to the prison and that a marriage ceremony had been performed there.

"I was trying to get that human factor over to you," said Representative Bray. "The parents of that boy showed the kind of people they were by seeing that there was a marriage. We send boys to Pontiac to reform them. I tried to get you and Chairman Jones to see that boy was reformed. A policeman, an honest man, had agreed to stand sponsor for him and another boy. The future of those three children involved would have been a success. I want this record to show that instead of liberating the prisoners you gave them a year and nine months more of imprisonment."

Incidents like this one had occurred earlier in the day, while Chairman Jones was on the stand. Representative McCaskrin criticized the witness for refusing to answer questions with a plain yes or no. Jones, calm in contrast to Cannon, refused to be swerved in his answers. He defended the actions of the parole board and declared that there was no legal remedy in its keeping for the relief of convicts, even for those discriminated against by the criminal laws.

The proceedings also were enlivened by clashes between Big Joe Moran, a convict serving a sentence of ten years to life for the robbery of a bank in Chicago, and Cannon. Moran charged that the whole trouble at the two prisons, which resulted in the killing of three inmates and the burning of half a million dollars' worth of state property, was due to the parole situation.

Prisoner Attacks Board.

"All the men," said Moran, "believe in the unfairness of the parole board. We never had a board that even wanted to be fair. They always want to make a liar out of everybody.

"Clabaugh (Hinton G. Clabaugh, former chairman of the parole board) knew I was innocent. So did Ward Thompson, a board member, who was killed in an accident. Thompson said he knew I didn't do the crime I was accused of, but that there was so much against me that it didn't matter.

"I bought a parole once from the old board while Will Colvin was chairman. I paid $2,000 to a lawyer to get it for me. Colvin, after trying to keep me in till he got orders from higher up, made the parole read that I would stay out of Illinois for five years. They arrested me when I went back to see my sister.

"They found one parole board man that was taking money not long ago and they didn't do anything about it. Everybody in here knows that if you have money you can get out."

Framed Convict Charges.

Moran said that he had been framed and that a man named as "Big Six" was the one who actually committed the crime. Three others involved in it, he said, had been convicted, but had been paroled and he had served more time than all three combined.

Cannon interrupted Moran at one point to declare that the latter falsified when he said that Cannon sat in at any hearings on his case.

"I never saw him before, but he is a bad man," Cannon said. "We investigated all his charges and we found that John K. Murphy, the prosecutor, believed Moran as guilty as any man ever was. Every convict in this penitentiary, with few exceptions, will claim that he was framed. It is a refreshing relief when one occasionally admits his guilt. We can't pay much attention to men like Moran."

Accuses Prison Keepers.

Moran had declared a little earlier that many of the keepers in the Joliet prison were crooked. One, he said, had given him a mark of 98 on his merit card, which is about the highest ever given.

"But he gave it to me because I stole soap and tobacco out of the stores for him," Moran added. "This man used to mark men whose names he didn't even know. The whole progressive merit system is a joke."

The Rev. Eligius Weir, Roman Catholic chaplain at Stateville, had told the committee he believed that Moran was innocent, and also had charged the board with asking men who requested paroles about their religion. This, in the chaplain's opinion, should not be done.

In answer this, Cannon said that he had asked such questions. Too many of the prisoners, he declared, had given Irish names and registered themselves as Roman Catholics in the belief they would be favored because they evinced interest in religion.

"I wanted to get the truth about these men when I questioned them," he said. "As for Father Weir, he has access only to what the prisoners tell him, and they all tell him they are not guilty."

Cannon indicated his belief that the prison chaplain was not the sort of man who could make an accurate appraisal of the worth of the prisoners. Cannon is himself an official of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Next he took up charges that the board or its subcommittees did not hear the relatives of prisoners or other visitors courteously. All of them, he said, came with vague and useless information like "Johnny was a good boy before he was arrested and he'll be a good one again when he gets out."

"Would you deprive visitors of an opportunity to say a good word for men who want parole?" demanded Representative Bray.

"We listen to them, but we pay no attention to them," replied Cannon, "because we have the facts before us in records."

"I can see it does no good with you," said Mr. Bray dryly.

"We might seem to be hurrying," continued the board member. "We pay close heed to mental and health records. I am a holdover member from the former board and the only one. I give this job all my conscience. I have read all the works on penology and criminology that I could find. No matter what anybody says, I cannot be 'reached' by anybody. These men were sent here for committing crimes. Sentimental sympathy is wasted on them.

Not Harsh, He Asserts.

"The complaint of our abusing prisoners is not true. Board members sometimes fall into the habit of using prison slang to make their meanings clear to the prisoners. But we are not unkind or harsh to them."

Cannon then cited instances to prove that he "had a heart." These included investigations he had made of prisoners' cases when they had no money and were immured in the prison without hope of getting out. In the case of one Glanz he said he had gone to Police Capt. Harding in Chicago to learn that the captain was not convinced of Glanz's guilt of murder.

"That's what I meant," said McCaskrin, adding that he only wanted the board to take that sort of interest in all cases.

"You meant," said the board member, "that Barbour had reached me. You can't treat me as you treated Jones this morning—not in that contemptible manner. When Jake Goldman, the professional Chicago receiver, applied for parole through Senator Barbour I went to Judge Kickham Scanlan and he said he did not care whether Goldman was or was not paroled."

It was Judge Scanlan who conducted the inquiry into the Goldman affair and forced the receiver to turn back hundreds of thousands of dollars to persons from whom the money had been illegally taken.

At 6 o'clock last evening the legislative committee adjourned and a little later took a train for Springfield. There they will study the parole board records. They expect to resume the inquiry at the penitentiary on Friday.

Under Fire of Legislator.

During the morning session Representative McCaskrin accused Chairman Jones of "running a high powered commission" and browbeating prisoners.

"You can't come here and act like you do when you are running that high powered body," said the representative, during the argument over Mr. Jones' manner of answering questions. "You can't browbeat me like you do those prisoners; I'll walk out of the committee first."

Mr. Little and Representative William G. Thon [Rep., Oak Park] soothed the downstate member with remarks that Mr. Jones was only trying to clarify his testimony.

The chairman said that there was no way to reduce the sentences of the convicts imprisoned under the ten year to life for robbery law.

"This objectionable legislation," he said, "was passed and the legislature must accept responsibility for it. The Supreme court has rendered the decision which provides that these prisoners must serve their minimum sentence."

Recalls Protests to Board.

"A wave of antagonism swept over the state in 1929 when it was reported the parole board planned to grant unconditional pardons to 647 robbers in the prisons under the ten to life law. Protests came from all over the state, editorials appeared and officials objected that the parole board was planning a general jail delivery.

"As a matter of fact the board had not considered such a move. We gave no basis for the reports."

Chairman Jones defended the conduct of the board's business, asserting it had heard a total of 3,319 cases in eighteen months. Moreover, he said, it paroled last year 12.43 per cent of the average prison population, as compared with 9.27 per cent in 1928 and 6.72 per cent the year before that. The percentage of paroled men returning to prison was only 14.38 in 1930, the lowest in years, he declared.

Quizzed on Parole System.

Representative Michael L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago] asked Chairman Jones to outline for him the process by which the board decided how long a prisoner should serve when he had been sentenced to one year to life.

He replied that the board reviewed the conviction of the applicant, the statements of the trial judge and the state's attorney, the convict's conduct in prison, his mentality and health, his prospects on the outside, statements from the friends and relatives of the man, and the character of the person to whom he was to be paroled.

Igoe asked the chairman if, as an attorney familiar with criminal practice, he would permit introduction in court of the kind of hearsay evidence that state's attorneys produce before him in his capacity as a parole board member. Jones indicated that he believed such statements were proper and useful in deciding on the advisability of paroles.

Two Convicts Testify.

Two convicts, John Kadow of Chicago and James Penn of Peoria, testified during the morning about the attempted escape on Feb. 22, in which three convicts were killed by the fire of guards.

It was these killings that the Rev. Whitmeyer had characterized as murder. Its effect and the actions of the parole board he characterized as the principal causes of the rioting in the last ten days. Chairman Jones said that Whitmeyer had been a disturbing factor at board meetings. He said he disliked the minister's habit of writing on bits of paper such things as "Looks like a bad actor and would commit murder," together with a convict's name.

Whitmeyer was asked, the chairman said, to destroy these notes, as they might fall into the hands of prisoners and be construed as expressions of parole board members.

Ousted Chaplain Talks.

Whitmeyer, at his home in Joliet last night, said that he was sure when he first called the Washington's birthday killings murder that his past record would be produced. Col. Frank Whipp, superintendent of state prisons, told him, he said, that he would be sorry if he told that story to the investigators.

"I knew what he meant," continued the ousted chaplain. "But what of it? My bishop knows by record. What of the fact that if I had kept quiet nothing would have been done about that murder?"

The crime for which Mr. Whitmeyer was sentenced was the theft of an automobile in Binghamton, N. Y. He and a friend with whom he had returned from war service in France drove to Athens, Pa., where they were arrested on the charge that their car was stolen. They were returned to Binghamton and, according to the clergyman, they were held in jail two months before being sentenced. Mr. Whitmeyer denied throughout the trial he knew the machine was stolen.

Mr. Whitmeyer was paroled from Elmira Nov. 19, 1920, after serving twelve months. On Dec. 28, 1921, he was seized in Chicago for violation, returned to the reformatory, and again paroled in August, 1922. He then began his studies for the ministry.

JANITOR PAY CUT 5%; EMPLOYERS SAVE $864,000

Real Estate Board Wins Reduction.

BY AL CHASE.

Approximately $864,000 annually will be saved Chicago property owners as a result of a reduction of about 5 per cent in the wages of the 8,000 members of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, effective April 1. This was announced yesterday by the Chicago Real Estate board, which effected a scale reduction after two weeks of discussion with union officials.

OSCAR NELSON.

According to Gus van Heck, vice president of the janitors' organization, the average wage of the Chicago janitors is $175. This means the reduction will amount to about $72,000 monthly, or $864,000 a year.

"The Chicago Flat Janitors' union, local No. 1, is accepting this small reduction in order to do what it can to help straighten out the present depression," said Van Heck. "This is the first reduction we've had in 12 years."

Won't Affect Smaller Buildings.

The new schedule will not affect two, three, four, and five flat buildings in their janitor service. Buildings of six flats or over having an average rental up to and including $35 per month per flat will pay $3.60 a month per flat instead of the former $3.75.

Buildings of six flats or more having an average rental of $36 up to and including $59 a month per flat will pay $3.75 per month a flat instead of $4.

All buildings of six flats or more having an average rental of $60 or over a month for each flat will pay at the rate of $3.80 per month per flat for every $60 average rental, and proportionately higher where the rent is above $60.

Buildings of six flats or more having an average rental from $121 per month per flat up to and including $150 per month per flat, shall pay at the rate of $7.60 a month per flat, instead of $8, for the first $120 of the average rental, with proportional additions for higher rentals.

Puts Limit on Wages.

"No wage in excess of $9.25 per month per flat shall be paid on any building containing six flats or more," says the new agreement.

The Chicago Real Estate board committee which negotiated with the janitors' union was made up of Mark Levy, president; Thomas J. Fleming, Arthur Kruggel, and Henry C. Spikerman. Jerry J. Horan, president of the union; C. F. Peters, Van Heck, Gust Anderson, and Attorney Oscar F. Nelson represented the janitors.

BLAST WRECKS DETROIT PLANT; LOSS IS $100,000

Detroit, Mich., March 23.—[Special.]—An explosion and fire wrecked the factory of the Bond Golf Ball company on McGraw avenue at 11:30 o'clock tonight, set fire to nine houses in the neighborhood, demolished windows in homes, shattered the rear of the McGraw hotel, hurling guests from their beds, and shook the city. Two persons were slightly burned. The damage was $100,000. Back fire from a boiler set fire to naphtha being used to clean sheets of rubber.

Three Families Routed by Apartment Blaze

Three families living in an apartment building at 1659 South Homan avenue, fled to the street last night when fire which started on the rear first floor porch spread to the kitchens on all the three floors. Leo Weinstein, one of the occupants, was slightly injured while breaking in a door. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

GERMANY STANDS PAT ON AUSTRIAN CUSTOMS UNION

Allies to Discuss Action in Paris Today.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 23.—Unmoved by the protest of Czecho-Slovakia and diplomatic inquiries by France and Italy, Germany and Austria tonight pushed forward their project to unite the 70,000,000 Germans in the two nations as an economic bloc. The protocol for the customs union, which will tear down the traffic barriers between the two nations, was made public by the German government.

The bulk of the German press today hailed the Austro-German tariff agreement as the first "independent step Germany has made since the day of the defeat of 1918," and the "first gap in the wall of high customs tariffs with which the European states are stifling trade and committing commercial suicide." Despite the storm of protest which has arisen in the allied countries the Germans are confident that their legal experts took the necessary precautions to make the customs agreement air tight.

Envoys Call on Curtius.

At noon the French, English, and Italian ambassadors called on Foreign Minister Curtius on his invitation. Dr. Curtius handed the ambassadors the text of the Austro-German protocol. The text was also presented by German representatives to the foreign offices of France, England, Italy, and other neighboring powers.

Dr. Curtius stressed that "this is an open agreement for sounder economic relations, in which any of our neighbors who are interested may join. We believe it corresponds to the ideas of better economic relations among European powers which have been advocated by the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand. Representatives of the European nations in the league of nations are now in Paris to discuss plans similar, if not identical, to those we have agreed upon with Austria."

Briand Notified Some Time Ago.

Circles close to the foreign office stress the fact that M. Briand was informed of the Austro-German negotiations by Dr. Curtius when they met at Geneva during the recent league of nations meeting.

Personally M. Briand is said to have approved of the plan, but he feared that Czecho-Slovakia and Poland would raise violent objections. Berlin believes it is for the sake of these projects that France has asked Austria for the details of the agreement.

German officials declare that one of Poland's chief objections to the agreement is the fear that the 800,000 hogs which she formerly exported to Vienna will now be purchased in Germany, where pigs from Austria will enter duty free as soon as the tariff readjustments are carried out.

A number of German industries fear competition of Austrian goods, such as knitted wear, embroideries and lumber, which would enter Germany duty free under the agreement.

Czech Negotiations Collapse.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, March 23.—The official Czecho-Slovak delegation which came to Vienna last Thursday to negotiate in the name of the Czecho-Slovakian government a new trade agreement with Austria, returned to Prague today without further discussions with the Austrian officials. It is understood that the action of the delegation expresses the resentment felt by Czecho-Slovakia over the Austrian procedure in connection with the new customs agreement with Germany.

After the German foreign minister, Dr. Julius Curtius, had paid his recent visit to Vienna, it is understood that Hugo Vavrecka, Czech minister here, inquired of Johann Schober, Austrian foreign minister, whether tariff matters had been discussed and received assurance that they had not.

Before the Prague delegation took its departure for Vienna it is understood the Czech minister, having heard something was in the wind, asked whether there was any reason why it should not come here as planned. He again received assurance that there was nothing to prevent it. Consequently, the Czecho-Slovak delegation came, heard and went away, none too pleased.

M. Vavrecka today made the following statement on the proposed agreement:

"It is difficult to express an opinion at the moment on the Austro-German negotiations, as their object still is not precisely known. It is well known that the semi-official announcements from Berlin and Vienna differ greatly. According to the Berlin version it is a customs union, but in Vienna they still speak of an agreement concerning customs and commercial conditions. The attitude of the Czecho-Slovakian government can thus first assume definite form only when the aims of both government are revealed.

"Czecho-Slovakia, as always, regards sympathetically any effort to reconstruct the European economic system, but believes that only a general agreement of all the states concerned could result in successful European coöperation, while every separate action would be only a compromise. It is particularly important that all political plans be omitted from economic coöperation, and that the disputed questions which characterized the war should not be revived.

"Regarding Austria, Czecho-Slovakia has assumed certain treaty obligations which make it impossible for her to negotiate an exceptional regime falling outside the framework of the usual commercial treaties without first consulting the other signatory powers."

FACES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

MRS. JUNE GUETHLEIN (JUNE MAC CLOY).

Charges Neglect

Cincinnati, O., March 23.—(AP)—June MacCloy, 21, actress, was sued for divorce here today by Wilbur Guethlein, 28, Cincinnati, representative of a moving picture corporation, who alleged his wife refused to give up her career and declined to live with him. He charged gross neglect of duty. The actress' legal name is Mrs. June Mary Guethlein. Her address was recorded in Domestic Relations court as "Paramount Studios, Hollywood, Cal."

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 23.—[Special.]—A party named Lewis Facio was arrested here yesterday by Al Franco, the local Philo Vance, because he (Señor Facio) attempted to kiss the detective on the street. The latter took him to the station and was charging him with being drunk, when he leaned over and kissed the desk sergeant, after which he was rudely locked up in a cell. This seems rather harsh treatment for a man who was probably just trying to show friendship for the constabulary. It may blight a budding entent cordiale between common people and cops, and I sincerely hope it is not used as a precedent around New York, because when I am there I occasionally drive a car and I know that sooner or later I will be unable to resist a lifelong urge to jump out and kiss a traffic policeman. RING LARDNER.

UP FOR DEBATE TODAY

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 23.—The first real showdown on whether Europe will remain permanently the crazy quilt left by the peace treaties will come tomorrow when delegates from the European nations meet here to discuss Aristide Briand's European union scheme. The committee will debate whether they will tolerate the proposed economic union of Austria and Germany, or what they can do about it if they will not.

A special meeting of the French cabinet, presided over by President Doumergue, was called today to discuss the situation, and it is understood that Foreign Minister Briand was told in no uncertain terms that he would be allowed to make no further concessions to Germany and Austria. Later M. Briand summoned the Polish foreign minister, August Zaleski, for a long conference. Numerous interpellations from all parties will undoubtedly be introduced in the chamber of deputies tomorrow, and M. Briand appears to be in for a bad week.

Britain Key to Situation.

Great Britain is considered to be the key to the whole situation. Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, arrived here tonight and early tomorrow morning, before the opening of the Pan-European session, he will see M. Briand. The course of European politics for the next few years may hang on that meeting.

A political and economic feud which would be an open sore in the European body politic for an unpredictable number of years might ensue if the French persist in their stand that the Austro-German agreement violates the treaties of Trianon and St. Germain and they receive no support from the English.

Peace is expected to be restored if the British strongly back up the French and participate in a financial blockade, which observers declare inevitably would bring Austria to terms.

Briand May Approve.

On the other hand, if the British succeed in persuading the French to back down on their stand a new era would open for Europe, and it is declared that it would be only a question of months before the treaty of Versailles would be a dead letter.

There remains one other course. Since Germany and Austria pulled a fast one on M. Briand by working through his own United States of Europe project to legitimatize their union, M. Briand, it is said, may turn the tables on them by approving the new customs agreement and demanding that it be applied to the rest of Europe without delay.

Judge Annuls Marriage, Holds Child Legitimate

Los Angeles, Cal., March 23.—[Special.]—Although a Mexican marriage may be illegal the children born of such a marriage are legitimate, according to Judge Leon Yankwich's ruling today, annulling the nuptials of Louis Milovich and Hannah Caspo Milovich, who were wed at Tia Juana on Jan. 7, 1930. The judge declared an infant son, Louis, to be legitimate.

SPAIN TO GRANT LENIENCY TO SIX REVOLT LEADERS

Given Sentence, but Will Be Released.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 23.—The revolutionary chieftains of last December's abortive revolt, headed by Alcala Zamora, who was named "provisional president of the Spanish republic" by the enemies of King Alfonso, will walk out of prison tomorrow.

ALCALA ZAMORA.

The supreme tribunal of the army and navy today set the penalty for Zamora and five other civilian leaders of the revolt at six months and a day in prison. The rebel chieftains are considered to have served more than half of their term already during the thirteen weeks they have spent behind the bars, and on recommendation of the court martial the government is prepared to grant them conditional liberty. The papers will be signed upon the king's return from London tomorrow.

The men will be released between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning to avoid a demonstration by crowds of supporters at the prison gates.

Students Riot in Madrid.

Students and Socialists were the first to profit today by the complete restoration of constitutional guarantees, which had been suspended since 1923, and the raising of the censorship. The former rioted in Madrid, and the latter issued a violent manifesto calling on their 300,000 to 500,000 followers, the only organized political group in Spain today, to rise against the monarchy and say it with ballots on April 12.

Students at Central university rioted in protest against electoral posters which the monarchical unions had slapped over night on the walls of the school. They burned them, made subversive speeches and uttered wild cries, generally uncomplimentary to King Alfonso. The police were handicapped in their efforts to quell the disturbance by a law forbidding their entrance into the university.

Liberals Bid for Power.

Their alliance with Santiago Alba and his left wing liberals complete, the constitutionalists tomorrow will issue a declaration of faith, amounting to a summons to the king to call them to power. The constitutionalists bloc has been considerably strengthened by Alba and wants to take up where Sanchez Guerra failed and call a truly constitutional assembly. They appear to be counting on the king to surrender anew before the municipal elections are held in April.

The plan now is that Melquiades Alvarez would head the ministry which, like the projected Guerra ministry, would be national and not royal. It would obtain the tacit coöperation of the Republican element, and have Alba as minister of state to guarantee to the king that he would get a square deal in the assembly which will decide between a monarchy or a republic.

U. S. Flyer Battles Sharks Five Days; Rescued by Ship

Verne Warren Harshman, United States navy pilot, who disappeared on March 17 during naval flying exercises off the coast of Colombia, arrived safely yesterday at Buenaventura, Colombia, aboard a coastwise vessel which found him drifting at sea. Pilot Harshman tells of his adventures in the following story:

BY VERNE W. HARSHMAN.
[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

BUENAVENTURA, Colombia, March 23.—While flying last Tuesday with other pilots of the squadron to which I am attached, near the main body of the fleet, which was about 36 hours' steaming south of the Panama canal, my auxiliary tank ran dry while we were going through a cloud bank.

The clouds had become thick since we had left the U. S. S. Langley earlier in the morning, and during the time it took me to get gas pressure on my main gas tank and to get my motor started again, I lost altitude and lost sight of the rest of the squadron.

I circled below the clouds for a few minutes and then climbed up above them, but I could see no other planes.

Comes Down on Water.

Then I went down below again and made a scouting circuit, first to the right and then to the left, trying to get back to my original starting point, for I figured I couldn't be very far from the fleet.

Still I didn't see any ships, so I flew up-wind for ten minutes and set her down on the water because my gas supply was getting very low. I put out the flotation gear with which the plane was equipped and it functioned properly. This was about 11 a. m. on Tuesday.

It started to rain hard right after I landed and the visibility, of course, was very poor. I got out the rubber lifeboat on top of the upper wing, put in a canteen of water, a signal pistol, and a red flag.

Plane Sinks; He Abandons It.

About 3 o'clock Tuesday night the left wing flotation bag deflated and the wing went under. I saw that she could not stay afloat much longer, so I inflated the rubber lifeboat and launched it; tying up to the fuselage so I could stick with the plane as long as possible.

About 2 a. m. on Wednesday I heard the air hissing out of the right flotation tank, so I shoved off and the plane sank quickly.

Wednesday was overcast, with much rain. I sighted nothing, but estimated my general drift at about two knots northeast.

Thursday and Friday were uneventful, and all my sensations of hunger had gone. I conserved my strength, not bothering to use the oars, but I was sopping wet from the rain, which poured down without a letup.

Sights Ship; It Misses Him.

On Saturday the visibility got better and at about 8:30 p. m. I sighted a ship fairly close on the port side, heading south. I shot off all the red stars I had but they didn't notice them so I heaved the pistol overboard.

Sunday was clear. At 8 a. m. I sighted a Pan-American Airways plane bound north and flying low, but she was too far away to see me.

Then about 15 minutes past noon I saw in the distance a steamer coming my way. I broke out the oars and rowed over right into her path. She picked me up at 12:30.

As soon as I got aboard I tried to radio the canal station, but the ship's outfit was too weak to reach more than fifty miles.

Oh, Yes; Sharks Worried Him.

The ship was the Cerigo of the Hamburg-American line, and no other ship in the world will ever look so good to me. The officers treated me splendidly.

Now that I think it over, I remember that during the first couple of days I was sort of worried about the sharks which tried to tip me out of my lifeboat several times, but after a while I got used to them.

CALLS FOR BIDS ON OUTER DRIVE BRIDGE PROJECT

Hugh E. Young, consulting engineer for the Lincoln park and south park boards, called for bids yesterday on the construction of the substructure and superstructure of the $10,000,000 outer drive bridge across the mouth of the Chicago river.

Mr. Young and parks officials took action as a result of the war department's approval recently of the harbor line between the river and Randolph street. The south park commissioners will use their acquired riparian rights to create new land, part of which will be given to the Illinois Central railroad for tracks in exchange for a strip of property on which Field boulevard will be extended to the south bank of the river.

The contract for which bids were asked yesterday has no reference to the approaches to the bridge. The Lincoln park commissioners let contracts for the north approach from Grand avenue some time ago and this work is nearing completion.

ALL U. S. FACING CRIME TEST, VIEW OF PROSECUTORS

Visitors Paint Menace to Metropolitan Areas.

Prosecuting attorneys from the four corners of the country met here yesterday at the call of State's Attorney Swanson to take measures against the rising tide of crime, a tide which, judging from the statements of the visitors concerning lawlessness back home, is threatening to engulf the nation.

Chicago, often described as the crime capital of America, was relegated to obscurity on the crime map as prosecutors from Los Angeles, Seattle, Kansas City, Minneapolis, New Orleans, and Detroit recited their individual troubles and argued remedies.

A National Crisis.

There were bitter complaints of crooked police and politico-criminal alliances in the various metropolitan communities, interspersed with descriptions of highwaymen and gangsters engaging in carnivals of machine gun murder. Basing their judgment on a summary of their own experiences, the visiting prosecutors agreed that a crisis is at hand.

Among the few large cities lacking representation were New York and Pittsburgh, the former being now in the midst of a lurid investigation of vice and graft and the latter city facing a probe of the same character. Thomas C. T. Crain, Tammany district attorney of New York, sent regrets, explaining that his whole staff was extremely busy at home. No word came from the Pittsburgh prosecutor.

Mr. Swanson, presiding as chairman, sat silent for the most part as the other big city prosecutors poured out their woes. Discussion was led by District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles, who established a reputation on the coast by sending his predecessor, Asa Keyes, to prison for malfeasance in office.

Plan National Action.

"I needn't say much about Chicago conditions," Mr. Swanson had explained. "You are probably familiar with our troubles, as they have been broadcast pretty thoroughly."

Out of the meeting came a unanimous agreement on a single program. The prosecutors agreed that they must cease to deal with crime as a purely local problem, but must unite to fight their nationally organized foemen on their own terms.

Bearing in mind the sentiment of the meeting, an organizing committee of seven prosecutors spent the dinner hour setting up a skeleton organization, intended to form the nucleus of a national association of prosecutors. The setup calls for establishment of a so-called "liaison bureau," appointment of a permanent paid secretary to direct the bureau, and election of committees on legislation, liaison and publicity.

Members of the organization committee are: Eugene Stanley, district attorney of New Orleans; James R. Page, prosecuting attorney, Kansas City, Mo.; R. M. Burgunder, prosecuting attorney, Seattle; Edward J. Goff, county attorney, Minneapolis; Fred S. Holbrook, assistant district attorney, Rochester, N. Y.; Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles, and Mr. Swanson. Their recommendations will be submitted to the general meeting this morning.

Seek Active Bureau.

Under the proposed setup, Mr. Fitts said, the organization will function every day in the year, with the executive secretary conducting the liaison bureau as a clearing house for legal and criminal information. The legislative committee, he went on, will sponsor needed legislation in both state and federal branches, and the publicity committee is expected to mobilize public opinion in support of such legislation.

It was the Minneapolis prosecutor, Mr. Goff, who brought out most graphically the seriousness of the crime situation. Citing statistics he said he gleaned from the report of the Hoover law enforcement commission, Mr. Goff declared the American army of crime now numbers 500,000 and is increasing 25 per cent annually."

"Not Speaking of Chicago."

A trustworthy police official had recently told him, Mr. Goff said, that 600 submachine guns had been traced into one city during one year.

"Imagine 600 of these guns in the hands of thugs in one city," he cried. "What chance has the average citizen got? And I'm not speaking of Chicago."

Mr. Goff concluded with a suggestion that the sale of firearms be curbed by placing shipments under jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission.

Up rose Prosecutor Page of Kansas City with an objection. Down in western Missouri, said Mr. Page, the people had been brought up with pistols and were accustomed to carry them from the time they were old enough to wear hip pockets.

The Kansas City prosecutor doubted the wisdom, he said, of trying to check crime by resolutions and additional legislation. He didn't believe "you can stop murder by forbidding the good citizen from carrying a gun and explaining that the law would try to keep the holdup man disarmed also."

Charges Police Are Bandits.

"I didn't bring my police chief down here with me," he explained. "There are as many bandits on the force as off it. I say that publicly, not alone in Chicago, but in Kansas City, as I've told them many a time."

That crime is a national rather than a local problem was also emphasized by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson in addressing the visitors at a banquet last night.

"There are gorillas, killing for hire, in New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, and St. Louis and, although I don't know much about the west coast, I presume you have them also in Los Angeles," the federal prosecutor said, turning to Mr. Fitts. The California prosecutor nodded in agreement.

"While the police are fairly able in meeting ordinary crimes of violence, I think I can say they have utterly failed to cope with the lawless mobs who send their hired killers from city to city to assassinate the men pointed out to them."

Mrs. Swanson is acting as hostess to the wives of the visiting prosecutors.

MRS. HAVEMEYER'S ART GIFTS TO NEW YORK VALUED AT $3,489,000

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—The late Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer's gift of paintings and other art objects to the Metropolitan Museum of Art was appraised today by Deputy State Tax Commissioner Stephenson at $3,489,461. Her son, Horace, under the terms of the will gave objects worth $311,711, including probably the world's most noted print, Rembrandt's "Christ Healing the Sick," worth $20,000.

Mrs. Havemeyer, whose estate included nine noted Rembrandt paintings, gave six of them, including "The Gilder," appraised at $275,000, to the museum and retained "The Treasurer," worth $225,000; "Portrait of a Man," $200,000, and "Portrait of Himself," worth $50,000.

Mrs. Havemeyer's art constituted slightly more than a third of her estate.

WENDEL HOARD OF 100 MILLIONS GOES TO CHARITY

Hospitals, Churches, and Chinese Missions.

Koss, dean of the Wendel lawyers, who is given the property at Broadway and 50th street, running for 100 feet along the richest road in the world.

No mention is made of Tobey, the last of the family of white poodles of that name, to provide a playground for which the Wendels clung to the yard of the Fifth avenue house, rejecting offers of millions. A last verbal request that Tobey be cared for in the Wendel country home was said to have been made of the Koss family.

A Human Touch.

It was to Isabel G. Koss, daughter of the old attorney and long a family friend, that Ella Wendel spoke as woman to woman in her will. Miss Koss received the large family estate at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, where the Wendels spent their summers and where the long line of Tobeys is buried on a hillside.

"I give and bequeath to Isabel G. Koss . . . my sterling silver tea set and sterling silver tray made by Tiffany & Co.," wrote the prim old lady in 1929. Earlier Miss Wendel had bequeathed the country home and "all the furniture of every description in the house" to Miss Koss, adding:

"While I do not impose any binding conditions, it is my earnest wish that said property be not disposed of by her but that it be held and occupied by her as a residence, or, in case it should not be so occupied by her, that it be leased by her for residential purposes. . . . Realizing it will require a large income to properly maintain the property devised to Isabel G. Koss . . . I also bequeath to her the property known as No. 1 Beaver street."

Thus it was that the bedrock on which the offices of the Standard Oil company rest in lower Manhattan was put to serve as the means of insuring the warming of the Wendel home by friendly habitation.

That Miss Wendel felt she had no blood relatives is indicated by the fact that Mr. Shirk is the only person of any relationship mentioned in the will. Several servants received cash in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $20,000 and specific cash bequests are also made to several institutions.

Five institutions are to have thirty-five each, or a total of 175 of the 200 parts into which the residuary estate is to be divided. One is Drew, which was a theological seminary at the time the will was drawn but which now is a university. The thirty-five shares represent approximately $17,500,000.

The four others receiving a similar are Flower hospital, St. Christopher's Home for Children at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., the New York Society for the Relief of Ruptured and Crippled, and the Nankin, China, Theological seminary.

The total bequests to Methodist institutions and churches total $37,500,000.

May Tear Down Old Home.

Decision tonight had not formally been reached about the disposition of the Fifth avenue home bequeathed to Drew university. It was said, however, that the trustees are expected to vote at their next meeting to tear down the old mansion and lease the property for building purposes.

The executors are Charles G. Koss, Isabel Koss, and George Stanley Shire.

With the vast real estate holdings of the family to be disposed of, months may elapse before the will finally is probated, the executors pointed out in a forty page petition filed with the will.

Meanwhile claimants to shares in the wealth as hitherto unknown relatives of the family were making their preparations to establish what they assert to be their rights. The latest to come forward is Alexander Wendel of Jeffersonville, Ind. His claim is that his grandfather was a brother of Miss Ella's grandfather.

Woman Also Claimant.

In Providence, R. I., Mrs. Mable Haywood, "a poverty stricken widow," was ready to step forward as the "granddaughter" of the late John G. Wendel, reinforcing her claim with a yellowing slip of paper purporting to attest the marriage of the supposed bachelor to her grandmother, Hanna Holy, in East Greenwich, N. Y., in July, 1855.

These and other claims failed to disturb the calm of the Wendel lawyers this afternoon. They are willing to hear the grounds for any claim, but they are quite certain that there are no hitherto unknown relatives of the Wendel family who have rights to a share of the estate.

HERE ARE CHARITIES AND CHURCHES GIVEN WENDEL MILLIONS

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—Here is how the residuary estate, valued at $100,000,000, of Ella Virginia von Echtzel Wendel is to be distributed under her will.

HOLDS STATE TAX ANTICIPATION WARRANTS VALID

But Carlstrom Hopes Illinois Won't Try Them.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 23.—[Special.]—Illinois may issue tax anticipation warrants to meet its financial crisis—which threatens to empty the state treasury in another three weeks — but if it does it will become the first American commonwealth to be driven to such an expediency.

OSCAR CARLSTROM. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Attorney General Carlstrom held that the warrants may be issued in an opinion sent Gov. Emmerson today. The constitution does not prohibit it, he wrote; at the same time he voiced the hope that it can be avoided in order that the custom may not be established. The danger, he said, is that the state may ultimately find itself "in the same unhappy predicament in which many of the taxing bodies of the state now are found, where the anticipation of taxes has been carried to the extent of imposing a tremendous additional tax burden."

State Auditor Nelson says that by April 15, the general funds will be so depleted that pay rolls cannot be met and the University of Illinois in dire straits over money shortness. The delay in collecting 1928 and 1929 taxes in Cook county, which amount to $10,000,000, is at the roots of the trouble.

On Third Reading Today.

Tomorrow morning an administration bill to give authority to the officers of the state to issue the tax warrants will be on third reading in the house of representatives. It must receive 102 votes as an emergency measure and the assembly leaders predict tonight that it will pass. The plans are to introduce it in the senate tomorrow afternoon and rush it through this week. In that event a test case to determine its legality will be brought in the Illinois Supreme court in the April term.

"It is my conclusion," the Carlstrom opinion read, "that the proviso in section 18 of article IV. of the constitution is a limitation upon the power of the state to incur indebtedness. The courts of this state have held that tax anticipation warrants against taxes of current or preceding years, actually levied and extended, do not constitute indebtedness within the meaning of the constitutional limitation.

No Bar in Constitution.

"There would, therefore, appear to be no bar in the constitution against the issuance by the state of anticipation warrants against any tax levied by the state and in process of collection, where the requirements of the law . . . have been complied with.

"I cannot transmit this opinion without expressing my personal views on the matter of policy involved and to express the earnest hope that such action may be avoided. While some of the states o fthe Union have resorted to the issuance of certificates of indebtedness for minor and temporary failures in revenue, this will be the first instance where any sovereign states of the Union has resorted to tax anticipation warrants.

Carlson Suggests Substitute.

"May I suggest that, if the state treasurer would request the immediate forwarding to the state of all balances due it from these sources, by the county treasurers, and if further request were made upon the county collectors of taxes that they remit immediately, a substantial portion, if not all of the state taxes already collected in the 101 counties downstate, on the 1930 assessment, and a similar request to the treasurer of Cook county, the collectors and treasurers being receipted therefor, to be credited on the final settlement for such taxes, that from these sources the revenue in the general fund of the state may probably be augmented sufficiently to carry the state over the period from April 15 to June 1 or June 15, during which, according to the state auditor, the deficit may continue, and thereby such deficit can be met without resort to anticipation warrants."

SHOWS COST TO CHICAGO.

The policy of borrowing funds on tax anticipation warrants, which, Attorney General Carlstrom held yesterday, can legally be adopted by the state government, cost the taxpayers of Chicago more than $15,000,000 in interest between 1920 and 1927, according to the latest available figures.

The amounts of warrants issued during the eight year period by the city administration and the annual interest charges were approximately as follows:

	Warrants issued.	Interest.
1920	$39,159,000	$1,628,179
1921	50,792,000	1,753,164
1925	51,760,000	2,075,022
1923	53,400,000	2,028,969
1924	52,580,000	1,810,359
1925	54,115,000	1,796,894
1926	65,152,000	1,803,573
1927	71,037,000	2,469,005
	$437,975,000	$15,365,469

The statistics in the table do not include the interest cost of warrants issued by the county which, it is estimated, average $300,000 annually, nor the figures for either the city or county during the last three years.

TRACK ELEVATION CAVES IN AT CANAL

Trains Rerouted

North Shore and Rapid Transit trains were rerouted yesterday over a temporary trestle near Central street, Evanston, because of the collapse Sunday of more than 500 tons of earth and concrete walls which supported part of the new elevated structure being built just south of the sanitary canal. The damaged stretch leads to the bridge over the canal, and had been in use for a month prior to the accident. A peculiarity of the cave-in was that it left about 100 feet of track suspended without any intervening supports.

600 OF WORLD'S TINIEST REPUBLIC OF 3,000 STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANDORRA, Andorra, March 23.—Six hundred of Andorra's population of 3,000, who quit as mountaineers and took jobs at the government power plant, went on a strike today when refused higher wages and returned to the mountains. The result was fighting with numerous casualties.

The refusal of a wage increase was the culmination of a series of recent "humiliations" allegedly at the hands of Spain and France, which exercise joint suzerainty over the world's smallest "republic." The French prefect, who actually governs Andorra in the name of President Doumergue, refused to permit a lottery suggested by two Australians by which the Andorrans saw prospects of making easy money at the expense of the British and American gambling public.

WIFE BEATER IS GIVEN 10 LASHES BY MARYLAND

Baltimore, Md., March 23.—(AP)—John Kowalski, a blacksmith convicted of beating his ailing wife, was given ten lashes with a cat o' nine tails by Sheriff Joseph Deegan in the city jail today.

Kowalski was the third man to undergo the punishment in Maryland in eleven years.

Afterward Kowalski left the jail in a friend's automobile, the remainder of a 30 day additional sentence having been suspended by Judge O'Dunne on the condition that he become reconciled with his wife.

Kowalski is about 40 and brawny. The leather thongs produced only red and white streaks on his back. Judge O'Dunne had expressly ordered that the rare penalty be exacted "without brutality," and some of the spectators called Sheriff Deegan's blows mere "love taps."

Testimony at Kowalski's trial was that he had beaten his wife 40 times in their 17 years of married life.

300 Jobless Take Protest to Town Hall of Suburb

Three hundred unemployed men, residents of Melrose Park, gathered in front of the village hall yesterday to protest against the use of laborers brought from Ohio and Iowa in the elevation of the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line railway. Last night the village board incorporated their plea in a resolution requesting the aid of the country board, Gov. Emmerson's relief commission, and the railroad officials in persuading the contractors to employ local labor.

REVEAL SHAKY STATUS OF BANK AT MALLOY TRIAL

The closed Lawrence Avenue National bank was in a precarious condition as early as March, 1930, and its financial status grew steadily worse until its purported holdup on last New Year's day. This was testified to yesterday by A. P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner of the Seventh district, in the trial before Federal Judge Wham of John E. Malloy, former assistant cashier, who is charged with embezzling $60,000.

The opening address to the jury and cross-examination of Mr. Leyburn by Attorney William F. Waugh disclosed that the defense will emphasize the alleged slipshod manner in which the bank was operated. Attorney Waugh charged that the bank should have been closed in March and that it was permitted to remain open only because of the examiners' ambition not to have a national bank closed under their administration.

"The bank was conducted in a loose and negligent manner and Malloy is just being made the goat in this case by the government," said Attorney Waugh.

Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West declared that his evidence would show false entries on the part of Malloy and that the defendant had knowledge of the contents of some of the safe deposit boxes which were looted in the purported holdup of a total of $70,000 in cash and valuables.

"He knew the examiners would be there to audit the books before a proposed consolidation with another bank, and he knew that his defalcations would be discovered," said Mr. West. "That is what prompted him to stage the holdup."

Mr. Leyburn testified that an examination of the bank in October revealed an actual loss of $55,000 and some $30,000 in "questionable paper."

The chief examiners said he told the directors that they would have to make up the shortage, sell or consolidate the bank, or close up. He told of about two dozen meetings held in his office with a view of reorganization and said that Darby Day, chairman of the board, attended only one or two of them.

The series of fêtes and commemorative masses, which are to last for eight days, started yesterday with a mass-meeting in Govan hall, Wilson avenue and Broadway. George Depasta, consul general for Greece in Chicago, is chairman of the committee in charge.

Keep the weather out

There's quite a sting in the Spring winds. They bring the danger of chilled muscles being strained by the first-of-the-season swings. Protect yourself. You need a chamois slipon, a featherweight suede windbreaker, a suede coat, a light under sweater or perhaps a heavy sweater.

Then your feet should be kept dry and warm with suitable hose and shoes.

We have everything the golfer needs in clothes, clubs, equipment and accessories. Come in and fit yourself out for the new season.

STATE TO START BROTHERS TRIAL EVIDENCE TODAY

Hint Identification Will Be Chief Issue.

man is guilty and not whether ten other people were there at the time—is that right? A.—Yes.

Q.—The fact that an indictment charging another man with being accessory to the murder—the indictment for murder and accessory to murder being the same——.

At this point Attorney Krum objected to the question and the lawyers went up to the bench to argue this point.

Objection Is Sustained.

"Mr. Krum himself brought in that point about the accessory indictment several days ago and I have a right to refer to it," Mr. Brooks said.

Judge Sabath sustained the objection. The state's attorney returned to his questions:

Q.—I believe the judge will instruct you on motive, that the state is not obliged to prove what sent him or caused him to commit the act, if we prove that he did the act, beyond reasonable doubt. If we prove that the defendant did this act, is that all you require us to show you? The Supreme court has said that it is absolutely unessential to prove motive, if the act is proved. Will you hesitate to sign a verdict under this? A.—No, sir.

Q.—If the judge asks you to decide this case and no other, will you go outside the evidence? Q.—No, sir.

Q.—Will you wipe the slate clean, put out all prejudicial articles, all that you may have read? A.—Yes, sir.

Dispose of Legal Questions.

After the jury had been sworn and led away to their quarters, the next question to be settled was the request of newspapers photographers for a picture of the twelve. Judge Sabath decided this by saying that he would leave it with the jurors, that if one objected there would be no picture. There were no objections.

Mr. Krum then told the court that he had a few matters of law that he wished to argue. This developed into a conversation in front of the bench in which the attorneys took part. The defense asked first for subpoenas for records of THE TRIBUNE, for Col. R. R. McCormick, for the records of the Willoughby company, controlling the Temple building, and for the records of the Congress and Del Prado hotels.

Judge Sabath said that he had notified counsel some time ago to keep the records mentioned intact, until such time as they were wanted, that he did not want to burden people with subpoenas until such time as the material was needed, and the question of its materiality had been decided.

Court Says Law Is Plain.

Mr. Krum next brought up the question of the St. Louis record of Brothers. He wanted an agreement to keep any reference to this away from the jury. The court said that the law on this was plain and he did not think the state would step outside the law.

"All this is based on the assumption that the state desires to do something unlawful," said Mr. Brooks. "If the jury finds a guilty verdict in this case, the state has every desire to preserve a record for the Supreme court."

"We don't want any quarrels in the presence of the jury," warned the judge, reminding the defense that they were in court to cross-examine state witnesses if they thought they were not telling the truth.

"The state will confine itself to what they expect to prove. I want to give the state and defense a fair trial here."

Mr. Krum brought up the question of character witnesses for Brothers, seeking an agreement that the state would not go into his client's history in St. Louis through this loophole. He would confine the questioning here to Brothers' Chicago reputation since the summer of 1929, when he came here from St. Louis as a fugitive from a taxicab murder.

The court reminded him that if the general question of character was gone into by the defense this would open the door for the state. No agreements were made between state and defense on this point. The defense attorneys said later that they would have about twenty-five witnesses, some of them character witnesses and some eye-witnesses to the crime.

Those on the jury are:

Edward J. Brown, 541 North Troy street, employé of the billboard advertising department of the Standard Oil company.

Herman Crotzer, 1517 East 67th street, a machinist formerly employed by the Interstate Iron and Steel company.

Frank Edgeworth, 6343 Anthony avenue, a machinist employed by the Railway Car and Equipment company.

Walter W. Graff, 1847 Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, foreman at the Western Electric company.

Herman Isaacsson, 3562 Palmer street, employé of the Peck & Hill Furniture company.

Kelsey Stone, 9048 South Lathrop avenue, Forest Park, a glasscutter.

Jacob M. Schlosser, 3750 Sunnyside avenue, an employé of the Autopoint Pencil company.

David Tateel, 2031 Summerdale avenue, an accountant.

Lars Aadnesen, 1451 North Luna avenue, a painter.

Philip Hagerman, 906 North Karlov avenue, a motorman on the surface lines for 22 years.

Edward Larsen, 611 East 75th street, a carpenter.

OUSTED N. Y. RECTOR WHO BACKED LINDSAY PICKETS BISHOP'S HOME

THE REV. ELIOT WHITE.
[Associated Press Photo.]

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—The Rev. Eliot White, whose connection with Grace church was severed recently because of his views on companionate marriage, picketed the Cathedral of St. John the Divine this afternoon. His purpose was to get a reply to the letters he had written Bishop William T. Manning and he carried a sign to that effect. Efforts, however, went unheeded by the head of the diocese of New York.

With his thick white hair covered with a beretta, Dr. White wore a black cassock. Around his neck was hung a cardboard sign, neatly lettered in purple ink:

"Bishop, I ask you for justice."

Dr. White carried also a copy of Dr. Manning's sermon on companionate marriage and a typewritten request that the bishop "appoint a commission representing the fathers and mothers of our diocese to give me a hearing."

4 CAPTIVES TO BE CHARGED WITH GENERO KILLING

Four men, held by police since the fatal shooting on Saturday night of John Genero, brother of Joseph (Pepe) Genero, public enemy and gangster, will be charged with the murder this morning, Lieut. John Farrell of the Deering street police announced last night.

They are Frank Tallarico, Bruno Rodi, Louis De Luca, and Dominick Valera. Six other men, held since the murder, will be released. Police are hunting James Belcastro, known as "the king of the bombers," as the instigator of the shooting.

Lieut. Farrell refused to disclose whether the testimony of August Annerino, brother of the slain man, at the inquest yesterday had anything to do with the charges. August said his brother had received threats from certain men. After he had been questioned secretly by Capt. Michael Hughes the inquest was continued to April 9. "Pepe" Genero also was questioned by the police.

BIND AND GAG TWO CHILDREN TO LOOT HOME

Gunmen Tie Up Girl of 2 and Boy 4 Years Old.

Two children, one a girl 2 years old and the other a boy 4 years old, and the girl's parents were tied and gagged last night by two Negro gunmen who robbed their home at 342 Wesley ave., Evanston.

The infant victims of the crime were Margaret Theobald and Bjorn Hestad. The boy lives on the lower floor of the Wesley avenue address and had been placed in care of Harry P. Theobald and his wife, Margaret, who live upstairs. Both children were playing when the rear door was opened and the robbers entered.

Bind and Gag Children.

One of the bandits produced some rope and bound Theobald. He next bound Mrs. Theobald, using towels and stockings as well as rope. Then the two children were bound and gagged. Their victims helpless, the bandits searched the house and escaped with $5.

Many robberies, one of them resulting in a shooting, were recorded within the city of Chicago during the day and night. The victim of the shooting is Frank Cronin, 28 years old, of 60 West 55th street. He was halted by a bandit under the Rock Island viaduct at 42d street, and despite no resistance, was shot down. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital in a critical condition from a bullet in his chest.

Gunman Cows Policeman.

Two gunmen slugged and beat Ichizo Naragawa, Japanese owner of the Bunsi cafe, 5002 Broadway, in his apartment at 5220 Kenmore avenue, Saturday and stole $1,000. Later a third robber menaced Policeman Leonard Morf with a revolver and took $40 from the box office of the Crown theater at 1007 Division street. Morf called to escort Ted Shaw, the manager, to a bank, but was surprised by the bandit who had already cowed Shaw.

Burglars obtained jewelry and clothing valued at $1,400 in a burglary of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kramer at 2737 Evergreen avenue. The loot consisted principally of jewelry.

Seven women were menaced by two bandits in the Sheridan Smart shop at 4035 Sheridan road yesterday, and lined against a wall. The robbers stole $107, a $200 ring, and several coats.

Reports Robbery in Hotel.

Police last night were asked to investigate the holdup of Dr. Frank H. Seeley, a specialist at 140 North Dearborn street, which he reported, occurred in his suite in the Congress hotel on March 4. He was bound and gagged by two men who were waiting for his return to his room, he said.

The thieves stole $1,900 in cash, and a ring valued at $1,500. Dr. Seeley said he did not report the case at the time because of the request of hotel officials. The doctor yesterday filed suit against the hotel, asking $10,000 damages.

Robbers Bind and Gag Family

Harry P. Theobald, his daughter, Margaret Ellen, 2 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Theobald, bound as they were left by Negro gunmen who invaded their home at 342 Wesley avenue, Evanston.

"Iron Lung" Boy Shows Gain in Fight for Life

The condition of Charles Caughey, 7 years old, who has been almost constantly in an artificial respiration machine at the St. Francis hospital in Evanston for nearly three weeks as a result of lung and throat paralysis, was regarded as more favorable yesterday than it was on Sunday. His breathing was more regular and his temperature normal. He was not placed in the artificial lung yesterday for fear of possible strain on his heart.

POLICE SPY WHO BARED SECRETS WILL BE FREED

Mrs. Shirley Kub, former undercover spy on the police department for Acting Commissioner Alcock, who for two days has been confessing before the special grand jury investigating police corruption, was last evening promised her release from custody within forty-eight hours. She will continue her testimony before the grand jury today.

The jurors made the release agreement with Attorney Harold Levy, representing Mrs. Kub. Attorney Levy yesterday filed an application for review of the four months contempt sentence given to Mrs. Kub by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty because of her former defiance of the grand jury. A request for bond pending review of the sentence by the Appellate court was to be heard this morning. The attorney agreed to withdraw the appeal in view of the promise that his client will be freed.

The jurors refused to discuss the reasons for their recommending that Judge McGoorty release Mrs. Kub. However, it was reported that the prosecutors and jurors are fearful of a test of the legality of the jury and decided that it was better to release Mrs. Kub than take a chance with a reviewing court.

Attorney Levy had raised the issue of the legality of the jury in his appeal. He contends that under former Supreme court decisions no grand jury can last for more than one term of court. The special grand jury has now been in session for nearly three terms of court.

It was said by one of the jurors that they feel that Mrs. Kub, through her statements, has opened a fertile field of investigation and that they do not want to take a chance of being ousted at this critical time. They expect, he said, to call before the jury within the next week many police captains and several city hall officials as a result of the revelations made by Mrs. Kub.

Acting Commissioner Alcock is expected to be among the first witnesses, the juror said, because of the apparent discrepancy between his testimony and that of Mrs. Kub. When he was called before the jury some weeks ago, it is reported that he said Mrs. Kub worked only two or three days for him and rendered only a dozen or so reports. She has produced bundles of reports, which she says are copies of those given the acting commissioner.

Attorney Frank J. Loesch, former special state's attorney and now a member of the Wickersham commission, yesterday notified the jurors that he will appear on April 2 to tell of his knowledge of Homer K. Galpin, Republican chieftain now in charge of Thompson's campaign for reelection. Galpin for nealy two years dodged a subpoena issued by Mr. Loesch.

STORE EXECUTIVE ROBBED.

Leonard Laird, 65 years old, executive in a loop department store, last night was robbed of $27 by two men who leaped upon him in the vestibule of his apartment building at 8210 Langley avenue.

WIFE DIVORCES SABATINI; NAMES ANOTHER WOMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23.—Mrs. Ruth Goad Sabatini, wife of the famous novelist, Rafael Sabatini, was granted a divorce with costs in London today. The decree was awarded on the grounds of Sabatini's alleged misconduct with Kathleen Grandin in a Paris hotel last May.

The couple were married in 1905. Their only child is dead. The wife testified that her husband admitted misconduct and promised to give up the woman, but she learned that the pledge was not kept. The pair then separated.

Mrs. Sabatini learned of the alleged misdeeds of her husband through mention of the woman's name in his diary.

FALL ON SNOW IS FATAL.

Injuries suffered when she slipped on the snow covered sidewalk in front of her home caused the death yesterday in the county hospital of Mrs. Catherine Leonard, 80 years old, of 5737 North Merrimac avenue.

26,000 JAM WAY INTO STADIUM TO APPLAUD CERMAK

Speakers Assail Tactics Used by Thompson.

tinctions here in Chicago. We judge a man by what is inside, not by what some one says is outside.

"I find myself in complete accord with the thought that accomplishment and not creed should be the measure of the man who is to be the next mayor of this great metropolis.

"We can all help by getting rid of prejudice, intolerance, and bigotry in this campaign. After all, the only measure of any person is accomplishment, not race, color, or creed. And I thank God for that!

Can't Change City's Motto.

"This great city, that has more Catholics than Rome, more Jews than all of Palestine, more Irish than Dublin, more Scotch than Edinburgh, more Welshmen than Cardiff, more Poles than Poznan, more Swedes than Malmo, and more Germans than Kiel, is not going to permit any group to remain in power that would endeavor to replace Chicago's magnificent slogan: 'I Will!' with 'Let's Bust King George on the Snoot!' or the spectacle of a mayor leading a jackass through the streets."

Senator Lewis, who had been given a big welcome when he entered the Stadium, said that the eyes of the world will be on Chicago on election day.

"It will have but one test," he said. "'Did you change conditions when you had the chance?' You must tell the world that you have put out those who have made Chicagoans hang their heads."

Cermak Tells of Issues.

In his speech Candidate Cermak once more refused to swap billingsgate with his opponent, Mayor Thompson, and referred to him only indirectly.

"I realize," he said, for example, "that the thousands in this hall have not gathered here to pay personal tribute to me. They are here because the time has come when there must be a change in Chicago's affairs.

"There must be a general cleaning up. We must rid ourselves of the things that have retarded our city in its growth and its prosperity."

There was a pronounced note of optimism as he then began to discuss the city's future.

"Chicago," he said, "has repeatedly given proof of the fact that it is superior to any misfortune that may befall it. Indian massacres that wiped out its entire population, fires that destroyed nearly all of its buildings, financial panics—all have been powerless to stop its progress and have served only to spur it on to greater endeavors.

"If the city can survive such disasters it can surely recover from the results of misrule and gang domination."

Cause of Unemployment.

Taking up the question of unemployment in Chicago he said that there is a much higher percentage of building trades workers idle here than in other big cities. He described the reason as this:

"The answer is that high taxation in addition to other causes deters persons who have saved a little money from putting up homes, prevents the construction of new buildings, and discourages men from investing in real estate.

"This condition will not change until there are in the city hall men interested in saving the city's money and not in wasting it."

Tells of County Taxes.

He told of his own record in the maintenance of low tax levels for the county government and the forest preserve.

"If I could do this as president of the county board," he said, "I can do it as mayor. And I will do it as mayor."

He spoke similarly of his confidence in his own ability to improve crime conditions.

"Why is it that the police now appear helpless?" he asked. "The answer is easy. The police department is not permitted to be a police department. It is made part of a political machine.

"All that the police department needs in order to deal as successfully with the present crime situation as it did with other problems that confronted it is to be permitted to do police duty with men at its head interested solely in the suppression of crime, with a mayor who will protect the honest policeman in the performance of his duty and encourage him. Then Chicago need have no fear of what will happen in the next few years.

"In this connection I desire to give assurance that I will not shift the blame upon my chief of police if things go wrong. I shall regard the safety of our citizens as my own personal responsibility. I am determined that the streets of Chicago will be made safe at all times for men, women, and children and that the gangsters must go."

Tells Personal Ambition.

He spoke of Chicago's reputation for crime as the cause for the refusal of a federal appropriation for the Century of Progress exposition, and closed with a statement of his personal ambition in this race.

"I want our city to start on a new era of achievement," he said. "I want to help regain her good name, to help regain her standing among the great cities of the world.

"I want the world to know that this is not only a beautiful city but one that is inhabited by millions of law abiding, progressive men and women.

"I want to leave behind me a name that history will remember, and remember that A. J. Cermak rescued Chicago in the days of her dire need."

Kruetgen Is Hotel Speaker.

Kruetgen's speech at the Hotel Sherman luncheon was a carefully prepared rebuke for the dissemination of appeals to prejudice, particularly to racial prejudice and religious prejudice.

"When the issues are purposely beclouded," he said, "when the appeal is to prejudice rather than to reason, then the procedure has degenerated to levels which must not be tolerated in an American election.

"To solicit any man's support on a basis of deliberate stirring of dormant racial, religious, or any other prejudices is the most vicious, the most un-American action of which a true American can conceive.

Americans Always Americans.

"Americans are Americans whether they be naturalized or native, Americans by choice or by birth, whether born in the rugged highlands of Scotland or on the wine created shores of the beautiful Rhine, whether born in good old Ireland, the land of the shamrock and the Blarney stone, or in sunny Italy, whether cradled in Bohemia or under the blue skies of our own fair land.

"Any attempt to create dissension among Americans on account of birth or extraction is unjust, unpatriotic, and un-American."

Former Justice Thompson, now a resident of Chicago, warned the Democrats against overconfidence and advised candidates and workers alike to disregard last minute attacks.

Thompson's principal public appearance during the day was before a Cort theater meeting made up almost entirely of city hall employes. At the close of the meeting most of the audience marched ten abreast down an alley leading to the city hall.

Thompson Minus Headliners.

Minus the support of most of the big Republicans in the city, Thompson had with him as speakers for his meeting only a few lesser stars of bygone days. They included John M. Harlan, whose independent candidacy for mayor the city hall tried unsuccessfully to keep on the ballot; Frank D. Ayers, long a Thompson attorney, and Alexander Fife, a follower of Len Small.

Thompson was about as profane as usual, but his speech was the one he has delivered two or three times in this campaign and little changed since the primary campaign. A large part of it consists of an attack on THE TRIBUNE.

SPRAGUE DECLARES APPEAL FOR MAYOR IS PROOF OF WASTE

Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the Cermak for Mayor Business Men's organization, declared yesterday that the so-called preliminary report on city hall reforms recently made by Mayor Thompson's citizens' committee, constitutes proof in itself of waste and extravagance under the Thompson administration.

"The report, which Thompson has 'enthusiastically' approved, says they will 'save millions of dollars in expenditures and consequent reduction in taxes. They also promise 'coordinating departments, eliminating overlapping bureaus, and establishing a uniform accounting system. Thompson has seen the campaign trend and in an effort to gain votes he is now promising to change things."

Notes of Campaign

An independent and Republican meeting of Cermak for Mayor supporters will be held on Thursday at the Rogers Park Woman's club at 8 p. m. These scheduled to speak are Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, Judge John J. Sonsteby, Ald. G. Adams Williston, Mrs. Edward O. Brooks and Peter J. Angsten. Mrs. Charles B. Osweiler is chairman.

Mrs. William Bethke will address a Cermak luncheon of 100 Republican and independent women of the 8th ward on Friday, at the Community church, 81st street and Dante avenue.

Mr. Cermak and Miss Harriett Vittum, social service leader, have been invited to address an independent-Republican meeting in the 28rd ward on Friday, at 3743 West 26th street. Ladamir Prucha is chairman of the meeting which will be held at 8. p. m.

Three hundred social service workers will attend a luncheon sponsored by the social service independent committee supporting Cermak on Friday, at the Morrison hotel.

Ald. Edward J. Kaindl, candidate for city treasurer on the Cermak ticket, will be the host at a social gathering Thursday evening at Wicker Park hall, 2040 West North avenue.

Resolutions adopted by the Crawford Business Men's league indorsing Mr. Cermak for mayor were made public yesterday by Edward F. Taeper, secretary of the organization, which is composed of business men in the Crawford-Lawndale district.

Increment

The Harmon plan of purchase from savings enables one to acquire real estate in a growing community for an initial payment of only 10 or 15 per cent. The remainder may be paid over a period of years plus 6 per cent interest. In the meantime the increment is as high as 20 or 30 per cent of the total value of the investment. ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Mrs. Adolph Doe

Outside of her home and family, the welfare of underprivileged children is the major interest of Mrs. Adolph Doe, 2337 Commonwealth Ave., wife of the well-known north side dentist. In addition to her duties as a committeeman of the North Side Shelter, she is an enthusiastic sponsor of the Junior Friends of Art. For recreation she plays golf, tennis, and swims.

"Welch's is especially good for children," she says. "My seven-year-old daughter Joan loves it and I let her have all she wants, because the body building elements of grapes replaces the energy she burns up in play. Welch's is so much better for one's health than between-meal 'piecing'. When I am fagged out, nothing refreshes and strengthens me like a glass of Welch's."

for finicky appetites

THOSE cherished youngsters around which the world revolves! What victims they are of benevolent scheming and tender plotting, all to the end they may have rosy cheeks and strong, healthy bodies.

Welch's is the nectar which Mother Nature provides for just such needs. Here is a pure fruit drink as seductive as a lollypop . . . as beneficial as a medicine. Watch their eyes sparkle with glee when Welch's time comes around!

That can be any time of day—morning, afternoon or evening—for Welch's, packed with quick nourishment and slightly laxative, puts not the slightest tax on the digestion. Abounding in mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins, it helps to build strong teeth and make rich blood. Diluted one-third to one-half with water, as children like it, there is no cheaper form of family health insurance.

What Welch's does for children it does equally well for grown-ups. It satisfies thirst and stays hunger without adding an undesired ounce to one's weight. Serve it tomorrow as a breakfast fruit. You'll find it wonderfully delicious!

In buying Welch's always ask for it by name. Only thus can you be sure of obtaining pasteurized grape juice produced under laboratory control.

Welch's Pasteurized Grape Juice

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. WOMEN BOO AT ETTELSON FOR CERMAK ATTACK Cry "Shame" at Meeting to Discuss Issues.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Hisses, catcalls, and cries of "Shame!" were directed at Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson last night from an audience composed mostly of women who crowded the Chicago Woman's club auditorium in East 11th street to hear both mayoralty candidates state their platforms and answer questions regarding the future management of Chicago.

Disorder prevailed intermittently during the hour that Mr. Ettelson, speaking in place of Mayor Thompson, who sent his regrets, appeared on the platform. Mr. Ettelson's speech followed that of the Democratic candidate, A. J. Cermak, on the program. The city hall advocate devoted most of his address to an attack upon the personality of Mr. Cermak.

Limits Quiz to Cermak.

Mrs. Henry Hoyt Hilton, president of the club, before introducing both speakers, had read the municipal platform as adopted by the club and had stated that both candidates had been asked to address the massmeeting and answer questions. In view of the fact that Thompson did not accept and Mr. Ettelson was not qualified to speak as the mayor, she said, therefore questions could be asked only of Mr. Cermak.

The first outbreak from the women came when Mr. Ettelson declared:

"I am surprised that you women could sit here and listen to a man who spent part of his life trying to defeat women's suffrage. In 1915 his honor the mayor appointed me corporation counsel. His one chief reason was that he knew I had voted for women's suffrage. I am surprised that you women will promote a man for office who would deny the right of women's suffrage."

The Hissing Starts.

At that point hissing and an undertone of talking almost drowned the speaker's voice, but he shouted above the disturbance:

"You are hissing me who voted in 1910 and 1911 for woman's suffrage. I voted and I fought for it in every session of the legislature." Laughter was heard in several quarters and Mr. Ettelson stamped his feet to make his next statement more emphatic.

"You haven't got the right to have a vote," he shouted at the women. "Now you can hiss that."

After a discussion of taxes, budgets, women on juries, and more discussion on women's suffrage, Ettelson timed his remarks to the speech given by Mr. Cermak, in which several grammatical errors had occured.

"When you thing of electing your World's Fair mayor," he said, "think of the beautiful and exquisite English he used here tonight."

At this point hisses, catcalls and cries of "Shame! Shame!" completely drowned out Ettelson's voice.

SOBBING MOTHER BEGS HOOVER TO FREE SON FROM PRISON AT JOLIET

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 23. (AP)—A sobbing mother struggled to reach President Hoover during the halt at the town of Cayey, bearing a petition for the commutation of an 11 year sentence her son is serving at the Joliet [Ill.] prison.

Secret service men took the document from the woman, who was identified as Zenaida de Monserrate, and it will be referred to the department of justice. The President was greeting the welcoming committee meanwhile.

Speaking Spanish excitedly, the woman was escorted away by friends. The latter said her son, Angel Manuel, 21, pleaded guilty to murder in Chicago.

PORTO RICO HAILS HOOVER ON 90 MILE AUTO TRIP

Thousands Shout Welcome as Cannons Boom.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 23.—From President Hoover's landing at Ponce this morning to the state dinner and reception in San Juan tonight, it has been a day of rejoicing in Porto Rico.

And it must have been a day of thrilling gratification to President Hoover.

A million and a half American citizens greeted their President. For they are American citizens. That thing was brought home to the presidential party as it motored the 90 miles across the island. They dwell under the American flags, and today made festival under thousands of American flags.

It was a fitting day to stage a legal celebration of the emancipation of the Porto Rican slaves in 1873. President Hoover and the man he sent to lead them, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, called the most popular man in Porto Rico, were present, and the people look to them as their emancipators from poverty, illiteracy, and disease and from conditions which still shackle many of them in a state which borders on peonage.

Gratitude was the emotion which made "Viva Hoover" and "adios" rise from thousands of throats. It was more than a mere greeting to the President, who smiled and waved his hat from the rear seat of a touring car. It was "Hoover, the magnanimous" on hundreds of banners and it was "the sympathetic President" on thousands of lips.

Porto Rico, except for a small minority, does not want independence or statehood, yet is looking forward to a day when it will be possible to become as truly a part of America as a sovereign state. But Porto Rico realizes that it must wait and that many things must be settled before that day comes.

All in Sunday Best.

The island turned out to see and welcome Mr. Hoover. The population is a study in browns, from light creams to Birmingham beauties. They were there in every shade and all in their Sunday best. For some, Sunday best didn't mean much more than a calico wrapper or worn overalls. For more than one child, the good old sunshine was the only enveloping garment.

After the presidential party had landed from the battleship Arizona, the motor cavalcade rolled from the dock into Ponce, and halted in the plaza. President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt mounted a balcony above the frenzied populace, while Mayor Emilio Fagot welcomed Mr. Hoover.

The President's answer was drowned out by cheers and booming cannons, and Gov. Roosevelt's shouted translation into Spanish met but a little better fate.

Guards Hold Crowds Back.

The cavalcade then left the city, while members of the insular police force, a body of 800 men, national guardsmen and native firemen in pompous red shirts, blue breeches, and helmets held back the crowd.

Everywhere along he road were thousands of children in shrieking lines, each clenching a flag. As the President sped on through seven towns, black, brown, and white hands waved as he passed. He waved back. They burst into cheers, bands played, church bells rang, whistles of sugar factories blared, rockets arched up with a hissing bang.

The greatest welcome of all occurred in San Juan. While the President drove to the Ponce de Leon palace through the narrow streets, bushels of confetti were poured down upon him. The uproar was tremendous. As he entered the palace Mr. Hoover was covered with confetti.

The din grew so great that President Hoover, Gov. Roosevelt, and Mrs. Roosevelt were forced to appear on the balcony. Then another roar rose on the air, lasting for several minutes. The President tonight slept in the room in which the late Theodore Roosevelt, the governor's father, occupied 25 years ago.

THOUSANDS FLEE AS RED HORDES TERRORIZE CHINA

Kill and Loot as They Sweep On.

HANKOW, China, March 23.—(AP)—Grave fears were felt today for the safety of foreign missionaries in outlying districts as the result of increased communist activities in southern Hupeh and northern Hunan provinces.

The situation reached an acute stage with the Reds overrunning the country within 150 miles of the tri-cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang.

Along the Yangtze river between Hankow and Ichang, 378 miles, the Reds have clamped on a crimson grip, which is the firmest in several years. Both banks of the river display communist flags and slogans, while communist batteries continue firing on passing shipping.

Reds and Bandits Menace City.

An Italian gunboat has gone to Kichow, 100 miles below Hankow, where an Italian mission is located. Communists and brigands are menacing the city.

Despite American official protests and missionary efforts, Bert Nelson, a missionary from Minneapolis, remains a prisoner near Hwangan, northern Hupeh province. He was captured by communists last October.

The Reds have constructed scores of miles of trenches along the Yangtze river below Nanking, manning them throughout. Foreign naval and commercial ships attempting to navigate this section of the Yangtze consider the area the most dangerous stretch of inland water in the world.

Government's Efforts Futile.

Nationalist government military and naval officers here continue to broadcast their plans for a large scale offensive against Reds and bandits over a huge area, but the efforts seem futile.

Communists looted numerous villages within 30 miles of Hankow in the last few days. Farther north, near the Honan province border, they again cut the Peiping-Hankow railroad. In eastern Hupeh they made a shambles of the important town of Yingshan and advanced on Kishui. From the latter city and neighborhood, thousands of refugees are streaming toward Kwangshihkang.

From northeastern Hupeh province came reports that at least 30,000 Reds were killing and pillaging there.

Fights in Court for Child

Ruling Today

Superior Judge Frankhauser today will rule on the habeas corpus petition involving the custody of 7 year old Rosemary Todd. The petition was brought by the child's father, Ralph Todd, a salesman, who charges that his former wife and mother of the girl kidnaped her last March 6.

Todd had asked that Mrs. McCaubrey's mother, Mrs. Mary Martin of 6224 Kimbark avenue, be given the permanent custody of the girl, but Mrs. Martin upset the hearing on Saturday by declaring that she is not the mother of Mrs. McCaubrey.

Mrs. Martin was a witness again yesterday and testified that Mrs. McCaubrey had been given to her thirty years ago by a woman in England. She said she did not know who the woman's mother was. Mrs. McCaubrey, who Todd alleges is not a fit person to care for the girl, said that she had always believed Mrs. Martin was her mother.

HOLD WOMAN KILLED SELF.

Mrs. Mabel Kurth, 30 years old, 1788 North Wells street, committed suicide by gas in her home yesterday, according to police, while supposedly despondent over a week's separation from her husband.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Despondent over ill health, Edward J. Weber, 43 years old, ended his life yesterday by taking poison in his home at 2052 Rome avenue.

WOMAN, JAILED IN DAMAGE CASE, FREED ON WRIT

Mrs. Ines Crandall, Evansville, Ind., who has been in jail there for contempt of court as the result of her filing a suit to collect damages for the death of her husband, a locomotive engineer, was released on her own recognizance yesterday in a habeas corpus action before Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The case was continued to permit the filing of briefs by counsel. After her husband was killed a year ago, when the boiler of his locomotive exploded in Tennessee, Mrs. Crandall planned to file suit in the federal court at St. Louis claiming $35,000 damages from the Louisville & Nashville railroad.

Circuit Judge Travis B. Williams of Vanderburg county, Indiana, enjoined Mrs. Crandall from filing the suit outside of Indiana or Tennessee, but she filed it in St. Louis and was sentenced to jail. Her attorneys claim that Judge Williams had no authority for issuing the restraining order.

PADDED POLLING LISTS A FERTILE FIELD FOR FRAUD

Back Estimate of 114,000 Illegal Voters.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Evidence based on comparative figures from other cities supports an estimate that Chicago has 114,000 names of male voters illegally on the polling lists. Election authorities point out that such padded lists give an excellent opportunity for fraud at election.

The estimate of 114,000 padded votes is verified by Chicago figures. In 1923 the city's population was placed at 2,714,619 by the health department in figuring death and birth rates. Subsequent census indicates that estimate was low. The 1930 census shows 3,376,429 persons living inside its boundaries.

In 1923 there were 567,755 male voters registered. Today there are 833,177. The population increased 24.4 per cent, while the male names on voters lists jumped 44.5 per cent. In 1923 the registered male voters were 20.92 per cent of the total population. Today they form 24.22 per cent of the population. If the ratio between men voters and population was correct in 1923, there is an excess registration of 114,830 men today.

Three Wards as Illustrations.

Three specific ward illustrations will present the case more vividly: The First ward, which includes the loop area and also nearby lodging house districts; the Twenty-seventh, which contains the large flophouse area just west of the river, and the Second, largely populated with colored voters.

Each of these wards shows a smaller population today than in 1923, yet each has a larger registration of men voters now than eight years ago. In 1923 the First ward had a population of 51,523 and total men registered as voters was 11,874. By the 1930 census the First ward has only 31,631 population, but today 12,496 male voters are registered. In 1923, 23.05 per cent of its population were men voters, while today 39.51 per cent are voters.

Eight years ago the Twenty-seventh ward had 13,894 men voters and today it has 14,976, despite the fact that its population decreased from 50,856 to 41,011. In comparison with the ratio in other wards, the Twenty-seventh had a stuffed register of men voters in 1923, and now—on the ratio basis—it is 34 per cent worse than it was in 1923.

Increase in Second Ward.

The second ward's population decreased from 55,468 in 1923 to 47,023 in 1930; but the names of men on its voters list increased from 14,234 in 1923 to 15,673 at present.

If these three wards had the normal ration between population and men voters in 1923, then there are about 4,204 phoney names on the first ward list today, on the basis of the relationship between voters to population in 1923, the first ward should have 7,701 men voters today instead of 12,496.

By the same reasoning the 27th ward should have 11,940 men voters today instead of 15,976 and the 2d ward should have 12,067 instead of the 15,673. Thus these three wards have 12,846 too many men names on their poll lists.

Figured on Census Basis.

The census figures indicate that it is impossible to have 821,177 male citizens of Chicago who can read and write on the list of registered voters—although that is not an Illinois requirement of voters. The total population of the city is 3,376,438, as reported by the federal census bureau. About 63.04 per cent of this total are persons 21 years of age or more, which means 2,128,506. Of this number approximately 1,092,562 are men. On the basis of the prevailing rate of aliens to population, only 858,632 of these 1,092,562 men residents are citizens.

Health surveys in several cities indicate that between two and three per cent of the working population is sick all the time. Assume an average of two and a half per cent, and it is reckoned that 21,456 of the 858,632 men citizens, 21 years of age or over, did not register. That brings the men citizens down to a possible 837,105 who might have registered if they had been in town and were sufficiently interested. To be sure, it is physically possible that 821,177 might have registered as voters, but the experience of other cities indicates that it is so improbable that it is hardly worth considering.

Illiteracy on Increase Here.

On the basis of the above reasoning, there are 33,176 illiterates among the 821,177 men voters registered. Illiteracy among the Chicago men residents has been increasing for the last 30 years, according to the census figures; but assume that the rate has decreased about an eighth in the last 10 years, there are then 49,165 illiterate men in Chicago by the federal government's classification.

The only educational requirement for citizenship by naturalization is ability to speak the English language. The applicant is not required to either read or write, except that it is a rule that a man must sign his application for his second papers.

The Illinois election laws do not require a voter to either read or write. They permit a voter unable to read and write to request election officials to mark his ballot. This provision is utilized, according to gossip in some precincts, to run in a gang of "stingers" and at the same time permit the buyer of votes to ascertain, by arrangement with judges and clerks, that he gets the votes he pays for.

Filing of suspect notices by individual canvassers, judges, and clerks of election was begun in the election commission offices yesterday. It was predicted that thousands of persons would be called before the board next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in order to keep their names on the election registers.

REMAP BATTLE OPENS TODAY IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

Move to End Government by Minorities.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 23.—[Special.]—Reapportionment comes up for another battle in the house tomorrow as a curtain raiser for the final vote on repeal of the state prohibition law in the senate Wednesday—the two high spots of the week.

Liberals tonight declare there has been no deviation in the lineup as it existed the first week of the session, and that the repealer is assured of the required 26 votes, with one more in sight.

Ask Fair and Just Basis.

The remap fight in the house tomorrow is over the Schnackenberg resolution for a joint committee to prepare a districting plan on a "fair and just basis." The disparities in the present districts, now thirty years old, due to the growth of population and the evolution of the metropolitan areas and the industrial cities as given by the 1930 census show government by minorities has developed to the following degree in the assembly.

Twenty-nine per cent of the population (2,182,103) has 26 senatorial districts and elects a majority of both houses, 26 senators and 78 representatives. The remaining 71 per cent of the population (5,448,551) has 25 senatorial districts and elects a minority of both chambers, 25 senators and 75 representatives.

Last week Mr. Schnackenberg told the house that Gov. Emmerson had told him he would sign any reapportionment bill passed by the legislature, despite the governor's advocacy in his message of limitation for Cook county. In a brief, Mr. Schnackenberg tonight took up some of the arguments raised by the opposition. It says:

"What are the arguments of those who refuse reapportionment? First, while they admit that the Supreme court has stated that the constitution is mandatory, yet the court has expressed itself as unable to compel performance by the legislature of its constitutional duty. Those who take advantage of this situation and refuse to act because they cannot be compelled to act are nothing more than the overgrown bully on the street corner who takes the baseball from the little fellow because he is able to do so.

"Again, it is argued that the constitution should not be obeyed because a new theory has sprung up some place and somehow that territory as well as population must be represented. It is a sufficient answer to say that until the constitution is changed, it should be obeyed, and further it might be said that this is not a government of territory—it is a government of human beings.

Are Other Cities Hamstrung?

"It also has been argued by the anti-reapportionists that other large cities of the United States have accepted limitations. Our answer to this is—if other cities are hamstrung into a surrender of their rights as American citizens, the citizens of Illinois are not ready to make such surrender. We stand on the constitution as it is written.

"Again it is argued that in the federal government the states are limited in representation in the senate. But those who advance this argument forget that the federal constitution was a compromise, and that in order to induce the smaller colonies to enter the Union, this concession was made to them.

"In Illinois today no one is in a position to ask for or receive concessions. Every part of Illinois is entitled to its rights under the existing constitution.

"The duty of every legislator to vote for this resolution is clear and unmistakable if he believes in his oath of office—if he believes in principles upon which the very foundations of our government rest—including the doctrine of proportionate representation."

HORSE IS NO MULE, GOVERNOR ASSERTS IN VETOING A BILL

Olympia, Wash., March 23.—(AP)—Gov. Roland Hartley likened certain members of the state senate to jackasses today in vetoing a bill declaring abandoned horses to be a public nuisance.

GOV. HARTLEY. [Fotograms.]

"This bill says a mule is a horse," the message said. "By prior legislative fiat, a goat was made a milk cow, but even nature fakers can make no one believe a mule is a horse. A horse might make a jackass out of itself, as did certain members of the present state senate, but I would still be unwilling to convert a state senator into a jackass by legislative enactment.

"This would be unfair to the jackass.

"Unless some limit is placed on such legislative enactments, we may expect at a future session of the legislature a bill declaring a hippopotamus a humming bird."

TRIAL IMPERILS VOTE

The fate of an ex-convict charged with robbery may be pitted against the possible fate of the O'Grady state dry repealer before the Illinois senate in Springfield tomorrow. The ex-convict is Frank Dzan, 34 years old, of 1443 Elburn avenue, Chicago, on trial before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady, in Waukegan, for the robbery of the Mundelein State bank. His defense is an alibi. His alibi witnesses are two Chicago legislators, State Senator Joseph Mendel, and State Representative Joseph Perina.

Mendel's vote is expected to be cast for repeal at the session tomorrow. However, Mendel, it was said last night, will be a witness in behalf of Dzan in Waukegan tomorrow. The probable voting lineup for and against the repealer, according to Springfield reports, is 26 votes for repeal, and 25 against repeal. The 26 votes include Mendel's.

The defendant was arrested in Chicago a month ago by Sergt. Roy Steffen, and identified by Leo Dorfler and S. E. Worthen, tellers, as one of four men who robbed the Mundelein bank of $3,500 Dec. 6, last.

Latin American Nations' Agents Plan for Fair

Plans for the representation of the Latin American countries in the 1933 Chicago World's Fair were discussed yesterday by members of the Latin American consular corps in Chicago meeting at luncheon in the Administration building on the fair grounds. Gabriel de Andrade, consul of Brazil in Chicago and president of the corps, was the principal speaker.

FEAR NEW RIOTS AS BRITISH HANG THREE IN INDIA

Rebels Are Executed for Killing Police Official.

LAHORE, India, March 23.—(AP)—Three Indians died on the gallows here tonight for the murder of a police official in 1928, and there are grave fears that new and serious trouble may grow out of the executions.

Baghat Singh, Raj Guru, and Sukhdev were executed. They had been convicted of killing Assistant Police Commissioner Saunders on Dec. 17, 1928, but with others they were implicated also in a series of violent offenses, including the bombing of the legislative assembly hall at New Delhi in April, 1929.

Leaders of the All-India national congress party made desperate efforts to prevent the hangings and only this morning an application for a stay of execution under a habeas corpus writ was refused. Many times the Nationalist leaders have said the viceroy's good faith in his truce with Mahatma Gandhi would be established by commutation of these sentences.

The bodies of the prisoners were cremated tonight in accordance with the Hindu rites, and the ashes were spread upon the Sutlej river.

THAW SELLS LAND TO FIGHT "FALSE CLAIM" IN N. Y.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw said today in explaining the sale of property on his estate in Winchester, Va., tomorrow was due to his desire to fight "a false claim in the New York Supreme court."

The statement said Thaw had no fault to find with the judges but could "not extend this opinion to the plaintiff."

"I would rather oppose this person than save money," Thaw said. "Leaving out any bond, the suit has cost me over $50,000."

"This person" is Marcia Estardus, who recently was awarded $16,000 damages against Thaw. She charged that he bit her and paddled her with a hairbrush at a New Year's party in his home in 1927.

CITY MAKES NEW PLEA IN PHONE REFUND BATTLE

A motion for leave to file a petition for a writ of mandamus, compelling the special three judge federal court of Chicago to order a refund of $15,000,000 by the telephone company to its subscribers, was presented to the supreme court yesterday by Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein, George I. Haight, and Edmund D. Alcock, representing the city.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, representing the Illinois commerce commission, which reduced the telephone rates in 1923, joined in the presentation of the motion, which will be considered on April 13. The commerce commission was enjoined by the District court of Chicago on the ground that the reduced rates would be confiscatory and the Supreme court set aside the lower court's decree last December.

The lower court then ordered further hearings as directed by the Supreme court. Counsel for the city contend that the Supreme court's language was misconstrued, that further evidence would require two years and could not possibly change the ultimate result.

Should the Supreme court sustain the city's present contention, the company also would be required to refund $4,500,000 which has accrued since 1929, making a total of some $20,000,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SCIENCE HONORS MELLON TODAY ON 76TH BIRTHDAY

Reveals Little Known Side of His Character.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Science honors Andrew W. Mellon's 76th birthday tomorrow with a chemistry medal, which reveals a scarcely known side of his life.

The award, jointly to him and his even more silent brother, Richard B. Mellon, was announced tonight by the American Institute of Chemists. Richard B. was 73 last Thursday.

Neither of them scientists, the Mellons are honored as pioneer patrons of science credited with gifts of many millions of dollars given so quietly that even now the totals are a secret. It all began about twenty years ago.

The practical results appear today in every American household in articles of daily use, quite literally created with aid of the Mellon gifts. They have sponsored health research with an almost ironclad condition that their identity as backers be withheld from publication.

Attributed to Institute.

Mainly these researches have been done at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research which they established at the University of Pittsburgh in 1913. There all industry and many branches of science are furnished a place to make discoveries. The Mellons do not usually pay for these researches, nor receive any credit for them, although they furnish an important part of the scientific machinery.

"The Mellon institute," says Dr. Frederick E. Breithut, president of the Institute of Chemists, "is the West Point of our industrial system, assisting the United States to attain and hold its foremost position amongst the industrials nations of the world. Its activities have assisted in bringing to the United States the largest chemical industry in the world.

Converting Science Into Industry.

"In converting scientific knowledge into a possession of industry and of the nation, men of large means and vision are needed to bridge the gap between uncommercial scientific speculation and commercial reality.

"What Andrew W. Mellon and Richard B. Mellon have done has become more or less a part of our industrial fabric and technological organization, but it required great vision and courage to see this twenty years ago when research was still merely an unwelcome stepchild in most of our industries."

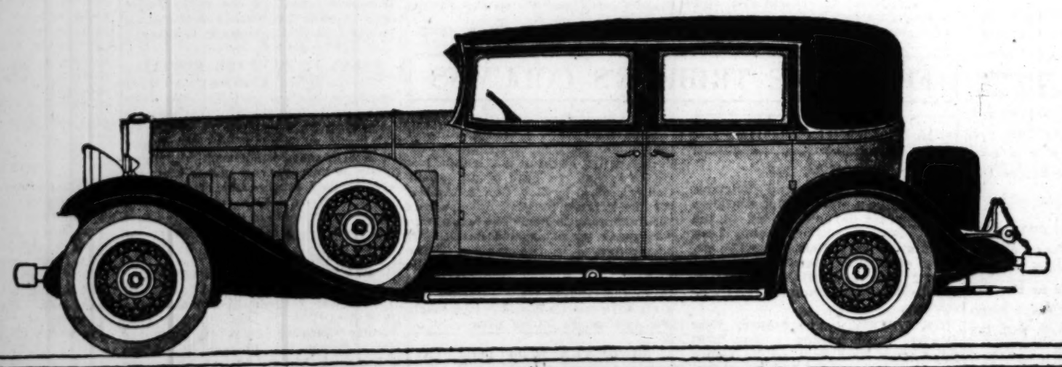
STUDY ALLEGED WATER GRABBING BY LOS ANGELES

Sacramento, Cal., March 23.—[Special.]—Five California state senators today were appointed a committee to investigate and return a report on the water grabbing activities of the city of Los Angeles. In particular the committee will heed protests of Owens valley and Mono basin residents, who accuse Los Angeles of twenty years of political manipulation in "drying up" Owens valley by acquiring the water producing lands to empty into the existing Los Angeles aqueduct.

Cadillac V-12



DO YOU REALLY KNOW WHAT LUXURIOUS MOTORING IS?

Your first ride in a Cadillac V-12 is certain to prove a new experience—for there are a number of things about multi-cylinder performance which come as a surprise to every motorist. You will hear no noise at all when you drive the V-12—unless it be the rush of the tires on the pavement. If you choose, you may go 30 to 35 miles an hour in low gear—with the speeds of the other gears in proportion. You will ride so easily and comfortably that even a long day's trip will be a relaxation. And—if you are driving the car yourself—you will scarcely be conscious of the handling effort. Because of these facts, we are certain you would enjoy driving this distinguished automobile. May we send you a V-12 for a trial?

Cadillac and La Salle, with Fisher and Fleetwood coachwork, range in price from $2195 to $9700 f. o. b. Detroit. Convenient G.M.A.C. terms are recommended.

Don't Let Those Little Bald Spots Become Big Ones

See Thomas' at Once

Almost before you know it, those little bald spots on the (1) frontal, (2) crown or (3) temple may become large bare areas—unless you do something NOW to stop your abnormal hair-fall at these points, and promote natural hair growth. The Thomas' scalp treatment presents a dependable method of keeping those little bald spots from becoming big ones. Thomas' treatment not only stops falling hair, but it promotes a healthy scalp condition, conducive to the growth of hair.

Twenty or thirty years ago it was almost impossible to prevent baldness. Today, the modern, scientific Thomas' treatment has replaced old-fashioned, haphazard methods with modern, scientific precision. This reliable, proved treatment actually goes to the basic source of your own specific scalp trouble—and by overcoming the cause, results in restoring the scalp to a normal, healthy condition. In this manner Thomas' scalp treatment acts as Nature's assistant and makes it possible for hair to grow naturally where it has been hindered by some abnormal scalp condition. Dandruff infection is relieved and hairfall stops.

The Thomas' are reliable scalp specialists. They will tell you frankly if your trouble does not come within their scope of treatment—and they accept for treatment only those for whom they conscientiously feel they can produce the anticipated results. This code of ethics has resulted in their growth to a chain of more than 45 offices, from coast to coast, in fifteen years.

No charge is made for a complete Thomas' scalp examination at any time. Come into the nearest office today and learn the truth about your hair and scalp.

Call at Thomas' office for a free scalp examination or write to The Thomas' General Offices, 844 Rush Street, Chicago, for booklet, "How Science Conquers Baldness."

THE END OF THE GOVERNMENT'S WHEAT CORNER.

The farm board has announced that it is not going to spend any more of its revolving fund in trying to raise the price of wheat. Its so-called stabilization efforts will cease as the new wheat begins to enter the market in July. As the result of its efforts the price of wheat has been maintained in this country at 20 cents or more above world parity, but this result has been attained only by the government's running what amounts to a corner in wheat. Today the government owns something like 200,000,000 bushels, if to what it holds in elevators is added the quantity it has contracted to receive by the end of June. It must take a loss on every bushel.

The government is in precisely the position that any private individual would be who has cornered the supply. The government cannot eat the wheat. It must sell to some one, and there is no shortage of wheat in other exporting countries. Canada is said to be carrying over more than 200,000,000 bushels from last year, and the Argentine and Australia are pressing wheat on the market as well. This year Russia's exports may well exceed last year's. Meanwhile our government is paying many millions of dollars each month for storage and insurance on the wheat it holds. It is amply apparent that the stabilization experiment has failed of its purpose, at heavy cost to the taxpayers and with no permanent benefit to the farmers.

The campaign was undertaken in the belief that through it the farmers somehow could be brought to reduce their acreage in wheat. That result has not been achieved. The acreage reductions in winter wheat are negligible. The farm board hopes that it can induce the farmers to reduce their acreage in spring wheat by a promise to dispose of its present ownings slowly if the farmers will coöperate by planting less wheat this spring. The offer is a handsome one, involving as it does the expenditure of tens of millions of the taxpayers' dollars in storage charges; but it is doubtful if the pledge and its implied threat will achieve the desired end.

The experiment has been extremely costly, but it has proved to the hilt the proposition that the government, despite its enormous resources, is still unable to control the prices of commodities. Prices are the resultant of the forces of supply and demand. Our government cannot force farmers in this country, much less abroad, to grow less wheat, or force consumers to eat more bread. More than that, it cannot speculate with hope of success. It would be difficult to imagine a form of organization more poorly adapted to the rôle of speculator than a public body, whose secrets are difficult to keep, whose managers are playing with other people's money, and whose policies are inevitably subject to political pressure in the direction of an untenable market position.

The official statement of the board in announcing its future policy tells the whole story. "It [the Grain Stabilization corporation] cannot indefinitely buy more than it sells," it is asserted, "or indefinitely hold what it has bought. It cannot follow a regular policy of buying at prices above the market, paying heavy storage charges, and selling below cost. Farmers know this, and would not ask that it be done. It would not be, in the long run, in the farmers' own interest."

This statement ought to be carved in letters two feet high above the speakers' chairs in the house and senate. If the lesson is learned it will be one return on a couple of hundred million dollars.

GARDEN.

To compose with living things to make a garden that will sing through the summer months and leave its memory in the mind well through the winter surely is an art giving to life beauty and repose. "My books are less important to me," George Herbert Palmer once said. "Teaching is the greatest art." And in him, one of America's greatest teachers, composing with living material, it was a fine art. The garden, too, works with living stuff.

The flower show of the Illinois Garden club has brought unaccustomed nature to the Merchandise Mart. A hundred towns and gardens have come there leaving flowers.

OLD MEN.

Hard work and a hopeful heart, says Capt. Robert Dollar at 87, are a man's happiness. "Years mean nothing; it's ambition that keeps the heart young. Get married early, stick to your job, and you will get ahead."

Hard work and a hopeful heart: At 90 Justice Holmes gave a decision the other day in the Supreme court. At 84 President Hindenburg holds Germany on a hard course between dangerous extremes. At 83 Edison is active in new research and experiment. At 89 George Herbert Palmer is still a great and beautiful figure in American literature and education. At 86 Elihu Root is found as usual in his office at 31 Nassau street. At 92 Rockefeller makes his daily round of golf. At 79 Frank J. Loesch is a Chicago fighter against corruption. Prof. Michelson is 79, as active in science as ever. At 81 President Masaryk handles his country with a skillful hand. Youth is a point of view, it would seem, that has less and less to do with years. The times are young, at least in many ways, but aged men perhaps never have had a more important place.

Clemenceau, who died at 88, led France to victory as an old man. Chauncey Depew, who died at 94, was active in business until the end. Though history has its old men, Bismarck at 83, John Adams at 91, Wellington at 83, J. Q. Adams at 81, Franklin at 84, the old in years rarely were active in the drive and movement of affairs. The years segregated man's functions, and life was classified far more by age than it is now. Today there is more diffusion.

With modern medicine and the increased span of life of the new times, more old men may be expected and more of them will remain, no doubt, in places of authority. And with a more highly organized civilization, in which the physical and physiological vicissitudes of life become less determinative, there will be more places for old men. Years will make less difference. Ability, whether it be young or old, will count. When men like Justice Holmes bring 90 years of honor to America, age surely is no handicap.

THE DESTRUCTIVE PEACE.

Great Britain has warned Austria that the proposed customs agreement with Germany must be dropped. France, Italy, and Czecho-Slovakia have asked for explanations. The announcement that the two German countries were seeking economic relief in free trade with each other has been greeted in allied countries as a new cause of war, a preliminary to the forbidden union of the two states and a violation of the pledges underlying the financial rehabilitation of Austria.

Dr. Johann Schober, Austrian foreign minister, endeavors to explain that the trade arrangements are offered any nation which will accept them, that they are in accord with various proposals for European harmony and coöperation, notably those of Briand, and that they are necessary to the life of Austria.

It was the intent of the peace treaties to limit the power of Germany so far as the future could be confined and to destroy the Austrian empire, releasing its subordinated peoples and restraining the Germans and Magyars. The release of nationalities was in the direction of freedom, but Hungary was exposed to the rapacity of the Rumanians and Austria was left dying at the door of the league of nations. When the convulsions had become odious to the sight of men the allies were moved to a measure of financial relief which would stay the actual dissolution of the people themselves, but which would nevertheless leave them as the mendicants of chance.

The fatal theory of the peace in central Europe has been that one generation, in the spirit of victors smarting from their wounds, can bind the future by repressive measures. The peace treaties made two causes of war where one had been before 1914. When the Germans of Austria had been torn out of their economic life their natural place was with the Germans of the republic. The idea that the addition of this small population to the citizenship of the republic will hold the balance between a strong and a weak Germany is one of a midnight imagination. It ignores the fact that wars find their causes in inequities and injustice, in repressions and denied rights, in sufferings when there is the spirit to resent the impositions and strength to throw them off.

If the tariff agreements of Germany and Austria are to be vetoed by nations interested only in preventing the recovery of livable conditions and prospects in central Europe, peace will be regarded as valueless.

ABOLISH BILLBOARDS IN ILLINOIS.

New Jersey has made a step towards civilization by recent laws against billboards. Illinois should follow New Jersey's example.

In New Jersey an annual license fee is charged each company in the business of outdoor advertising. A permit must be obtained for each new sign erected. A tax of three cents a square foot is collected on all billboards except those on the premises where the advertised business is conducted. No billboard may be erected within 500 feet of a road intersection where it might obscure the view of motorists. Billboards are coming down in New Jersey.

What New Jersey and other states have begun Illinois should continue. Our highways are in effect great public parks and recreational areas costing billions of dollars. Today they are being ruined in one of their chief purposes by billboards. The roads are exploited with no public value in return. As a part of the highway legislation of Illinois there should be measures taken towards the drastic control and elimination of signs and billboards.

CANADA COUNTS HER CHILDREN.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Canada is sharpening her pencil to take a census. Like the United States, the dominion counts its children every ten years, but does it one year after we do.

This census means much to Canada, for it is expected to put the dominion over the 10,000,000 mark. If it should fail to do so there will be much gnashing of teeth and demands for recounts, just as some states and cities on our side of the border were doing last year. An official estimate as of last June 30 placed the population at 9,924,500, but there was some fear that this figure might be a trifle optimistic. In 1921 the population was 8,788,483.

Two or three years ago some Canadians were annoyed because of their slowing rate of growth. Especially were they disturbed that immigration from Great Britain was averaging only a half to a third of what it had been before the war. Also the 100,000 new citizens a year the dominion was getting from the United States in the boom days of the Canadian northwest had dwindled to 25,000 or 30,000. There was likewise protest because so many young Canadians were going to the United States, where wages were higher and automobiles cheaper.

Then the depression came and the slower growth seemed much less of a disadvantage. Canada has apparently kept its percentage of unemployment considerably under the United States figure, although this belief cannot be proved until the new census is complete.

One wishes Canada joy in her census, with the friendly hope that it will prove everything she hopes it will.

MILLIONAIRE FARMERS HAIL FARM BOARD.

[LYKELL Photo.]

FARMERS FROM ALL OVER THE MIDDLE WEST crowded into the Coliseum yesterday, waving their silk hats and cheering lustily over the great success of the Federal Farm Board in raising the price of wheat. Wearing handsome garments made of the costliest imported Scotch and Irish tweeds and with diamonds big as hens' eggs, the farmers arrived at the meeting in their great ten thousand dollar automobiles driven by liveried chauffeurs. The announcement that the Farm Board would not buy wheat this year in order to maintain the price was greeted by the farmers with wild moans and hoarse cries of dismay. Great, strong men wept all over the place and many of the millionaire farmers fainted. However, they got so much money last year from the sale of their wheat that they don't have to work any more anyhow.

BECAUSE OF MEMORY.

So clear it is, because of memory,
the sound of your laugh low-born within your throat,
the sough of the surf, relentless and remote, and snow in your hair like star-shine on the sea.

Our faces lifted to the sky, our feet soundless upon a walk laid white and clean for us to trample down, and then the lean whine of the wind confined in a city street.

These are mine more than my bed and table, and other things like these are yours to hold.
Thoughts I can unfold again to fold and lay away, and be glad that I am able.

THE SUN has bumped across the equator and now it's spring. No doubt about it, the days are as glorious as they are in June; science, blue skies, first robins, warm south winds, a hint of green in the grass; everything says it's spring. But keep 'em on, keep 'em on; the seasons are so mixed up that this may be autumn with winter waiting around the corner.

ABOUT ALL we have to depend on right now for a thrill is Jimmie Walker, and he insists on staying out in California. Ah, but some day James will go back to Broadway and answer the scandalous charges that have been hurled at him by walking down the middle of the street on his hands and doing three back somersaults. And New York will laugh and laugh and present him with a gold headed cane, and he will go away to Europe the next day to take his vacation.

THE DOMINANT MALE.

He belonged to the most exclusive clubs in town
And lived the life of a Schnitzler's Don Juan.
In a spirit of democracy
(Or was it to parade his amour?)
He frequently amused the members
Of the Ultra Ultra club
By taking to dinner
Some girl of the toiling mass—
Say a girl that waited table
In some arty Bohemian dive.
How condescendingly amused our Don Juan
Would be at her social errors
What pleasure it gave him
To subtly suggest that the waiter
Would not remove her plates
Unless the knife and fork were placed just so!
I wonder if he ever discovered
Her errors were for his benefit
And her increasingly expensive garments
A tribute to his generosity
And her knowledge of male psychology!

OF COURSE the year is young yet, but it's almost the end of the third month, and our desiccated tooth brush stock hit a new low yesterday. Somehow, there are moments when we almost feel that we were a little harsh in our attitude towards poor old 1930. Anyhow, 1930 never gave wheat such an awful kick in the pants as it got yesterday. Hey, 1921, what about it? A little action, please!

A MODIFIED ASCHHEIM-ZONDEK.

THE accepted laboratory test for pregnancy has been simplified and made more practical and less expensive. One name of this procedure is the hormone test. The name by which it is generally known is the Aschheim-Zondek test. The original method and some of its possibilities and applications have been covered in this column on several occasions. The simplifications and the demonstration of their feasibility have come from animal research and fairly extensive clinical trial by Drs. P. F. Schneider and M. A. Friedman.

The simplified method consists in injecting some urine from a supposedly pregnant woman into the large ear vein of a young female rabbit. At the end of a day and a half, or less, the rabbit is killed, autopsied, and evidence of the action of a certain hormone on the pelvic organs is searched for. These effects can be recognized, as a rule, by the unaided eye, though it is customary to follow up with an examination of the rabbit tissues with a low power microscope.

The old method was the same except that young female white mice were used for the test. Several mice were injected. A microscopic examination of the mouse tissue was required. The advantages of the modified method are these:

It discloses pregnancy by the end of the third week and probably even earlier.

Young female rabbits are cheaper and more readily available than young white mice.

Only one animal is required or, at most, one for the test and a second for a check.

The test can be completed in thirty hours and probably in less time.

It can be made by any physician who has enough experience to inject a rabbit vein and who knows the appearance of tissues at autopsy.

If any laboratory equipment be necessary, the only requirement is for a low power microscope.

Dr. Schneider reports the test to be exceptionally dependable. It makes some mistakes, but they are few in number and they can be checked with no great difficulty. He thinks it probable that the test can be made use of even earlier than the third week, and the time required for a test can be shortened from thirty hours to possibly eight hours.

IT'S LARGELY A HABIT.

Mrs. H. N. writes: My 11 year old son blinks his eyelids rapidly at times and seems unable to stop. This is not so all the time. He will stop for months and then suddenly start all over again. I have had his eyes examined and they seem all right. What is the cause of this? Does water in the ears cause it? What remedy would you suggest? His eyes are not inflamed, do not water, and seem normal. It seems more like nervous trouble.

REPLY.

This appears to be a habit. He does this consciously and for a purpose. A great nerve specialist once advised the pin treatment for a similar case. The pin treatment consists in jabbing a child with a pin whenever he blinks his eyes. I wrote of that case and was chased out of town for doing so.

MANY CAUSES OF BOILS.

Mrs. G. B. writes: What is the cause and cure of boils? I have had them the last three years on my chin, temple, and arms. I have taken much medicine without results. They are worse in the spring, but likely to come any time.

REPLY.

There are many causes of boils. Among them are diabetes, diet too rich in starch and sugar, dirty skin, irritation of the skin, some exposure of the skin connected with the occupation.

I wonder if you do not have pimples, a variety of boils? If so, care in keeping the grease glands emptied and in keeping the skin clean is more effective than taking medicins internally. The best treatment consists in finding the cause and avoiding it. This may include dieting and care of the skin. Phage locally is the best remedy after diet and skin hygiene.

STILL HAVE TROUBLE.

M. S. writes: I had a toxic goiter operation two years ago. Since then I have been working as a painter and have had lots of excitement which left me nervous. After lunch my heart starts laboring very hard and I can actually see my shirt being pushed out by it. The same occurs after eating supper. The result is that I am worried and sleepy and have no pep at all.

REPLY.

My guess is that you still have goiter trouble and need treatment for that. Application of ice bags over your thyroid and your heart will give you temporary relief.

WHO PAYS TAXES?

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A holds a mortgage on a house and lot. B, the mortgagor, is pressed financially and does not pay the taxes and bills on the house and does not make good his notes to A. The house is torn down by the city, as it is condemned. A forecloses on B, and as the house is gone he must take only the lot and suffer a loss. 1. In foreclosing, before taking the lot, must A pay the taxes and other debts which B had never paid on the house? 2. Even though the lot does not now belong to him, must B pay these debts which he incurred when the building was his? 3. If not, who does pay these bills? E. C.

1. In order to make a clear title some one would have to pay taxes.
2. The creditor is in a position to take a deficiency decree against the debtor. It makes little difference whether the creditor pays the taxes and increases the decree correspondingly or tries to charge the taxes directly against the debtor.
3. See preceding answers.

WAGE CLAIM.

Chicago, March 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister obtained a job as a waitress at one of the restaurants. She was paid weekly. Towards the end she was not paid for three weeks, and this restaurant went bankrupt. She asked for wages, but the restaurateur refused pay, stating he had no money. The amount is $15 ($5 per week). Now this man has opened a new restaurant and still refuses to pay. He insists that he has no money and, secondly, he tries to evade payment in every possible way. What should she do to collect this amount? How should she go about it? H. C.

The Illinois statute authorizes recovery of attorney fees on wage claims. It is sometimes possible to get an attorney to undertake collection in reliance on such fee, but ordinarily some payment in advance is required. The Legal Aid Bureau of the United Charities assists those who are unable to pay an attorney.

MARCH 24, 1915.

LONDON. — "Seventeen Belgians, most of whom were young peasants, were shot at daybreak today in the Ghent barracks, after having been found guilty by a German court martial of espionage in the interest of the allies," says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Amsterdam.

NEW YORK. — The Mallory liner Denver, which sprang a leak 1,300 miles from New York on its return from Bremen, was aided by five steamers, the St. Louis, Manhattan, Megantic, Corsican, and Vestris, after S O S calls. All passengers and the crew of sixty-five were rescued. The rescuers stated the Denver had but a few hours left before sinking.

MONTEREY.—Gen. Francisco Villa has begun his campaign against the three principal border ports held by the Carranzistas—Neuvo Laredo, Metamoras, and Tampico.

LONDON.—It is reported at Tenedos that six Turkish forts have been wrecked by the allied fleet in the Dardanelles. The allied fleet suffered some damage, all due to floating mines.

SALONIKI.—The Italians are fortifying the Dodekanese islands, formerly the Turkish Sporades, in the Ægean sea, with heavy caliber guns, and numerous steamers are said to be taking munitions there.

CHICAGO.—Chicago's labor difficulties will be thrashed out today in a conference of union officials presided over by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 24, 1901.

CHICAGO.—The will of John W. Williams, former resident of Evanston, whose later years were spent at Mountain View, Cal., was filed for probate. It disposes of an estate of $2,000,000, most of it being left to the children. It provides that the trustees shall be removed if they ever become addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors or gamble in stocks, grains, or other commodities on margins.

CHICAGO. — John W. Doane, the Chicago tea and coffee merchant and capitalist and former president of the Merchants Loan and Trust company, died of heart disease at his apartments in the Holland house, New York, on the 67th anniversary of his birth. He was a large stockholder in the Pullman company and his estate is estimated at $2,000,000. He was president of the Merchants Loan and Trust company for 14 years, retiring in 1898, when he was succeeded by Orson Smith.

MANILA.—News of the capture of Aguinaldo by Gen. Funston is expected daily. Funston left Manila two weeks ago at the head of an expedition organized by Gov. Gen. McArthur for the express purpose of capturing the insurgent leader. The expedition was made up of trusted natives. It was conveyed by the gunboat Vicksburg and the cruiser Albany to the east coast of Luzon, north of Baler. From the landing place Funston had a six days' march inland before reaching Aguinaldo's hiding place.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 24, 1881.

NICE.—The Italian opera house was destroyed by fire which broke out at the beginning of a performance. It is feared that 100 men and women perished in the flames. The bodies of fourteen persons have been recovered.

LONDON.—A Mount Prospect dispatch says: "At today's conference the Boers definitely agreed to all the British terms, and peace is assured. The Boers will retire from Laing's Nek tomorrow." Transports on the way to Natal will be sent back without disembarking their troops. Gen. Roberts and the troops with him will go on to Natal. The royal commission will be appointed in June.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Russian peasants are organizing pilgrimages to the spot where the czar was assassinated. They are flocking to the city from all parts of the country.

BALTIMORE.—John T. Crow, managing editor of the Baltimore Sun since 1865 and connected with that journal since 1848, died of apoplexy in his 60th year.

PARIS.—Two Frenchmen have been sentenced to eight months' imprisonment each for posting congratulatory placards on the assassination of the czar on the dead walls of Paris and a Paris editor was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and fined 200 francs for an article applauding the assassination.

ATLANTA.—Greenville, S. C., is preparing for a hanging of unusual importance in that city the early part of next month. The necks of five men—three white and two colored—are to be broken on the same gallows on the same day. The men were convicted and sentenced to death for arson in the burning of the jail in which they were confined.

CHICAGO.—The city council, with Mayor Harrison in the chair, fixed the mayor's salary at $4,500 a year. The salary of the prosecuting attorney was raised from $2,000 to $3,000. Increases in the appropriation bill during the meeting, most of which was for salaries, amount to about $88,500.

DOUGHBOY.

Chicago, March 21.—In THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE for March 17 there appeared an editorial on "Words," interesting, instructive, poetic in flavor, but at least in one item questionable. "The doughboy carried flour for biscuits on his practice marches and so came by his name." This explanation of origin is a trap into which the unwary easily fall, generally with the further statement that the term became current during the civil war. "Doughboy" was a word from soldier cant in vogue years before the civil war, cant which seldom got into print.

From my father, Gen. S. M. Fox, I have heard that it was spelled "doboy" in earlier days as a name derived from "adobie" shortened to "dobie," and that it had its origin in the fact that the infantry on duty in the southwest along the Mexican border after the Mexican war were fixtures at the posts where they built and lived in adobie huts. From the habitations, then, and perhaps from the drudgery of building them, the name applied aptly in joke or derision by the more mobile and transient cavalry had its origin. The derisive joshing always in evidence between infantry and cavalry arms of the service sometimes winnows out a word or phrase which becomes a permanent addition to the language. From the very nature of the origin, the word of mouth transmission, the trace of a term to its beginning is often obscure.

AN INCOME TAX INJUSTICE.

Chicago, March 18.—Referring to Mr. Orr's income tax cartoon, I wish to say that I am a young single man, earning $40 a week, supporting my parents, who do not live in this state. My father is lame and my mother partially blind (totally blind in one eye). They live on a farm because the cost of living is less, and when I applied for the $400 exemption on each parent I was told in very sarcastic tones by a fifth floor federal building clerk that I was not entitled to it.

You can form your own opinion as to what I think of Mr. Orr's cartoon. H.

IT DOES SEEM SO.

Chicago, March 20.—I attended a meeting of Mayor Thompson at a loop theater, and he said Mr. Cermak kept an Irishman from getting the nomination and mentioned a few names, such as Judge Sullivan and Ald. Clark. Mayor Thompson was elected three times. If he is so interested in the Irish, why does he not resign and turn his nomination over to an Irishman? When an Irishman did want to run—Charles V. Barrett—Mr. Thompson called him one of the James boys. I think Mr. Thompson is playing for the Irish vote. JAMES P. O'BRIEN.

TAXES IN DU PAGE COUNTY.

Chicago, March 18.—If the Cook county taxpayers are not satisfied with their taxes, let them be thankful that they are not in Du Page county. My taxes for 1930 for sixty feet of barren waste farm land, a so-called subdivision with absolutely no improvements of any kind, not even a part of the city of Elmhurst, were $17.79. At that rate I think it would be advisable to turn over the deed and quit. A person would be money ahead. FRANCIS MURPHY.

THE DANGERS OF PUBLICITY.

Chicago, March 18.—As a reader of your paper, I would like to ask what good does it do the public to know what income tax people pay, especially the large income tax, in times like these when thousands are not able to get the most necessary things of life. It seems to me news of this sort only spreads discontent and communism. It is a matter that concerns only the payer and the government, I should judge.

Chicago, March 16.—We, the Scouts and Scoutmaster of Troop 83, send you the heartiest thanks for the colored pictures of birds in the March 1 edition. We would greatly appreciate a reproduction of more birds, trees, or animals. Thank you, too, for the Bob Becker poster.

Chicago, March 20.—Is it too early to suggest the name of Speaker Nicholas Longworth for the next two terms in the White House? PAUL ODIL.

EXPLAINING DIANA.

Chicago, March 21.—Eleanor Jewett's criticism of the Carl Milles fountain pleased me. The Diana is an awkward piece of work coming from the hand of a genius.

Whatever are our ideas of art, there is one thing on which we all agree, and that is that there are two approaches: one concerns the objective world in which we live, in which we see realities; the other is concerned with the world of imagination. Neither one precludes the other; both are important.

A great many artists like to be abstract, but they are held back by memory, their training, custom—and they find it difficult to be wholly abstract. That is one of the reasons we see so many things which are half and half, so many distortions, things which are very brilliant but not quite accomplished.

There is a pleasure of the mind and the pleasure of the sense of seeing, and this second pleasure is the more important one. JOSEPH ADLE SMITH.

THE SHY RECOIL.

Chicago, March 21. — Miss Harriet Monroe, ex-art critic for THE TRIBUNE, describes Milles' "Diana" as a "goddess born in the dawn of time, caught by the sculptor in a shy recoil," etc. Perhaps that "shy recoil" explains the horribly awkward pose and the broken leg. J.

ANOTHER BIRD.

Chicago, March 21.—Regarding your editorial today on the flew-flew bird, it is apparent that had it been to your purpose you might have written it in many less words, yet no less obvious that many words are required upon occasion to dress up a questionable viewpoint. Allow me to suggest that you do not too hastily classify the various birds in your reference, at least until you are certain of their direction.

Oddly enough, there are still many birds living, despite the effort, who do recall conditions here and abroad before the present generation. They might tell you of a case fully forty years ago, where English townspeople paraded to the town hall with loaves dipped in blood in protest at the high price of bread; but even then it was not necessary for respectable citizens with pride to sleep beneath bridges, and no one had to starve through being averse to loose companions and to public begging.

It is not through positive inclusion that industrial capitalism has afforded the masses of people an improved standard of living, but through negative acceptance of a necessary complement; further, there is no explanation covering the ideas even of the flew-flew bird as to why our present condition should conform to the unenlightened past.

There is another bird, who, after making a nest for Russia, will wonder what it is about when Russia, as she inevitably may, accepts it and teaches us the new system. This bird has no eyes and is known as the diehard.

R. W. FULLER.

WINGED ANGELS.

Chicago, March 18.—Mayor Thompson doesn't claim to be a winged angel, and we all know Cermak isn't, so why print such nonsense? Your newspaper suggests a political news bulletin instead of a clean news sheet.

I hope with all your dirt throwing and mud slinging Thompson beats your candidate. And when you are taking straw votes why not go into the Thompson wards instead of the silk stocking?

MRS. G. ABELANDER.

MR. DARRAH ON CHILE.

Chicago, March 19.—On behalf of my government, as well as myself and the people of Chile, I desire to thank you most sincerely for the article your paper was kind enough to publish with regard to Chile on March 15, 1931. I wish also to extend our thanks to Mr. David Darrah for his very kind expression of appreciation for the country that I represent. M. H. EHLERT,
Consul of Chile.

THE MUSE'S LICENSE.

Chicago, March 17.—It is annoying enough to be compelled to listen to the weird noises, sometimes erroneously called music, coming from the calliopes on the street, but it is worse to observe old 1930 license plates on them. I suppose if some watchful policeman should give them a ticket, he would lose his job. OBSERVER.

ACT TO EQUALIZE DAIRIES' OUTPUT IN CHICAGO AREA

Big Producers Will Cut Milk Shipments.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A plan for readjusting the basis upon which 18,000 dairy farmers supply Chicago and nearby markets with milk and cream was adopted yesterday at a mass meeting of the Pure Milk association in the Auditorium hotel.

The plan, submitted by an advisory committee of 17 dairymen after a day of debate over the association's problems, provides for a voluntary reduction of 5 per cent in the basic volume of milk for which the members shipping the greatest amounts to the city markets are paid. This in turn would be added to the smaller farmers' volume, in an effort to equalize the reimbursements to all members.

Reports to the association indicated, it was said, that about 16 per cent of the dairymen composing its membership are dissatisfied with the present method of payments, adopted in 1929 and readjusted last December. No difference in the retail price of milk in Chicago is contemplated by the association.

Seek to Help Dairymen.

"We are merely trying to help those dairymen who were unable to produce their average quota of milk during the period in which the association's basis of payment was set," said a member of the advisory committee.

The Pure Milk association, composed of 167 local units in 26 counties in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, now controls all milk delivered in Chicago and some 50 nearby communities.

"Our big job now is to retain for the farmers in this association the market privileges we now have," declared Don N. Geyer, manager of the organization. "Our problem is to market fluid milk for $2.32 per hundred pounds [46½ quarts] when outlying areas would gladly send it in for much less."

"So long as the membership of the organization remains solidly behind it, we can expect coöperation from milk dealers and the public," W. C. McQueen, president, asserted in reply to a Wisconsin dairyman who suggested obtaining political "protection."

Farmers Reach Accord.

Heated arguments took place early in the meeting, when several delegates indicated they were afraid that the attempted selling of milk in Wisconsin retail stores at 8 cents a quart might cause a break in prices in the Chicago area. The closing hour, however, evidenced a more harmonious attitude, following the unanimous adoption of the advisory committee's plan, submitted by W. J. McKenney, a Clinton [Wis.], farmer.

The plan, it was said by McQueen, would be considered by the association's board of directors in their meeting "in about a week."

AID FOR FARMER MAJOR ISSUE IN NEXT CONGRESS

Watson Says Equalization Fee; Borah Debenture.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—Farm relief legislation emerged today as a prospective major issue during the next session of congress.

The consensus among Republican leaders in Washington today was that the abandonment of the wheat stabilization program by the farm board will precipitate a situation in the farming districts which will bring about a demand for the adoption of some new type of farm relief legislation this winter.

While President Hoover is known to be opposed to such remedial farm legislation as the equalization fee and the export debenture plan, prominent Republican leaders today frankly discussed the possibility that one of these plans might be passed during the next session of congress. Difference of opinion on the type of legislation to be enacted into law may, however, act as a barrier against enactment of either plan.

Among those who demanded passage of legislation embodying the equalization fee principle was Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], Republican floor leader in the senate.

"We have got to take the equalization fee," Senator Watson said. "That appears to be the only remedy."

Borah Favors Debenture.

The Indiana senator said he did not believe in the feasibility of the export debenture plan of farm relief which is supported by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], one of the radical Republican senate leaders.

Members of the farm board today admitted that the government stood to lose possibly as much as $75,000,000 or $85,000,000 as a result of its venture in the market as a wheat purchaser during the period it has been acting artificially to increase wheat prices. Chairman James C. Stone said in response to queries today that federal holdings of cash and futures wheat may run as high as 275 million bushels on July 1. Present commitments of the board in wheat and cotton were placed by Mr. Stone at something below 400 millions.

After a conference with the farm board today, Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, said he was informed that one of the reasons that led the board to make its decision was lack of sufficient money and its inability to market the 1930 wheat surplus abroad.

"The board will have by July 1 250 million or 275 million bushels of wheat tied up, which it purchased at an average cost of 92 cents a bushel, or 31 cents below the world price," Senator McNary said. "The board decided that it did not have adequate capital and storage facilities to continue its stabilization system in 1931. It was confronted with the proposition in another year of an increased surplus and inadequate storage facilities.

"There appears, at present, to be no way of disposing of this surplus. The question before the board was what was to be done with the present purchased wheat and that of next year, in the face of a world surplus. Attempts to sell it in foreign countries met with a threat that an embargo would be placed on American goods if subsidized wheat was sent into their countries at prices below the world price.

Urges Cut in Acreage.

"While I favor the equalization fee program, I cannot see how it will help solve the present situation in the face of the world wheat surplus."

Senator Borah, commenting on the action of the farm board, suggested that the present wheat surplus in this country be sent to China or destroyed. He expects to urge the export debenture plan as a substitute for price stabilization.

Commenting on the board's decision not to stablize the 1931 wheat crop, Chairman Stone of the board said it would be only a question of time before domestic wheat prices would be reduced to the world levels unless farmers made considerable progress in curtailing acreage planting.

ITALIAN PROVINCE IS SHAKEN UP BY AN EARTHQUAKE

NAPLES, Italy, March 23.—(AP)—An earthquake shook the province of Reggia Calabria this afternoon. The tremors lasted 20 seconds. No loss of life was reported and there was little property damage.

Serbian Quakes Continue.

BELGRADE, March 23.—(AP)—The earthquakes in South Serbia continued without letup today, completing the work of destruction. Numerous dwellings and other buildings were falling to pieces.

WHALEN CALLS ST. PAUL GOOD ADVERTISING MAN

The Apostle Paul, the prince of Wales, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were described as advertising men of the first rank by Grover Whalen, New York City's official greeter, in an address yesterday before 400 advertising men at the Hotel Sherman. The occasion was a joint luncheon meeting of the advertising council of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion.

The journeys of the English prince have stimulated sales of British goods and the flights of Col. Lindbergh created good will for America, where ill feeling had existed before. The former New York police commissioner said. The flaming messages of St. Paul, he declared, were a potent force in spreading the gospel of Christianity. Their jobs were essentially ones of advertising, he said.

Great cities such as Chicago and New York should devote more of their time to publicizing their own virtues, the speaker asserted. Critics too frequently emphasize the weaknesses and forget the advantages of those municipalities. As a trade stimulant good will is as important to a city as a private enterprise, he said.

BRAKEMAN KILLED IN YARDS.

Frank German, 50 years old, 5527 Minerva avenue, a brakeman, was killed yesterday when he was crushed between two cars of a train he was switching in the Rock Island yards at Roosevelt road.

126 SHIPWRECK SURVIVORS FREED FROM ICY 'PRISON'

0 Reach Land; Viking's Mavigator Dies.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, March 23.—(AP)—The ice floes of White bay today released their grip on the sealing vessels carrying 126 survivors of the Viking disaster and tonight the Prospero, one of the relief ships reported to the government that it had landed about 40 survivors at Catalina, 65 miles north of St. John's.

The Prospero has been expected to reach this port about 7 o'clock tomorrow morning and the coastal steamer Sagona, bearing sick and injured members of the ill-fated sealer's crew, was expected between 2 and 3 a. m. One of her rescued party, William Kennedy, the Viking's navigator, died tonight of pneumonia, wireless advices from Capt. Jacob Kean said. Kennedy, Harry Sargent of Boston, and Clayton King, wireless operator, were picked up while floating on a piece of wreckage.

Will Probe Disaster.

It was stated in advices from the Sagona that all the uninjured survivors had been transferred to the Prospero.

When all the rescued men are in port and have rested, Sir Richard Squires, prime minister of Newfoundland, will open an inquiry to determine the cause of the explosion that wrecked the Viking, piling up a casualty list of two known dead, 26 missing, and many injured.

While the rescue ships were heading for land airplanes were racing to obtain pictures of the disaster. One plane had hard luck.

Robert F. Fogg of Concord, N. H., arrived at Horse island in White bay and cruised over the scene of the explosion while S. B. Wright, news cameraman, took pictures. Fogg essayed a landing on the ice and cracked up. His runners were damaged and, according to word reaching St. John's, repairs were impossible. Neither he nor Wright was injured.

C. F. Kent, another pilot seeking pictures, returned to Cape Breton flying field late today after a short flight over the southwestern tip of Newfoundland.

Bernt Balchen, who planned an air search of the waters about Horse island in the hope of discovering some of the missing men, was held up in Corner Brook, Newfoundland, awaiting fuel which arrived too late to continue the flight today.

Moses of New Hampshire, president pro tempore of the senate, who will discuss "Washington in Perspective." Another speaker will be Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward.

WAR VET KILLS 2 BANK BANDITS AFTER ROBBERY

Edna, Kas., March 23.—(AP)—Two unidentified men who robbed the First National bank of $1,397 here today were slain in a gun fight with Dr. A. T. Hyde, world war veteran, as they sought to escape with their loot.

Hyde, a dentist, stood in the doorway of a building across the street from the bank and opened fire with a shotgun as the bandits were entering their automobile. One of the robbers was killed. The other returned the fire. Hyde continued to pour a stream of buckshot at his adversary, who fell fatally wounded. The dentist was uninjured.

Greenview Bank Robbed.

Greenview, Ill., March 23.—(AP)—Three unmasked bandits this morning forced three officials of the Greenview State bank to lie on the floor while they scooped up currency and coin aggregating approximately $4,000.

Nashville Bank Loses $9,000.

Nashville, Tenn., March 23.—(AP)—Two masked men held up the teller of the Centennial Park branch of the American National bank today and took approximately $9,000.

HOW WILL HE WEAR England's CROWN?

ON the stage as the world's most eligible bachelor, as sportsman, as the British Empire's supersalesman; every word, every action of the Prince of Wales is exposed to the full glare of the spotlight.

Yet some day, as England's ruler, he will occupy an even larger stage. What will this young man—as modern as the age in which he lives—make of the ancient business of monarchy? What is his attitude toward the Crown? What does he really think?

G. K. Chesterton, eminent author, has answered these questions in The April American Magazine . . . in an intimate and sympathetic portrait of this engaging young Prince. It is a behind-the-scenes story about Wales you will enjoy intensely—every word.

It is through such articles of universal appeal as this . . . written by world-renowned authors . . . that The American Magazine each month gains new readers. Already it is "first with all the family" in hundreds of thousands of homes.

P. G. WODEHOUSE makes his BOW

LORDS and ladies, butlers and buncombe artists, romp through the hilarious pages of P. G. Wodehouse's latest and funniest novel, "If I Were You," which starts in The April American Magazine.

Among all the millions how few there are who can make us laugh. P. G. Wodehouse is one of the few...and when you read the succession of laughs in the generous first installment of the novel with which this delightful humorist makes his bow to the American family you'll immediately agree.

The Market for True Value Never Grows Less

Things of long established, substantial value find their market even in trying times.

There is a type of citizenship which looks below the surface and unerringly selects the sound and the enduring.

This type of mind, in time of disturbance, holds fast to its investing convictions in the choice of a motor car, as much as in other investments.

Pierce-Arrow has never had in mind any other clientele than this.

It has never wavered in its aim for the confidence and approval of the discerning.

In that special sense, its principles and policies—and especially its manufacturing processes and practices—have never changed a particle.

There is no more progressive car than the new Pierce-Arrow in engineering and in meeting the most modern motoring requirements.

But intrinsically and in deeply-embedded devotion to quality above any and all other considerations, it is still the sterling Pierce-Arrow of a quarter of a century ago.

So, again it is finding its market—being sought out indeed as it has always been by that group of citizenship which never loses or lessens its faith in the enduring character of American institutions and in the survival-value of those products which earnestly endeavor to live up to them.

Advertise in The Tribune

More Awards in the Tribune's TRUE WANT AD EXPERIENCE OFFER

Mary S. Oldberg, 1024 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill.—"I have an uninterrupted quarter century of successful experience with Tribune Want Ads to record. Annually for twenty-five years I have used a Tribune advertisement in the spring, and each consecutive spring have had the same gratifying result. Circumstances make it possible for my family to take a three months' vacation each summer. It is convenient, also remunerative, to have our home occupied during our absence. An advertisement in the Tribune under the caption, "Furnished Houses to Rent," has brought a reliable, responsible tenant twenty-five times. This method has invariably succeeded. We use no other means of placing our house before the renting public. However, I claim some credit for this splendid record because of the type of advertisement inserted. I always use enough words to describe adequately what we are offering, giving the prospective renter clear information as to what he may expect, emphasizing renting features most desirable for summer occupancy."

J. William Heftel, 2319 Chase Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"My wife and I have been looking for an apartment that would provide a yard, allow children, and offer all conveniences that would be enjoyed if one were to own a bungalow. We wanted it to be fairly modern and in a good location, near a school, shopping, and transportation. This was difficult until I read a want ad, as follows; '5 lge., sunny rooms, rear—steam—all transportation—$55.00—see to appreciate—Rogers Park 6947.' By phoning we were told to come to 1631 Estes Ave., where we found the very thing we were looking for, and the rental was attractive. I am enabled here to live in a comfortable home, easily compared with a $100.00 apt. in this vicinity."

L. J. D., 230 N. Kenneth Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"Owing to the fact that times are so hard, I, like many others, had to give up some luxury in order to obtain money. I had to sell my car. I called up the Tribune on Friday and had them take my ad for Sunday morning. One of your readers clipped out the ad, called, and bought my car. I call that quick action for only $2.65!"

Mrs. G. H. L., 1310 Howard St., Chicago, Ill.—"Two Sundays ago I placed an ad in your Tribune offering a full set of dinnerware for exchange. I received in answer to this one ad 69 letters offering me everything from revolvers, tuxedos, etc., to acreage in Northern Wisconsin. I exchanged the set of dishes for a very lovely oil painting by a well known artist, and, best of all, we are both very much satisfied."

Mrs. L. M. J., 1002 Washington St., Evanston, Ill.—"One summer day a good many years ago, an ambitious young man mailed a small want ad of three or four lines to the Chicago Sunday Tribune, from the scorching plains of Kansas. This ad stated the ability of the young man as a writer of advertising copy and asked for a job in that kind of work. In less than a week the Tribune mailed back to the young man in Kansas a bundle of letters, answers to his ad. After scanning these many letters, the young man took the first train for Chicago, where he immediately took steps to get in communication with the writers of his letters. He was soon located in a paying position. After a time he established his own company and became well known in advertising circles in Chicago. He was always a strong believer in want ads, and many times made use of them in his business. That first want ad changed the destiny of a family and brought more than average success to a man who had ability and knew how to use it. This is the story of my late husband, C. P. J."

Another Group of Prize Winners in TOMORROW'S

HERE are five more prize-winning True Want Ad Experiences as told by Chicago Tribune readers. The writers of each of the letters reprinted here will receive $5.00 in cash.

Read these letters. Note the various ways in which Tribune Want Ads have been of helpful service to these Tribune readers.

Have you had a True Want Ad Experience which you think is as good as some of these? Send it to the Tribune!

$1000.00 In Cash Awards will be paid by the Chicago Tribune for the best True Want Ad Experiences submitted in accordance with a few simple rules.

Five True Want Ad Experiences will be published in the Tribune daily and Sunday for 29 days. Send in your experience today!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. Each day for the 29 days starting Sunday, March 22, 1931, the Chicago Tribune will publish five (5) True Want Ad Experiences. Letters must relate to experiences which took place prior to March 15, 1931. You are invited to send in a True Want Ad Experience and try for one of the cash awards which the Tribune will pay.
2. $5.00 will be paid to each person who submits a True Want Ad Experience which is published. IN ADDITION, from all the letters submitted the following grand prizes will be paid to the persons whose letters are adjudged the best of all: First Grand Prize, $100.00; Second Grand Prize, $50.00; Third Grand Prize, $25.00; next ten Grand Prizes, $10.00 each. Total in prizes, $1,000.00.
3. Letters will be selected which, in the opinion of the judges, relate experiences in which Tribune Want Ads have performed the most helpful service, as judged from all the circumstances given in the letter. In making their decisions, the judges will be governed by the facts given in the letters. Neatness, but NOT grammar and literary skill, will be considered.
4. This offer is open to all, except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just send in a brief letter.
5. Letters must not exceed 300 words in length.
6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. The Tribune will be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.
7. All letters must be received in the Tribune office before 9:00 p. m. on Monday, April 20, 1931. No letters will be returned.
8. Address all letters to "TRUE WANT AD EXPERIENCES," the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. Please state your name and address, and whether or not your name may be published. If not, only initials will be used.
9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune, their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be made to each tying contestant.

The inside secret of mass selling

EVERYONE KNOWS . . . that the peers of mass selling are the big-city department stores.

Above everyone else, they have discovered the inside secret of how to exchange large quantities of goods for money—at a profit.

The department store's method of selling is not involved.

It's not complicated.

It's absurdly simple. And, it can be applied to your business as well—whether you manufacture steam pumps or silk hosiery.

The newspaper is the one medium with great enough dominance—with great enough force to definitely and completely create sales in any given area!

That's the inside secret of the department store's success in mass selling—even in periods of depression.

But business so often overlooks the obvious—the simple—the line of least resistance.

In Philadelphia and its A. B. C. Suburbs there are 3,709,000 people—843,000 FAMILIES.

One newspaper can no more cover this tremendous potential market—America's third largest—than can one advertisement constitute an advertising campaign.

The Ledger-Inquirer group provides a coverage of this market that completely blankets the entire city and suburban zone, and affords the greatest possible coverage of any Philadelphia newspaper in those rich key cities that make up the Philadelphia marketing area.

A coverage that is both quantitative and qualitative.

A coverage that is 100%.

And, at a cost unbelieveably low.

100% COVERAGE

POLAND WARNS U. S. BEWARE HOW IT LENDS MONEY

Says Huge Sums to One Nation May Cause Harm

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, March 23.—One of the best means of perpetuating peace in Europe would be closer collaboration of creditor countries in perfecting international financial operations, August Zaleski, foreign minister of Poland for almost five years, whose moderating policies are credited with having done much towards stabilizing peace in northeast Europe, declared today.

Zaleski believes that extensive borrowing in American financial marts in recent years has had an important effect in some European countries.

"There is no doubt that the circulation of big sums of capital, raised by European loans floated in America, constitutes an important factor in the economic development of European states by placing in the hands of the borrowing country more purchasing power, and also giving it the possibility of increasing its production through new investments," Mr. Zaleski said.

"But in some cases we observe that the loans assist the countries in rationalizing and developing their industries without properly considering the problem of marketing their products. This was probably caused by looking at foreign bond flotations from the viewpoint of their security and not the effect they would have on the world market at large, and on the borrowing country in particular.

Urges Caution in Loaning.

"To large sums loaned to single countries may cause an overgrowth of production in these countries, and in the long run may become a source of danger rather than a benefit. This brings me to the conclusion that countries able to lend money during moments of crisis should do so carefully.

"Therefore I think central authorities should be created who would see that foreign loan bonds are placed in accordance with a general plan. The plan would have as its basis, apart from the security of investments, comparatively equal distribution of capital in order not to increase the overgrowth of production in some countries at the expense of others.

"In other words, the lending countries ought to consider the question of clearing the markets for industries they help to enlarge and establish, and from this I draw the conclusion that the attention of American bankers should be drawn to the smaller, less industrially developed European countries, such as the Baltic states.

Would Affect Peace, He Says.

"I do not wish to discuss the nature of such authority which would direct equal distribution of capital, but I think the idea should be given serious consideration for the important effect it would have in securing peace in Europe.

"European financing in recent years has not taken this problem into consideration, and therefore large American loans and credits have not had the effect of promoting peace in Europe, which is the wish of America.

"I think the peace outlook for a long period, at present, is very good in Europe. I base my hope on the fact that Europe is too tired and too poor to start a new war. She has not forgotten the terrible experience of the last war. I hope that before Europe creates strength enough to wage a new war, the force of international peace will be so strong that it will be able to prevent it."

Sees U. S. in New War.

Answering a question as to whether, if there should be new armed conflict in Europe, it would not have almost as serious an effect upon America as upon Europe, Zaleski replied:

"The economic and political interests of Europe and America are now so interlocked that it would be practically impossible for America to remain isolated in any crisis. The last war was sufficient to prove this. The interdependence of interests is chiefly due to the enormous amounts of money the United States has invested in Europe, and the smallest conflict would endanger all American investment loans."

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—[By mail.]—Unemployment all over the world, 160 million inhabitants in this country, everything going to the dogs, but try to hire help in Russia.

Apparently nobody in this entire city of three millions is out of a job, or at least no one is interested. I wanted a translater to read the newspapers to me, and also a guide to make a trip out of the city.

"Go to Intourist" [that's the Cook's of Russia], "they will find you some one," I was told.

But no, Intourist had none. Perhaps Intourist would have a young lady next week who could spare two or three hours four mornings a week, but that was the best they could hold out. The price, $1 an hour.

No Men Available.

For a guide to accompany me on the trip, well, maybe I could persuade the young lady—she is really not so young, after all, it seems—to accompany me and translate.

"A man, no, that is impossible, there are no men," I am assured. "All the men work in industry for the 5 year plan, there is not one available."

I insist that I don't want to make a two or three day train journey in a railway compartment with a young lady I have never met before. Anyway, she won't be able to swing the job, I point out. What I want is help in getting out at Arctic stations and routing up the police and finding a droshky and getting a room in a hotel.

Insist Woman Is Better.

"Ah, but the lady will do better than the man for that," I am told. "The young lady has had experience in doing all those things."

By the day, the lady guide's fee is $7.50 and I found she must have food and tea and cigarets, too.

I try two or three other sources, Voks, the state organization for the furtherance of cultural relations; the American Chamber of Commerce, the foreign office, the local newspapers. Everywhere the same answer.

No men available. They all have jobs. Not that a lot of them would not leap and cheer at a soft job like that, traveling around seeing the country, eating regularly and getting smokes and wages, too, but they can't leave their regular jobs. They can't quit if they are dissatisfied. Their food cards are taken away, they are disfranchised and chucked out of their local union. They're all in the army now.

And then I turned to a bit of shopping.

Sporting goods, musical instruments and literature, shoe laces, boot polish and insoles, brassieres, kimonos and leather belts. All these things one can buy in Moscow in unlimited quantities.

Judging by shop windows, Russians are the sportingest people in the world, with skis, skates, fencing foils and masks, basketballs, aged gray tennis balls, even cricket bats, and dumbbells, and pulley exercisers, and shot for putting, in profusion.

The sporting goods shops also sell electric pocket flashlamps without batteries and without bulbs. The batteries are extra and the bulbs are extra, but the callow youths of the capital seem to get a kick out of buying the empty flashlight with its bull's-eye glass on top.

No Mah Jong.

Then there are small suitcases, made of papier maché, that dissolve if water touches them, and kit bags to strap on one's back for hiking, and checker boards and chessmen and even one game of parchesi, brought overland from India on camel back, the salesman said. But no mah jong.

A plethora of musical instruments is on view in the shop windows, ancient fiddles, all the brasses, plenty of saxophones—jazz is frowned on by the authorities—harmonicas to make your mouth sore, bass drums and snare drums and kettle drums, fifes, bugles, trombones, clarinets, oboes, and what not.

Shoe strings are a glut on the market in winter because every one wears felt boots or snow boots, and since, apparently, no one polishes his foot gear, there is plenty of shoe blacking. Heaven only knows what the paper insoles mean in Russians' lives, but there are plenty for sale and they can be used for blotters.

The women get a thrill out of gazing through frosted shop windows at flimsy Japanese wood-silk kimonos of vivid shades, and highly priced, with sashes and embroidered or stamped butterflies adorning them. They buy their brassieres from elderly ladies standing in the streets with tape measures. They make their fittings right on the street.

All the girls wear belts to get the new Paris line, with the waistline accentuated, and there are plenty of ceintures of various colored leather, real and imitation, with rattletrap buckles, to be had.

KIRKLAND TO GET SENTENCE TODAY IF NOT NEW TRIAL

Gary, Ind., March 23.—[Special.]—Virgil Kirkland, convicted of slaying Arlene Draves during a liquor party here last Nov. 29, will be taken before Judge Grant Crumpacker for sentencing in Porter Circuit court, Valparaiso, tomorrow. If Judge Crumpacker overrules a defense motion for a new trial, Kirkland will be sentenced for life and taken to the state prison in Michigan City at once.

Attorneys for Leon Stanford, one of the four others awaiting trial on the same murder indictment, will endeavor to have Judge Crumpacker fix a date next month for Stanford's hearing. The move will be fought by the state, according to Prosecutor Robert G. Estill, since the trial of David Thompson, another of the defendants, has been set for April 14 in Lake Criminal cort, Crown Point.

Like Kirkland, Stanford sought a change of venue to Porter county.

Portuguese River Out of Bank; Carries Off Women

LISBON, Portugal, March 23.—(AP)—The Tagus, out of its banks as a consequence of the recent heavy rains, has claimed a number of lives in inland villages. Sweeping through the streets of Ribatejo, the torrent carried away two peasant women. A barge capsized and two sailors drowned. A third was rescued.

Head Heavy from poor digestion?

"I'M going, anyway"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Bayer-Tablets of Aspirin — Genuine

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

Like Tea . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

EVEN the Japanese maiden who laboriously picks the tea leaves knows that before you sip the delicate beverage from your cup, leaves of another type of tea must be added, for the best teas invariably are blended.

When the tea merchant takes a quantity of Japanese tea, a bit of China tea, and a touch of Ceylonese, then blends them according to the dictates of his expert knowledge, he parallels the making of CONOCO Gasoline. For this is a blended gasoline. It is blended because this is the only method which brings together in one fuel the desirable properties of several types of gasoline. No one type of gasoline can contain them all.

CONOCO refiners use: Natural Gasoline, for quick starting; Straight-run Gasoline, for power and long mileage; Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock properties.

There is no secret formula covering the elements which compose this triple-test gasoline. The secret is in the knowledge behind the blending. Knowing how makes one tea blend better than all others . . . and knowing how places one gasoline in a distinct quality class. Experience the performance advantages of CONOCO Balanced-Blend Gasoline. You'll find it wherever the CONOCO Red Triangle is displayed.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1931.  19

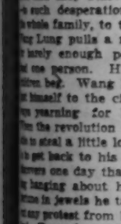
Doris Blake Advises Girls Affairs of Heart and Home

A Pre-view by Fanny Butcher

PERHAPS today we should haul down that flag at the top of the column with its legend, "Pre-view," for we're going to talk about a book that was published eons ago, according to this schedule of snapping up volumes while they still burn our fingers from their rush through the presses.



PEARL S. BUCK.

"The Good Earth," by Pearl S. Buck [John Day], was published on March 9th and was the book of the month for this month. Some of you may have read it by this time. Those of you who haven't will—if you take the person's suggestion—dash out and get a copy instanter.

"The Good Earth" is one of those books that give you renewed faith in the richness of books. It is the story of a Chinese peasant, a dullish, inarticulate person who accepts what life gives him, marries, begets sons and daughters, has a brief interlude of passion in his advancing age and dies. He was a son of the land, and somewhat like Anteus of old, whose strength was renewed seven times every time he touched his mother earth, and who was invincible only as long as he was in contact with the earth. Wang Lung flourished while he had his roots in the good earth and was a withering flower as soon as he left it. There is something epic about "The Good Earth." It has a great deal of the quality of Knut Hamsun's "The Growth of the Soil."

The characters in the book are all Chinese, most of them peasants. The story of how Wang Lung marries unseen and unknown, after the local custom, is a monument of strength—and of silence. She is a heavy peasant, raised from her slavery not to talk, never to complain. She knows that it is her business to bring sons into the world, and she does it silently, and when her time is upon her, hides like an animal. Once she rises from the birth to return to the field and help in the planting. Always she lives silently within herself, working as a hired man, speaking rare wisdom when her lips do form words and coming with a lifetime of slavish desire nothing more than a half sick-ness of disgust from her husband when he compares her, as she is dieing to this beautiful harlot whom he has brought to be the second wife.

Before the lush days of such extravagances as a second wife, however, famine stalks through their village and they starve to desperation in such desperation that they go, as a whole family, to the south. There Wang Lung pulls a rickshaw all day for barely enough pennies' profit to feed one person. His wife and the children beg. Wang Lung cannot adjust himself to the city and he is always yearning for his good earth. When the revolution comes and he is able to steal a little loot, his only idea is to get back to his land. When he discovers one day that his wife has a necklace hanging about her neck with a few stones in jewels he takes them, without any protest from her, to buy more land. Her only wish is that he let her keep two pearls, not to wear as jewels, but to hang over her heart, because she has never felt pearls before. The tragedy of her life reaches a zenith when her husband orders her to give him the pearls that he may have them made into earrings for his second wife.

There is deep pathos in the life of the dumb, uncomplaining creature, who died happy, however, in the knowledge that she had given sons to her husband while her rival would never give him more than a peevish girl.

There is a masculine strength about "The Good Earth" and a feminine sensitiveness that is an extremely rare combination in a novel. How Mrs. Buck came to write so feelingly and so realistically about China she tells in a short autobiographical sketch. "I am the daughter of American missionaries," she writes. "I am the youngest in my family, but the existence of the difficult early years, when my parents lived in the far interior of China, where there were few and sometimes no white people, except bandits, resulted in the death of all the children older than myself, except one brother, who left home to be educated in America before I can remember. I grew up much alone.

"Then lessons were over I roamed the hills and valleys and talked with the men and every one and listened closely to conversations and without, I am sure, many things never noticed before by a white child. The color of the country and the feel of the Chinese people thus became a part of me that cannot be lost.

"When I was fifteen I was sent to a boarding school in Shanghai and saw quite a different sort of Chinese. By this time I had almost ceased to think of myself as different, if indeed I had ever thought so, from the Chinese. When I was seventeen I was taken to America and England and then home again—in spite of our living in China our mother always taught us to think of America home—where I completed my education at Randolph-Macon College in Virginia.

"I married a young American and went to live in a town in north China where his work was, and there we lived for nearly five years until he went to the University of Nanking."

J. Bridges Replies to Views of Bertrand Russell

"The Fine Art of Marriage," by Calvin J. Bridges [privately printed], is a serious and tempered considera-tion of one of the most delicate problems of our day, the art of human adjustment in the marriage pact.

The volume is an elaboration of two lectures which Dr. Bridges delivered before the Chicago Ethical society, in which a stern indictment of Bertrand Russell and his theories.

Dr. Bridges says: "My main contention against Mr. Russell is a philo-

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

In her fascinating autobiography, Mary Roberts Rinehart accords a gracious bow to William Powell's prowess. She says re his work in "Spanish Love," a stage play of hers which ran for a year in New York:

"Mr. Powell's performance was one of the most remarkable in my experience; not only did he play a tubercular youth, he was a tubercular youth; and so thoroughly was he imbued with the part that offstage I wondered if he would live through the run of the piece."

You see we—you and I—aren't the only folks who think Mr. Powell's a grand actor!

As Michael Trevor, a blackmailer, who would that fate had not led him into such foul circumstance, he adds another brilliant characterization to a repertoire of successes.

Whatever his rôle, Mr. Powell himself is always believable. He says and does the natural thing—and he says and does it naturally.

Carole Lombard, who, rumor says, will soon be Mrs. Powell, plays charmingly the romantic feminine lead. She is beautiful! Wynne Gibson handles a darker portrayal with discrimination. You will, I think, approve of all the other players—and the story as a whole. Dialogue is intriguing and the film has been smartly directed.

"JUNGLE HAZARDS."

O, many's the giraffe 'e saw
And other things!—in Africa.
Presented by Mr. Daniel Davenport.
At the Cinema theater.

Over at the Cinema, Mr. Daniel Davenport is presenting a remarkable African travel film. He, in person, delivers a lecture about it three times daily—at the 2, 7 and 9 o'clock showings of the picture.

Mr. Davenport is the British scientist who, with Dr. Louis Neuman and party, penetrated Africa, primarily to study the tsetse fly and seek methods for the prevention of sleeping sickness, and to obtain animal specimens for museums.

The journey, fraught with hazards, was a disastrous one. Dr. Neuman was killed and others of the party never returned to tell of their experiences.

Everything shown in "Jungle Hazards" is absolutely authentic, and I found the film fascinating. Mr. Davenport has a delightful manner of narration and a quiet sense of humor that lends color and charm to his story.

I wish every grown person and child might witness this picture of Africa.

Boy Saves Grandparents Trapped in Home by Fire

Logansport, Ind., March 23.—[Special.]—Seventeen year old Frank Chilton saved his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Chilton, from death by fire early today when he climbed by an outside ladder to the second story of the farm home and awakened the couple after he was cut off from reaching them by way of a blazing stairway. The youth was awakened by the intense heat while asleep on the first floor. The house was destroyed.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN SAYS O. K. TO BRIAND PLAN FOR U. S. OF EUROPE

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin left here tonight for Normandy to hunt wild boars on the estate of the duke of Westminster, but the prospect seemed to interest him less than did Aristide Briand's proposal for a United States of Europe.

He learned about that today at a luncheon M. Briand gave for him.

"It's a magnificent idea," Chaplin said later. "M. Briand may not live to see the dream realized, but he has planted a seed which is certain to bring fruit."

The other guests, veering away from political topics, asked Chaplin whether he had ever hunted boars. He rolled his eyes and dusted off a shoulder as if to say, "Lately I've been fighting them off in droves." The laughter was so hearty that he felt obliged to explain that he did not include those who had lunched with him.

Chaplin is coming back tomorrow, or some time this week, it was reported today. He is to be made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 23.—M. Briand himself braved the raised eyebrows of officials, the gibes of cartoonists and the irony of his enemies when he issued a luncheon invitation to Charlie Chaplin, the comedian.

Others of France's elite were willing to risk ridicule with the foreign minister, however. Among those at the table were Leon Bernard, minister of justice; Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador; Count de Chambrun, French minister to Turkey; Prince Sixte de Bourbon, Countess de Noailles, who herself recently became a commander of the Legion of Honor; Tristan Bernard, playright; Louis Renault, automobile maker, and the Princess Lucien Murat.

Thanks Women for Aid Given Unemployed

Mrs. Hoover Talks Via Radio for President.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—The first lady of the land tonight gave over the air to the women of America the thanks of those who have been aided by unemployment relief efforts.

"Eloquent I cannot be," Mrs. Hoover said, "but I do rejoice in passing on to you, girls and women of America, the word that what you have done for those who have suffered innocently this year is borne in ever affectionate and understanding memory."

Mrs. Hoover spoke into a National Broadcasting company microphone placed in the President's study, once the workroom of President Lincoln. Her address was delivered under the auspices of the women's division of the President's emergency committee for employment. It was her fourth radio speech since her husband came to the White House.

The broadcast was opened with delivery by two Girl Scouts to Mrs. Hoover, honorary president of that organization, of a report upon its work in helping to alleviate unemployment.

Lois Kohn, member of a Girl Scout troop of Bethesda, Md., spoke briefly of Girl Scout activities and aims in employment work. With her was Peggy Starr, another Scout.

"Peggy Starr and Lois Kohn of the Girl Scouts," Mrs. Hoover began, "I am very glad that as your honorary president it has fallen to my lot to receive from you this report of the activities of the Girl Scouts during this period of drought and unemployment and consequent want.

"The great band of 250,000 active Girl Scouts, with the other 250,000 or more who have been Girl Scouts, but who have now grown beyond the age of active membership, was a typical cross section of the women and girls of the United States.

"So the Girl Scouts but represent the girls and women of this country in meeting and to a large degree overcoming the threatening disaster of this national situation."

Mrs. Hoover said the President desired to express at a later time his appreciation of the work done through the women's division of his emergency employment committee.

She added, however, that when "the coming clouds of depression threatened," the President said, "that a very large proportion of the work and of the spirit that would make the storm pass without consummate destruction would be due to the way in which the women met it."

"From the President," Mrs. Hoover concluded, "for work you have shared as members of the women's division of the President's emergency committee for employment, from the officials of that committee, from those you have aided, even from those yet to be aided, I am delivering to you messages of heartfelt gratitude."

HOMES OF FOREIGN BORN OFFER THEIR TREASURES FOR SHOW

Home life, led by many mothers, in foreign countries before they came to America, and the life they are being taught to live here were seen yesterday. The differences were displayed at the annual homemaking show, sponsored by the League of Mothers' clubs of the Chicago Federation of Settlements, at the Hotel La Salle and will continue through today and tonight.

Exhibits by Italian families were insured for $5,000 by the sponsors of the exhibition.

A fine linen tablecloth from Florence, showing delicate embroidery, was the property of Mrs. M. Sigali of the Madonna center, 712 South Loomis street. A soft, blue scarf of old silk, embroidered in silver, was lifted from an old trunk by an aged Italian woman and contributed to the exhibit. There also were a wedding fan of mother of pearl and rose point lace which Mrs. Philomena Larocca had carried at her wedding in Italy, and a wedding veil 77 years old.

Mary Fiorda, 17 years old, helped pour coffee during the afternoon. She displayed a fine linen shawl covered with Abruzzi embroidery which had belonged to her grandmother's great-great-grandmother.

Bright colored pottery and native costumes gay with embroidery from Czecho-Slovakia were among the Howell house display. Embroidered Greek costumes were shown by the Gads Hill center.

Handmade Lithuanian woven rugs, Ukrainian costumes, Bulgarian rugs and linens, and Polish shawls were beside a tea set from the Hull house kilns and linen breakfast sets spun by women at Hull house. In one corner sat Mrs. Maria Scitate with her spinning wheel and distaff.

Boys' suits and girls' dresses, women's coats and baby clothes, made from second hand clothing contributed by the governor's relief commission, showed how many mothers in the settlement districts are clothing their families this year.

BEG YOUR PARDON

THE TRIBUNE erroneously stated yesterday that nineteen persons were arrested in a raid on a beer flat at 3252 Wallace street. The arrests were made, instead, at 3153 Wallace street. The original story was based on a report from the City News bureau.

Baptists Seek Over $1,000,000 in Campaign

All Their Chicago Area Churches to Help.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Baptists of Chicago find that when hard times curb spending on luxuries people pay more money toward religious work. That discovery was announced last night by Dr. C. M. Dinsmore of New York, national Baptist leader. He spoke at a meeting of the representatives of the 100 Baptist churches of the metropolitan area, called to plan a city-wide canvass for local and Northern Baptist denominational funds. The session was held at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street.

"It takes times of crisis such as we now are passing through to remind us of our spiritual obligations," Dr. Dinsmore said. "While we expected to increase the number of givers in the Chicago area by 25 per cent this year, early returns indicate that the increase can be conservatively estimated at 50 per cent."

Chicago is the first great metropolitan center where such a canvass for funds has been conducted, Dr. Dinsmore stated. He said the idea of a coöperative canvass is new and that heretofore each individual congregation "went it alone" in its annual hunt for operating funds.

Dr. Dinsmore predicted such a plan would be national in scope in a few years. The day set for the Chicago canvass is April 12.

In the Chicago area the goal set is $1,300,000. That, according to Dr. Dinsmore, will be pledged by the 30,500 Baptists in this area. Out of that sum a quota of $300,000 will be Chicago Baptists' share in the world-wide work of the Northern Baptist convention. The balance of $1,000,000 will maintain the 100 churches in the Chicago area during the next year. On April 6 will be held the final meeting of the central committee before the canvass.

Rumania Honors British Oil Magnate with Decoration

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 23.—(AP)—Sir H. Deterding, chairman of the Royal Dutch Oil company, presided at a meeting at the royal palace today where he met members of the cabinet and prominent financiers. The Rumanian order of the great cross was bestowed upon him, by King Carol.

Lent Day by Day

MAN'S FRIEND

The Rev. E. V. Hoover.
[Holy Name Cathedral.]

The possession of a genuine friend is one of the greatest consolations in human life—a friend who understands not alone in happy, halcyon days but one who believes in times of stress, misunderstanding and trouble. Regardless of how black the horizon, the real friend believes because he loves.

Christ did not lack for so-called "friends." They followed Him everywhere. They witnessed His miracles, recognized His compassion for the miserable and the outcast. None could deny the fact of His miracles, and none at that time attempted to do so. His "friends" were as numerous as the leaves of the trees, and they preceded Him to Jerusalem as a king of the house of David with shouts and acclaim.

But when the shades of Gethsemane drew close, and powers of iniquity were gathering to do an innocent one to death, the fickle populace fell away. Amongst His intimates one sold Him for 30 pieces of silver, another denied Him, nine others hid themselves away, and only one was left to guide the tottering footsteps of a mother to witness His death.

O, the tragedy!

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

HELEN HAYES, who has been absent from this region since she practiced tragedy in "Coquette," returned last night in a flutter of brilliant British comedy. The Harris theater is the place, and "Petticoat Influence" is the title, if you want to see how this captivating little American actress deports herself among the lords and earls.

You will find a suave and swagger bit of drawing room intrigue, closely akin to the high-life amusements that Charles Frohman imported in wholesale lots when he wore the imperial purple of the show business; and will have the privilege of observing an exceptionally adroit performance by an admirable company.

I probably have used the phrase "perfect cast" on several occasions this year, but I should have held it in reserve for "Petticoat Influence." Suspecting that it is slightly shopworn, I will substitute "pluperfect." That seems to be the right adjective for this group of players.

Miss Hayes hasn't become swankily Anglicized for the emergency, but she adjusts herself charmingly, of course, to the environment of the broad "a" and the unpronounced "r," without drastic concessions of her birthright. She seems to be completely at home among the tea cups of British statesmanship; and yet she remains her spirited and whimsical American self. The island colony about whose governorship the plot revolves, Arda, she pronounces, like all the rest, as if it were spelled Ahda; but otherwise, she is Helen Hayes undisguised, giving a completely winning account of herself as a comedienne.

Then there is Henry Stephenson, a master in the portrayal of gray British patricians, as her satellite, shining vividly enough to be a co-star. In rôles such as this play gives him—an old rogue of an earl, crabbed in his function of cabinet minister, but mellow and sportive when a lady catches his fancy—he has been for years the Admirable Crichton of the American stage. Here he is, I believe, striking his top note; here he is having a spell of inspiration—if such consummate technique as he possesses needs to be inspired to reveal its best.

The four other principals are also exemplary in their contributions to the comedy. They create a persuasive atmosphere of English society's tricky meddling with affairs of state. If you want a neat picture of cool headed Anglo-Saxon lovemaking behind husbands' backs, study Audrey Ridgwell as the casual Countess of Darnaway and Henry Daniell as her cautious paramour.

"Petticoat Influence" tells a diverting story about a wife who schemes to get her husband appointed to the colonial post which he has earned but had not been awarded. She makes some clever guesses and rash maneuvers; she finds herself in some trying situations; but when the minister upon whom her husband's fate hangs tosses his moth-eaten heart in her lap the game is won. The charm of the central rôle, and the fun of the plot, is that the problem is not solved by craft alone. The general chuckleheadedness of the British colonial administration figures importantly in the fable.

The play is written with the easy flow of well bred humor that seems to be the racial inheritance of English dramatists. The author, Neil Grant, is a comparatively new hand at it, but he does not betray the tradition.

Art Institute Wins Right to New Building

Higher Court Decides Against Objectors.

The right of the Art institute of Chicago to build a $5,000,000 addition, one of the many lawsuits in the forty year old legal battle to keep Grant park clear of buildings, was upheld yesterday by the Appellate court. The higher court reversed the decision of Circuit Judge William V. Brothers. That judge had enjoined the Art institute from building separate structures in the Grant park area. The higher court held the judge erred in granting the injunction against the Art institute.

The case in the lower court had been won by the Stevens hotel on the contention that as an owner of property abutting on Michigan avenue opposite Grant park it had a right to insist that the land east of the boulevard be preserved for park purposes only. Attorneys for the hotel had argued that light, air, and unobstructed view of the lake were included in the purchase price of its land when it was bought Jan. 17, 1925.

The Appellate court opinion holds that the Stevens hotel had a vested right to prevent the erection of buildings or other obstructions in the park. Subsequent to its obtaining the hotel site, the court points out, however, that the original Art institute building was erected with full consent of Michigan avenue property owners and that the agreement contemplated "future expansion and development."

The Appellate court opinion, however, places certain restraints on the erection of the proposed addition. That building must not extend further north than Monroe street, further south than Jackson boulevard, further west than the present frontage of the Art institute and must not be higher than the present building.

The opinion also says that the view of Lake Michigan from any window in the hotel will not be obstructed by the addition. While the lower court failed to recognize the necessity for the addition, the Appellate court opinion says the addition is reasonably necessary.

In 1896 the Illinois Supreme court ruled, in a suit brought by the city of Chicago, that the Illinois Central railroad could not erect a building in the park area, although it owned tracks on the site. On Feb. 3, 1892, the state was enjoined in a bill brought by A. Montgomery Ward from putting an armory in the park, and again on Feb. 23, 1907, Ward won a similar battle to prevent construction of the Field Museum of Natural History in the Grant park area.

The city council granted the institute permission to build on a 400 foot frontage on March 30, 1891, and on Jan. 18, 1928, the South park board granted a permit to allow the institute to expand its building 800 feet.

Finds New Clews in Cancer Hunting; 1,500 Physicians Meet

Baltimore, Md., March 23.—(AP)—Discovery of a possible new avenue for the study of cancer of the stomach was announced before the American College of Physicians here today.

Dr. Lay Martin of Johns Hopkins university said he had found four previously undiscovered chemical constituents in gastric juice of human beings. They are ammonia, aminoacid, urea, and uric acid. In cases of cancer of the stomach the proportion of these elements in gastric juice showed a marked increase.

It is not yet known whether the increase is typical of cancer of the stomach. There is a possibility the proportion varies with different diseases and may be an aid to diagnosis, he said.

Dr. Martin spoke before the first general meeting of the fifteenth annual clinical session of the college. Over 1,500 physicians from all parts of the United States are attending.

Cancer of the digestive system is increasing, it was reported by Dr. Thomas R. Brown of Baltimore. Surgery is the only hope of cure of this type of cancer, which makes early diagnosis essential. Digestive troubles that do not yield to ordinary treatment may indicate existence of such a cancer.

Chronic appendicitis is not as frequent as generally believed, and many operations for appendicitis do not reveal the real cause of the trouble, declared Dr. Julius Friedenwald and Dr. Theodore H. Morrison of Baltimore, in a joint paper.

Several types of heart disease may be treated successfully by keeping the patients in air that contains 40 to 50 per cent oxygen, Dr. Alvan L. Barach of Columbia university, New York, told the physicians. Patients with heart disease often cannot get enough oxygen from ordinary air.

Inhaling air rich in oxygen increases the volume output of the heart per beat, Dr. Barach explained. This aids flow of blood through arteries of the heart when their "caliber" is reduced by hardening. When a blood clot plugs a blood vessel, the cause of another type of heart disease, extra oxygen keeps up normal circulation until the heart recovers from the shock of the sudden stoppage of the blood supply.

Patients with congestive heart failure, in which an oversupply of blood congests the blood vessels, and those with heart trouble resulting from tuberculosis and other lung diseases also were benefited by oxygen treatment. Dr. Barach said it relieved shortness of breath, lowered the pulse rate, improved appetite, and aided elimination of body poisons, but had no effect on tubercular lesions of the lungs.

Dr. Russell L. Cecil of New York reported discovery of a vaccine that gives "very encouraging" results in treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, a deforming disease of the joints.

Clever Femmes Make Real Asset of Graying Locks

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I'm hereby appointing myself something of a missionary about a subject that I feel needs some good missionary work. It's about gray hair.

The other week-end I spent at a seaside place. At the hotel at which I stopped were two women guests, one with silvery white hair, the other with stunning iron gray hair. Each was a person of much chic of dress and good figure and the women were, I should judge, in the forties. Their entrance into the formal dining room each evening reminded me again of the possibilities for distinction in appearance that lie with gray or white hair. No dashing young blonde present got more "eyes" than these matrons when they made their way down the aisle to their tables. [Flattering eyes, I mean.]

I have a firm conviction that the reason why gray haired women are up against age prejudice is that they let their turning or turned locks breed an inferior complex in them. They contribute to the popular delusion that they're through by playing a discouraged, saddened rôle. Either that, or they dash out and have their hair colored, or do it at home, themselves, so no one will know it isn't their natural hair.

If the dyeing work is done expertly, which means not only choosing a right shade harmonizing with the skin and eyes, but expert application of the dye proper, that's one thing. But so many dyed head jobs are terrible and this adds to the unfair ignominy heaped upon gray or graying heads.

But it is more the sense of dread that possesses women with the appearance of gray or graying hair that sustains the vicious propaganda against the shade. If gray hair itself, or white hair were unpleasant shades, why, in the name of heaven, would women during certain periods of history have powdered their locks gray and white? Women were never lovelier than during wigged and powdered eras.

But bringing time and the subject more up to date, why would white and gray haired women of our day stand out in a mob like the two week-enders of whom I've spoken, if it wasn't that there is great beauty potentiality in the named shades? It's all a question of whether you're willing to make a distinguishing asset of the silvery head, or let yourself be bowed down under a really stupid prejudice.

Young Movie Leader Tells of Days of Comparative Poverty

Mervyn Le Roy, 29 year old film director, whose salary is reputed to have risen from $150 a week as part of a song and dance team to $3,500 a week as a young director of advanced ideas, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Twentieth Century Limited in the La Salle street station. With him were Mrs. Le Roy, who acts in pictures as Edna Murphy, and George E. Stone, the other half of the dancing team of 10 years ago.

Le Roy told of his difficulties in convincing a hard boiled ticket seller in New York that he was who he was despite his youthful appearance. He had gone to New York to see the play, "Five Star Final," a newspaper play which he is to direct in pictures. Since he was Mr. Le Roy he didn't see any use in paying to see the show.

"I told them who I was and the ticket seller just said, 'Oh, yeah?'" Le Roy related. "When he did give me a seat it was right back of a post. He was certainly hard to convince."

Mother Hates to See Last Chick Leave the Nest

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's a young man of 23, hopelessly in love with a girl who won't say "Yes" and who won't say "No." There is every reason to believe the girl returns the young man's love—but his mother is the fly in the ointment. To the girl she looks like too much of a mother-in-law problem to adopt eagerly.

The girl seems to have all the qualities desired. She's modern without having any advanced ideas on smoking, drinking, petting and so on, according to the boy. She comes of good family, is wonderful looking, unspoiled and fine in every way.

The boy is the last unmarried son and child left to his mother, now. She doesn't want to lose him, and consequently she is unfriendly to any girl who telephones; to any girl in the past that the boy has shown any interest in. And toward this last—the only and wonderful one for the boy—she behaved in a most hostile manner, refusing to the girl's face an introduction to her.

The girl says: "Your mother has too strong a hold on you. She would make us trouble." The mother is not dependent upon the boy's support and he is well enough placed for matrimony.

"How can I make the girl change her mind and tell me she will marry me?" is what the boy wants to know.

And I suppose the answer is to get around Mother and try to make her act a bit more human toward the girl. If necessary, call on Mother's other children to help change her attitude. That's the angle from which the objection will have to be worked—first convert Mother.

Somehow, I cannot be too hard on mothers who hate to see the last chick leave the nest. It's a pretty tragic period in their lives and a powerful lot of character is required to face it with stoicism. Of course, it is done and it has to be done, but if one female parent gets balky, now and then, it is understandable, though it may not be just.

However, the love that is concentrated on this last chick can be played upon. Try it, boy, but don't go at it with the impatience usually brought to bear. A little tact will be much more effective than stubborn pressure, or quarrelling.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

PERENNIAL GARDEN CROPS.

Home gardens may be considered incomplete unless they include some of the more permanent vegetables and small fruits in addition to the regularg annual vegetables that usually are planted. So say W. R. Beattie and C. P. Close, who are extension horticulturists of the United States department of agriculture bureau of plant industry.

They suggest a bed of asparagus, several clumps of rhubarb, a few plants of horseradish, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, logan blackberries, grapes, currants, and gooseberries. A proper selection of any or all of these would depend somewhat on the locality and more on the soil type.

Rhubarb pie and sauce offer the tartness and the flavor that with many constitute a natural craving during the first days of spring. Later on there are strawberries and some of the rhubarb can be canned with them for sauce and preserves. Jellies, jams, and marmalades are appetizing products of the home garden s raspberries, dewberries, and blackberries, while grapes permit juice mixtures and other jams and jellies.

Where home orchards are dying out and are not being replaced with new planting there should be a great revivial in the planting of small fruits and grapes in connection with home gardens, according to Mr. Beattie and Mr. Close. When space is available they advise setting aside a portion of the garden for permanent vegetables and small fruit areas, although such a plan should not involve crowding.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Why Pursue Him?

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I went with doesn't pay any attention to me any more. Should I write him a letter?" SNAPPY."

Why do you wish to pursue him when he has shown such indifference? He doesn't want to hear from you.

She's No Mind Reader.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl but am too bashful to broach the subject. Please advise. "ANONYMOUS."

If you want to hold the girl you'll have to muster up your courage and say something.

Fashion Spurs City's Society on Spring Days

BY THALIA

HAVE you ever noticed that almost inevitably the fashion "openings" at the women's costume shops and stores are followed quite promptly by an enlivening of the social tempo?

Draw what inferences you will about its being cause or effect, the fact remains that new clothes do add zest to social occasions. Of course, nobody with any knowledge of flu germs is stepping forth in spring suits or coats yet, but the inclination towards spring outfitting is apparent in new hats and glimpses of springish new frocks under fur coats.

Last week the smartly garbed women who follow the trend of fashion and can tell you exactly what is "going to be good" and what the various style dictators are "showing" went to fashion shows and carefully noted all the new tricks of the mode.

Vocational Society Sale Today and Junior League's Exhibit.

Today there are more "things to go to" than there have been for some weeks. There are two all day affairs, the Vocational Society for Shutins' sale at the Bendix galleries, and the Junior league's arts and crafts exhibit at the Drake. And this afternoon there are the Friends of China's program at the Arts club and a large tea to be given by the Chicago Fast, Flower, and Fruit guild in connection with the flower show at the Merchandise Mart.

Latest information on the vocational sale is that there was a mistake on the invitations about the programs to be given by Mrs. Laird Bell, Marie Morrissey, and Mrs. Leo Nicolson. The second one is to be at 2:30 o'clock instead of 12:30, and the others are to be as stated, the first at 11 this morning and the third at 4:30.

About the Junior league affair, we learn that among other things there are to be included in the exhibit a number of tables, one of them set by Mrs. Lawrence Williams Jr. with a centerpiece contrived of pineapples, oranges, and broccoli, and garlanded with smilax, a self-portrait done by Ann Crofton, some charcoal drawings done by Dorothy Gardner Thibodeaux as well as 4 pair of pajamas which she made and will sell, and some modern paintings done by Margaret Tilt Wright.

The presidents of nearly 100 garden clubs in the Chicago area and the flower guild chairmen of the organization will be guests at the flower show tea, and the officers of the guild and its branch chairmen will serve as hostesses. There is to be a speech by Dr. Graham Taylor. The Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild is, you know, an organization whose purpose is "to make it possible for suburban gardens to share their flowers, fruits, and vegetables with invalids, orphans, aged, shut-ins, patients in hospitals and the old and friendless people who are ministered to by social settlements."

Mrs. Florence Ayscough is to give an illustrated lecture on "Chinese Gardens" for the Friends of China at 4 o'clock. Mrs. John Paul Wellington, president of the Friends; Mrs. Waller Borden, and Mrs. George T. Langhorne are in charge.

Nadia Logan Will Be Bride of J. B. Torbell on April 11.

Variety—Invitations for the wedding of Miss Phoebe Logan to Joseph Dalton Torbell Jr., to take place at St. Chrysostom's on Saturday afternoon, April 11, have been sent, with announcement cards enclosed, and the reception is to be at the apartment of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Logan, at 2344 Lincoln Park West. . . . Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum is to give a luncheon on April 1 to arrange the press of the details concerning the Passavant hospital benefit concert. . . . Mrs. Waller Borden had a political meeting at her house yesterday afternoon. . . . Tickets for the Orphans' Home benefit performance of "That's Gratitude" on Monday, April 5 are selling very well, and the committee expects to sell out very shortly. . . . On sale at the White Elephant dressmaking shop, which is having its monthly home dressmakers' sale day the tomorrow, is an aquarium-fountain arrangement on a silver base that was brought from a castle in Europe by the grandmother of one of Chicago's most prominent families.

Dog Division Turns to Dogs for the Shows at Armory.

Mrs. James B. Waller's pugs aren't out for this year's dog show, to take place under the auspices of the Chicago Kennel club at the 131st infantry armory, 18th street and Michigan avenue, on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday next, but the Harold Florsheims of Highland Park have again entered a string of Airedale terriers, and an English toy spaniel. Thomas Linnell is showing some Labrador retrievers and Irish wolfhounds; Mrs. Ann Mayer, a Cairn terrier, Mrs. William R. Crawford of Glenview, some Scotties, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Reynolds, several Dobermann pinschers. Mrs. Charles B. Pike's sister, Mrs. Russell Alger, is sending over 8 Sealyham terriers from Detroit, and there will be many more dogs from all over the country, to compete for a highly coveted prize, the John C. Eastman In Memoriam trophy valued at $1,000.

Trips and travels . . . the Noble B. Judahs are staying in Europe longer than they first intended, and won't be back now until mid-April . . . Mrs. Wilton Martin has gone to Denver to visit her daughter, Mrs. Channing Sweet . . . Mrs. Charles I. Pierce has gone to Virginia Hot Springs after landing in New York from Europe . . . Mrs. C. Frederick Childs and her son-in-law and daughter, the William A. P. Pullmans, have also gone to Virginia Hot Springs . . . the Columbus Healys are making a round of southern places, having been in Charleston, and Asheville most recently . . . Marion Smith of Highland Park has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gordon T. Beaham Jr. in Kansas City lately.

YOUNG RUGMAKERS

Hooked rugs, reminiscent of grandmother's time, as well as braided, crocheted, and hand woven rugs made from various rags, were on display at the Woman's City club yesterday. The exhibit was sponsored by the playgrounds of the Chicago board of education under the direction of Miss Flora Wolfson, supervisor of women's activities. The children in the picture are Gertrude Markey, 11 years old, 2226 Winona street; Marjorie Nevens, 10 years old, 2303 Winona street; Lois Nelson, 10 years old, of 2223 Winona street. They are pupils of the Budlong, and made the rug they are displaying.

RED CROSS RAISES $10,000,000 RELIEF; CHICAGO GIVES QUOTA

The completion of its campaign for contributions to the American Red Cross drought relief fund was announced yesterday by the Chicago chapter. The national quota of $10,000,000 has been reached. The local chapter, however, will continue to receive contributions and to transmit them for the further relief of the drought victims.

"In proportion to the money raised nationally the $967,949 that Chicago has raised is nearly 3 per cent more than was given through the Chicago chapter for the Mississippi river flood relief fund when a more intensive campaign was waged and when economic conditions were much better," James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter, said yesterday.

Mr. Nicholson attributed the success of the campaign to the leadership of Samuel Insull, chairman, and his committee and to the desire of many people to demonstrate their approval of the position taken by the American Red Cross when it refused to accept relief funds from the federal treasury. Vice chairmen of the local committee are Howard W. Fenton and Melvin A. Traylor. James B. Forgan is treasurer.

Among large contributions not previously reported are $3,000 each from the Western Electric company, Utilities Power and Light corporation, Cudahy Packing company; $2,500 each from the Commercial National Safe Deposit company, Standard Office company, Insurance Exchange Building corporation; $2,000 from the National Bank of the Republic, and $1,500 from the Milk Council, Inc.

More Garden Prizes Awarded at Show in Merchandise Mart

Additional awards in the flower show being held at the Merchandise Mart under the auspices of the Garden Club of Illinois were announced last night. The Rockford club's entry previously had been designated first prize in its class for large gardens, while the judges later placed the Wheaton club's "Modern Garden," first in its class and gave other first prize awards to Winnetka, on an English garden; Libertyville, a Dutch garden; and Hinsdale, a garden retreat.

"Old Fashioned Garden" entries gave a first prize to the Kenilworth Home and Garden club; Forest Ridge Garden club, second. Semi-formal garden awards placed the Downers Grove entry first and West Albany Park second.

Junior competitors also were rewarded. In the bird house contest Robert Dietsche of the Lombard Garden club juniors was given a first prize, and Harry Stamm, Crystal Lake, second. In the bird poster contest first prize was awarded Marilyn Eib of a junior club at Joliet, second to Isabelle Camp of Avery Coonley school, and third to Robert Dietsche of Lombard.

X-Rays' Bounce Tells Distance Between Atoms

More delicate atomic measurements perhaps than ever made before are resulting from work in the physics laboratories at the University of Chicago. This was learned yesterday. Surveying the "crude" distance between layers of atoms in a crystal—averaging about one-one hundred millionth of an inch—Prof. Arthur H. Compton has succeeded in measuring that space accurately down to one part in 300,000.

The measurements are incidental to Dr. Compton's major research project on the nature of atoms. Though atoms are thousands of times too small to be seen with the best microscopes, Compton's method of measurement is the most direct approach possible.

This method involves the use of the "Compton effect," a peculiar X-ray phenomenon. Its discovery won the Nobel prize for Dr. Compton in 1927. This "effect" is an extension of the wave length of X-rays when they bounce off atoms in their path. The instrument used in detecting the new wave length is called the "Compton electrometer."

The significance of the changed wave length is determined by new formulae devised by Prof. Compton in what mathematicians call the Fourier series.

In his new experiments Dr. Compton shoots an X-ray at a crystal of calcite. The ray richochets through the interstices of the crystal—that is, through the atomic layers. Because of the Compton effect it emerges with a changed wave length. By finding out what has happened to the ray during its journey Dr. Compton is able to gauge the distance between atoms. The average distance he finds to be about one hundred millionth of an inch. As though that distance were a great crater he is able, by further refinement, to measure across it in specific instances to within an estimated error of one part in 300,000.

This method virtually is the same as that used by Prof. Compton last year in getting the first "look" inside an atom. Using the bouncing X-rays, he succeeded in proving objectively the theory that atoms are composed of clouds of negative electricity—"electrons"—swirling around a positive nucleus—the "proton."

"If we learn enough about atoms," Prof. Compton says, "we may some day discover how to utilize atomic energy."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frederick E. Guest, who has passed the greater part of the winter with her mother, Mrs. Henry Phipps, at Palm Beach, will return about the middle of April to Roslyn Manor, her estate near Greenvale, L. I. Mrs. Guest will be joined there by the Hon. Frederick E. Guest, former British air minister, and their daughter, Miss Diana Guest, who have been in Africa for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fitz-Hugh Whitehouse, who sailed for Bermuda on Saturday, will return April 2 and will be at the Savoy-Plaza before going to Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Le-Boutillier of 38 East 64th street and Miss Peggy and Mr. Philip Le-Boutillier Jr. left yesterday on a motor trip to Annapolis, Md. They will return next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. D'Orsay Palmer, and Mr. Honore Palmer Jr. are at the Ritz-Carlton from Sarasota, Fla.

BRIDE

MRS. VICTOR H. WEIL.
[Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Pauline Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hart of 7130 Cyril avenue, to Victor H. Weil of Detroit was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock last evening at the Drake hotel. The bride and groom will go to California for their wedding trip and after their return on May 1 will reside in Detroit.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover returned today to the White House, accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur, wife of the secretary of the interior, and Miss Sue Dyer, who went with her to the presidential fishing camp on the Rapidan for the week-end.

Peggy Ann Hoover and Herbert Hoover III., who spent a week with their parents in Asheville, also returned during the day. Mrs. Hoover attended the luncheon given by the wives of the members of the "little cabinet" at the Washington club. Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, wife of the assistant secretary of state, presided, and the absentees included Mrs. Ogden Mills, wife of the undersecretary of the treasury, who is en route to California, and Mrs. Jahncke, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy. She is in their New Orleans home. The two members of the circle were Mrs. Arthur S. Ballentine, wife of the assistant secretary of the treasury, and Mrs. James Grafton Rogers, wife of the new assistant secretary of state.

Lincoln Relics to Be Housed in Ford's Theater

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—New floors, new doors, new windows will be installed this summer in the old Ford theater to make that now empty monument to Lincoln's martyrdom a museum of happier Lincolniana.

The cradle in which his children were rocked, his wife's cookstove, and his own law office desk and chair are among 4,000 items which will be moved across twelfth street.

This collection, made by the late Col. Osborn H. Oldroyd, and purchased by congress for $50,000, now fills to overflowing the humble and far from fireproof house where Lincoln died.

Various bills have provided for some restoration scheme for these two historic properties, but none has been enacted. Guides in a large and empty theater shell and in a dingy crowded cottage have continued to recite the dramatic story of Lincoln's death to 25,000 visitors annually.

"Above this spot was the box where Lincoln sat. Here hung the American flag in which J. Wilkes Booth caught his spur as he leaped. You can see that flag yet at the treasury department, that spur across the street."

So runs the story in the bare and echoing Ford theater building where columns are drab and ceilings scaling off.

KODAK VERICHROME FILM
(Double Coated)
Entirely new...Faster... More sensitive to color
A new Eastman invention. A double coated film...faster, more sensitive to color...translucent instead of transparent. It gets clear, sparkling pictures, with richer detail in both highlight and shadow. You can see the increased richness of detail in the negative.
With this new film halation "fuzz" is eliminated. Under-exposure is corrected.
We have Kodak Verichrome Film, in packs or in rolls. Priced only slightly higher than the regular Kodak Film.

Mistol

for colds coughs catarrh
When your throat is sore with coughing and the inflamed surfaces seem to stick and rub together—be thankful for Mistol. Put a few drops in your nostrils several times a day with the dropper that's in the package. Blandly Mistol soothes the soreness away—protects nose and throat. Have Mistol handy and play safe. Doctors use it. Get a bottle today.

Larry for her partner, but she must keep off her feet!
Nature plays cruel pranks on girls who haven't learned

A marvel at tennis. Everywhere at once, alert and dangerous. Deftly returning each swift play. Stopping the fastest volley with amazing skill.
What a pity she has not learned to stop periodic pains as easily! In just a few moments, with Midol.
One or two tablets, taken in time, will render those dreaded days entirely painless. If your suffering has already started, it will subside in five to seven minutes. No matter how great your usual discomfort. Whether you are fourteen, or forty. Midol ends the pain! Safely, and in a hurry.
Midol does not halt or even hinder the natural periodic process. But it does banish the unnatural pain.
Specialists produced Midol. It is not a narcotic. So you may use it, with perfect confidence, as often as there is the slightest need.
More than one million modern women have turned to these tiny tablets for relief of such suffering. And Midol has removed every excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains; headaches, neuralgia, etc.

Every one of the Others has a Maid

[Read what this bride says . . .]

"I do all my own work, yet my hands are as nice-looking as theirs"

"DICK and I just moved to this charming suburb, but already we've met such an attractive 'young married' group.

"They're all more prosperous than we are—yet! Every one of the other women has a maid, while I do all my own work.

"So I was a little nervous about my first bridge. But it went off beautifully! They couldn't believe I did everything myself. Especially—they said—because my HANDS looked as if I had SEVERAL maids!

"Truly, my hands do look as lovely as theirs, and it's all due to my precious LUX. I use it not only for fine things, but also for dishes and cleaning. And my hands NEVER have that DISHPAN look!"

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother Hugh away from home ten years ago to give her young sister Christine and brother Stephen a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Shortly after their return John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judy, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

A CHILD'S APPEAL.

"I don't live at home because I can't work there," said Prue. "Talk about charity beginning at home . . . mother is on every committee for miles and treats you as an earnest worker as a matter of course. She can't see that podgering for rescued barmaids or the anti-this, that, or the other society isn't as important to me as passing my exams. Then father left it in his will I was to have a hundred a year at eighteen to use as I chose. . . . He'd been through it, I expect. . . . And, with my exhibition, I can just make it do."

"I see. . . . You are ambitious."

"Don't know. Every one ought to have a job they're keen on, though, women especially. I shall marry if I get the chance and like the man enough, but I may never have one and women who don't marry and haven't some interest to keep them busy go mad."

"Surely that's rather a drastic statement?"

"Well, look around you," said Prue. The sandwiches came and she accepted one with relish but her impish face betrayed deep concentration on the subject in hand. "If they don't go off the rails entirely, they get kinks of one kind or another. Most of them, of course, develop egomania, which is a thorough nuisance to every one, and yet they can't be locked up for it."

Hilary laughed.

"It's lucky I am going to be married then and saved from such a fate, eh, Prudence?"

"Um . . . as long as you have children or something to keep you busy. Women who don't, or whose marriages bust up, or who have too much time and money on their hands are just as bad." Prue paused and finished her sandwich. "I had an aunt once," she continued. "I was only a kid and I couldn't bear her, though you were expected to. She was good looking and wore stunning clothes but if she wasn't the center of the stage, my hat! I used to wonder why she would suddenly smile and whisk the conversation round. Of course I can see it now. It was a kind of devilish Borgia smile. Her egomania took the form of being too perfect for anything."

"All that does not alter the fact that you should not have come to me with it," returned Hilary, frowning.

"Well, let us collect our pastries, shall we?" said Hilary, hoping she had moved the conversation from delicate ground and on the whole rather amused.

Prudence jumped up and followed her, a school girl again, choosing at her hostess' persuasion, three pastries with strawberries to follow.

"You are doing me well," she said, beaming. "I haven't had such a binge for months."

Back at the table, Prudence opened her bag, drew out a letter, and thrust it across the table to Hilary.

"Just read that."

Hilary glanced at it, saw "Beech Farm, Haydon, Bedfordshire" and under it in a round school girl hand, "Dear Prue. I hope you are quite well. Did you know I had been sent to the farm——" Looking at the signature, she read, "Your loving Judy."

She had a momentary impulse to thrust the letter back indignantly but changed her mind and finished it, then read it again, a faint color in her cheeks.

"May I ask," she said coldly at last, "why you are showing this letter to me?"

"Who else could I show it to?" urged Prue, meeting her angry eyes. "It—it was the nice way you said 'I've heard about Judith' . . . O, hang it all, don't say you didn't mean what I thought, and I've given the show away?"

"It seems to be pretty common knowledge," returned Hilary dryly, "and whatever I may know, I should have thought you would see that to come here and try to discuss the matter with me of all people in the world was in extreme bad taste."

"O, hang taste, Miss Revel! I don't know anything, if that's any comfort to you. I've heard the pretty story about Aunt Sylvia's adopted niece like everybody else, but I have eyes in my head. And," said Prue eagerly, "as the poor little kid herself evidently knows, see how beastly it is. I'll swear she didn't hear it at our house. For all I know, Aunt Sylvia may have told her . . . she was quite capable of it . . . or that hellcat Tracy. And Judy's such a nice kid. Youngsters see more than you would think and I know she minded badly about not being sent to school. She ought to go, too. She has brains. . . . But now, just because you are going to marry Uncle John she's pushed away down there and hidden in the country as though she were something foul. Of course, I see mother's point . . . she's thinking of the family honor. Rot! Honor is a personal matter and I should have jolly little of it if I sat down and simply did nothing about Judy's letter."

"All that doesn't alter the fact that you should not have come to me with it," returned Hilary, frowning.

"Well, what else could I do?" pleaded Prue. "If I went to Uncle John, he's a busy man and he'd probably throw me out or make a shindy for me at home . . . but you are a girl and I rather liked you . . . and Uncle John's in love with you. He'll do what you say."

"That he never will," exclaimed Hilary, hit in her tenderest spot. "It is unthinkable that I should trouble to defend your Uncle John to you or anybody else. He needs no defense, but I can tell you this. If people had not meddled and interfered too much already this situation would never have arisen and Judith would have been in her father's care and no one else's. You cannot suppose in the face of that that I should ever dream of dictating to him. It is his business, so just let us leave it at that and drop the subject. You are forgetting your strawberries."

Prudence ate her strawberries in a dispirited silence and, seeing Hilary call for the bill, remarked:

"Well, now since you hate me like poison, I'll pay for my own tea."

"Don't talk nonsense! You are my guest though we both seem to have forgotten it, didn't we?" said Hilary, smiling. "I know you mean well, Prudence. People who interfere so often do."

"Then you won't even speak to Uncle John?"

Hilary rose in a cool silence and led the way out.

"It isn't Judy's fault," continued the mutinous voice behind her.

"Which way do you go, Prudence?"

"Piccadilly."

"Then I'll walk so far with you. Come along."

A small blue car, very new and shining, slipped up St. James street and all at once drew in at the curb beside them and a young man jumped out.

"Miss Revel . . . hullo! . . . I say, you were nearly going to cut a fellow."

Hilary found herself confronted by the beaming countenance of young Tim de Morreville.

"I wouldn't cut you for the world, Tim," she assured him, smiling.

"Then just come here and let me introduce Jemima."

He led her by the elbow to the edge of the pavement and proudly displayed the little car. "Can't I drive you wherever you were going?"

"No, thank you all the same."

Bright Sayings of the Children

The other day I saw a little 5 year old girl sitting on the damp ground. I called to her: "Margaret, aren't you afraid you'll catch cold?"

She replied: "Huh-up; already got one."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

In going through a Chinese city hall I saw some chopsticks on a table and took one as a souvenir, putting it in my coat sleeve. Later, in talking to the guide, the chopstick dropped out of my sleeve in front of him. I hastily picked it up, but not before he had seen it. It was indeed most embarrassing.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

"In breaking up my home I find a number of things which you may be able to place through your column. There is an oven, the kind you place on top of the stove; a statue of Venus de Milo, 3 feet high; a sled; a hand power sewing machine; a dressmaker's form; some odds and ends for housekeeping; and a number of books—fiction, French and English grammars, and a Webster's dictionary.

Here's a variety of articles to fill the need or yen of a number of people. Write and tell me which of these you can make use of; please do not telephone.

Painter Shows the Beauties of Lincoln Park

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE Walden Palmolive gallery has just opened an exhibit of paintings by two Chicago artists, Frances Foy and Eve Watson Schutze. The two groups of paintings are hung across from each other and are as different as daylight from darkness. There is more in this simile than meets the ear, because Frances Foy has a delight in sunshine and splashes yellow generously into most of her compositions, while Mrs. Schutze apparently detests the lighter vein and paints conscientiously and soberly in the darker colors.

One would not be far wrong if one were to designate Miss Foy as the Milne-Barrie of Lincoln park. She finds in Lincoln park all of the magic and fairy shadows which light the eyes of Peter Pan and Christopher Robin in London's Kensington gardens. Neither Peter nor Christopher would be out of place in Miss Foy's paintings either. They would fit in splendidly and appropriately with the children running down a path, or the picnic lunchers, or the baby carriage enthusiasts. And they would certainly love the bears and jump up and down in an ecstasy of desire to fill them even fuller of buns and peanuts.

Frances Foy has also touched Sweden with her gentle wit and painted glimpses of the old country with a romantic brush, softly, as though a little afraid of wakening some heavy shoed influence were her stroke more serious. Her "Girl in Yellow" is a magnetic Alice, grown big. The "Lemon Branch" is lovely and the "Still Life with Lemons" well done.

Eve Watson Schutze gives an entirely different twist to the values of life. Almost Russianized are her dark, stiffly mannered still life compositions of flowers, though the flowers themselves are beautifully painted and rueful, you feel, at being swallowed back into the gloom that produced them. Against a lighter background they could be brilliant.

In the portraits the same love of the darker side prevails. Not a soft note weakens the sincere crudity of the portraits, which you imagine is the goal the painter has set herself. One hates to be unfair in summing up another person's work, but how, in the presence of these pictures, one longs for a rush of Frances Foy's yellow to sweep over them, clarify them, and give them life!

HOLLYWOOD MUSIC PROMOTER LEAVES TO TEACH THE EUROPEANS

Hollywood, Cal., March 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Artie Mason Carter today was en route to Vienna to interest Europe in good music. Mrs. Carter took charge of the Hollywood Bowl, a huge amphitheater, a few years ago, began "Symphonies Under the Stars," and proved the average citizen would pay good money to hear good music. The concerts draw approximately 250,000 attendance for the summer season.

She and her husband, Dr. J. C. Carter, started the concerts after a visit to Vienna. There they learned the average man knows no more of Beethoven and other immortal composers than the man in the street of America's cities. There, as here, she found about two per cent of the population attended symphony concerts.

Europe heard of the success of "Symphonies Under the Stars" and when Mrs. Carter was in Vienna last year the minister of arts asked if she would direct a similar enterprise there. She sailed for Vienna yesterday.

"It will be the first time," she said, "that American art has been taken to Europe, a reversal of the usual order."

She may try her plan also in Germany and Russia, she added.

Checkered Details Pep Up the Costume

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Checked materials lend gayety to new ensembles. There are all manner of checks, from the tiny, almost invisible, variety to checkerboard size, and larger. Alternating diamonds are also seen, as well as plaids, shadow plaids, and all manner of squarish geometrical patterns.

These gay fabrics are symptons of the spring color urge which is attacking Paris fashions even more violently than usual this season. One rarely sees a one color ensemble on a smart woman now.

I saw the suit sketched today on one of the smartest girls in Cannes recently. Skirt and jacket were of plain gray wool crêpe. The skirt has fullness in the left side of the front by three side plaits. Its swingover skirt top is unusual, and so are the honest to goodness suspenders of gray crêpe that hitch it over the blouse.

The blouse itself is in checked printed taffeta in gray and vivid green, cut on the bias. It is short sleeved, as you see by the small figure in the background, and it has a collar of plain gray taffeta.

The short flaring jacket of gray crêpe has no collar. It is lined with the gray and green checked taffeta cut on the straight, and its fronts turn back to form lapels.

Jim Reed Like Senator of Rome, Borglum Declares

Kansas City, March 23.—(AP)—James A. Reed, former Missouri senator, might well have trod the roads of Rome instead of the avenues of Washington, Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, said so after finishing a bust of the Kansas City attorney. "It is one of the strongest faces that I have modeled," Borglum remarked. "That man could wear a toga." Borglum planned to leave for San Antonio tomorrow.

WEDDING

Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Hubbard of Florence, Ala., announce the marriage on March 24 of their daughter, Elinor Walton Hubbard, to Dr. Henry W. Cheney of Chicago. The bride and groom are motoring through the Cumberland and Great Smoky mountains. After May 1 they will reside at 6041 Kenwood avenue.

Real Virtues Often Underlie Stubborn Will

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"How to Gain Obedience," the first of a new series of booklets for parents, will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. This series deals with the various aspects of child behavior directly, not through suggestions for reading.

Have you a stubborn child? And do you find it one of the most baffling things in the world to deal with?

That is, unconsciously, just why children use it. It is a protection and a defense to help them to do what is life to them—to obey the impulses and urges and to obtain the satisfactions which spell growth and development. Where some children are defiant or rebellious, cry or have tantrums, others will be stubborn to achieve their end.

Stubbornness is a symptom which may have many causes, but there is one deep one which is usually not realized. That cause is the intensity of desire of which a child is capable. Link a passionate desire to do something with a strong will and you have a force which is tremendous. Oppose that force—and you have what we call stubbornness.

Children vary a great deal in their intensity. A child who wants so hard to do something and is not properly managed may become discouragingly stubborn. Look carefully into your boy's or girl's stubbornness and see if what lie back of it are the two tremendous capacities—one of intense desire, the other of great determination.

Strong, fine character can be built on such a foundation. Handle the qualities well and you will help to build a fine structure.

These and other suggestions on dealing with stubbornness are part of the new booklet called "Side Lights on Stubbornness" which will be ready in a few days.

Food Talk.

We continue today with our answer to the question, "What foods shall one combine with different meats to make a well rounded diet?"

With roast beef or beefsteak serve mushroom, olive, or onion sauce, white or sweet potatoes, cauliflower or spinach, tomatoes, mixed vegetable salad, and fruit pies or fruit ice cream.

With boiled beef serve horseradish sauce, boiled potatoes, carrots, coleslaw, and fruit dessert such as fruit cobblers or sauces with cookies or cake.

With corned beef serve boiled cabbage and potatoes, parsnips or beets, lettuce salad, and apple pie or dumplings.

With fillet of beef serve mushroom sauce, potato puff, peas, endive or lettuce salad, and fruit sauce or shortcake.

With roast lamb serve mint jelly or sauce or currant jelly, artichokes, peas or asparagus, tomato salad, and fruit dessert as pie or ice cream.

With lamb chops serve potatoes, braised celery, peas, and tapioca fruit dessert.

With boiled mutton serve caper sauce, potatoes, carrots, or turnips, asparagus salad, and fruit dessert.

With roast mutton serve browned potatoes, creamed turnips, lettuce salad, and fruit dessert.

With hare or rabbit serve peas or asparagus, potatoes, celery salad, and fruit dessert.

MACARONI MARVEL WITH PIQUANT SAUCE.

1 cup uncooked macaroni [2 cups cooked].
½ white onion.
1 small green pepper.
1 stalk celery.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 bouillon cube.
¾ cup water.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 tablespoon browned butter.
½ cup tomato catsup or condensed tomato soup.
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning.
12 chopped stuffed olives.
Grated Parmesan cheese.

Break the macaroni in inch and a half pieces and boil in salted water for 20 minutes, then blanch and drain. Prepare a sauce by cooking the onion [minced], the green pepper [freed from seeds and chopped], and the celery [chopped] in a tablespoon of butter for 5 minutes without browning. Then add slowly ¾ cup of thick brown sauce [1 bouillon cube in water thickened with 1 tablespoon of flour in 1 tablespoon of browned butter will do], the tomato catsup or tomato soup and seasoning. Cook over hot water until the celery is tender. Stir in the olives, reheat again and pour the sauce over the macaroni. Dust thickly with Parmesan cheese.

TO AVOID "RINGS" IN REMOVING GREASE SPOTS On all SILKS use the new CARBONA Grease Absorbent POWDER

Most SILKS are now "weighted" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners affect this "weighting" and cause "rings." Therefore, on all SILKS use only Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder—it cannot leave "rings" because it does not affect "weighting."

For all Fabrics except Silks use Carbona Cleaning Fluid

COLDS make handkerchiefs disease carriers

Ordinary handkerchiefs preserve millions of germs which should be destroyed.

Avoid Self-infection Use Kleenex and Destroy!

TESTS show a single handkerchief may contain up to 4,170,000 germs during colds! That, surely, is reason enough for every man, woman and child to use Kleenex during colds in place of handkerchiefs.

Kleenex is used only once, then discarded. Extremely low cost makes this possible. When Kleenex is discarded, along go thousands of disease germs. Thus, you avoid the self-infection that results from handkerchief use. You keep infectious germs out of your purse and pocket, out of laundry bags.

Quick relief from colds

It is reasonable to expect quicker recovery from colds when you use Kleenex. There is less danger of spreading colds through families. Less danger of letting a cold develop into flu, pneumonia, or other serious disease.

Kleenex is a welcome change from a damp, irritating handkerchief. It's a delicate tissue, soft and downy. Super-absorbent. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. And each tissue that touches your face is absolutely clean!

Kleenex saves washing—and is less expensive than commercial laundering of handkerchiefs. It is ideal for children. The cost is so little, there's no cause for worry if it's lost.

Many mothers give children a box to take to school. Office workers find it convenient to keep a package always handy in the desk.

Doctors use Kleenex

Health authorities are recommending Kleenex; doctors are using it in their offices. Many schools teach the value of Kleenex in cold prevention.

Kleenex ha many other uses in the modern household. These absorbent tissues are valuable for manicuring; for cleaning; for polishing. Keep a package in bathroom, bedroom, kitchen. You'll find Kleenex indispensable.

To remove cold cream

Beauty experts urge these delicate tissues for removing creams and cosmetics from the face. Kleenex assures thorough cleanliness. It's so absorbent, it picks up every trace of dirt and powder along with cleansing cream. The pores are left really clean. Your skin is spared the dangers of harsher, unclean methods.

Kleenex comes in white, and in exquisite pastel tints to match your dressing room.

Available at any drug, dry goods or department store, in 25c, 50c and $1 sizes. If you have not tried Kleenex, send for a free trial package to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Amazing facts revealed by scientific tests

1. Handkerchiefs used by persons having colds were cultured and estimated to contain as many as 4,170,000 bacteria per handkerchief. Handkerchiefs used one time only were found to contain as many as 240,000 bacteria per handkerchief.

2. Organisms representative of those known to be associated with "colds," when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, followed by clear water, were found not to be killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

The above statements are based on reports of tests conducted in the laboratories of Dr. Bertram Fouts, Chicago bacteriologist.

What Science says about the ordinary handkerchief

1. May self-infect user time after time.
2. May spread infection among others.
3. May infect clothing in which it is carried.
4. May infect clothing in laundry bags (germs survive for days).

FIND BATTLESHIP STILL BACKBONE OF ALL NAVIES

Adams, Aids Return from Fleet Maneuvers.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special]—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams returned from the Panama fleet maneuvers today convinced from first hand observation that the battleship remains the backbone of modern fleets, despite the increased importance of aviation.

"The big lesson of the maneuvers," Mr. Adams said, in commenting on the exercises, "is that the big battleship still is the backbone of the United States fleet. These big surface vessels are essential cogs in our naval fighting forces."

The opinion expressed by Secretary Adams is in line with the conclusions sent to Washington by the leading naval officers who participated in the maneuvers or who stood on the sidelines.

In reports filed at the navy department, such officers as Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral Joseph B. Reeves, and Rear Admiral Mark A. Bristol, chairman of the executive committee of the navy general board, agree that without battleship strength the United States would be powerless to prevent a major hostile movement across the ocean directed at this country.

CRASH IN WHICH THREE DIED IS FOUND ACCIDENT

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the deaths of three men, one a policeman, who were fatally injured Sunday night when their automobile struck a hole in the pavement in the 6900 block on Grand avenue and careened head on into a street car.

Witnesses testified that the holes in the pavement had been left by employés of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company who had repaired a leaking gas main. The holes had been filled in several times since the repairs were made, it was said.

Those who died were Policeman John Mix, 2227 North Mango avenue; Steve Janco, 2175 North Menard avenue, and Anthony Albrecht, 2166 North Major avenue, the driver.

One death yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 29.

John Orpacce, 6 years old, 552 West 44th street, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Union avenue at 44th street. The driver was Russell H. Borrowdale, 28 years old, 10030 Wallace street.

DR. E. E. HIGLEY, PASTOR STRICKEN IN PULPIT, IS DEAD

The Rev. Elmer E. Higley, pastor of the First Methodist church of Park Ridge, died early this morning in Evanston hospital following a cerebral hemorrhage with which he was stricken in the pulpit last Sunday morning. He was 64 years old. Earlier in the night his condition had been reported as improved. Dr. Higley had been pastor at Park Ridge for more than two years, coming there from Methodist church at Iowa State college, Ames, Ia. He was well known in Methodist circles all over the country, having formerly been connected with American Indian missionary work of the general church. Dr. Higley is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice D. Higley.; one son, Elmer Jr., and two daughters, Lenore and Lois.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Contentment

BISHOP CAREY, MERIT BOARD MEMBER, DIES

Bishop Archibald J. Carey of the African Methodist Episcopal church, a member of the city civil service commission, died yesterday at the Billings Memorial hospital following a heart attack. He was 62 years old. He had been ill since last August and five weeks ago went to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., returning a few days ago.

Bishop Carey lived at 47th street and South Park way. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Carey; three daughters, Dorothy, Mrs. Eloise Bishop of New York, and Mrs. Patrick A. Prescott, and two sons, Davis and Archibald Jr.

The son of a plantation slave, Bishop Carey was born in Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25, 1868. He was educated at Atlanta university and at the University of Chicago. For four years he was principal of a high school at Atlanta and in 1895 became head of Edward Walters college at Jacksonville, Fla.

He was appointed a member of the civil service commission by Mayor Thompson in 1927. In November, 1929, he was the central figure in an investigation of alleged payment of bribes for civil service positions. An indictment was returned against him by the grand jury, but the case never came to trial.

D. C. STEPHENSON REOPENS BATTLE FOR NEW TRIAL

Noblesville, Ind., March 23.—[Special.]—Another chapter in the five year fight of D. C. Stephenson to win freedom was begun here late this afternoon, when attorneys for the former klan dragon filed a petition with Judge Fred E. Hines of Hamilton County Circuit court, seeking a new trial through a writ of coram nobis, based on facts allegedly unknown at the time of the trial.

The granting of the petition would open a pathway through Stephenson would be returned for trial to the court where he was convicted in November, 1925, of second degree murder in connection with the death of Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis. A jury convicted him of second degree murder and fixed the penalty as life imprisonment in Indiana state prison at Michigan City.

HILDING JOHNSON FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for J. Hilding Johnson, veteran criminal court news reporter, who died early yesterday morning, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel at 708 North Wells street. The criminal courts building is to be closed, Chief Justice John P. McGoorty ordered, so that friends of Johnson may attend his funeral. The Rev. Gottfried Nelson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, will conduct the services.

Johnson started his newspaper career as a copy boy for the City Press association, now the City News bureau. He had spent approximately twenty years as a criminal court reporter for the news bureau and the Herald and Examiner.

He worked almost up to the time of his death. He was on the job Saturday, although not in good health. When he went home on Saturday he became ill and was taken to the Auburn Park hospital, where he died. He is survived by his widow, Marjorie, and a son, Louis, 8 years old. He has a brother, Edwin, employed on the Chicago Evening American.

The pallbearers will be Al T. Johnson of the Chicago Evening Post, Enoch Johnson of the Chicago Daily News, Orville Dwyer of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, George Wright of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Leroy F. McHugh of the Chicago Evening American, and Jacob Frank.

NICHOLAS FINN DEAD; OFFICIAL OF DEVER RULE

Nicholas R. Finn, attorney, ex-alderman, and head of the civil service commission under the late Mayor Dever, died yesterday in his home at 3607 Pine Grove avenue after an illness of more than a year. He was 62 years old, and a native of Oswego, N. Y.

Mr. Finn served as alderman of the old 20th ward from 1900 to 1910, and with Dever, then a councilman, and three others, fought a long but losing battle for municipal traction ownership. One of Dever's first acts on becoming mayor was to appoint his old colleague, Finn, to the chairmanship of the civil service board.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Mount Carmel Catholic church. Burial will be in Calvary. Surviving Mr. Finn are his widow, Caroline; a brother, Joseph, vice president of the McJunkin Advertising company; and a sister, Sister Esperance of the Order of St. Joseph, in Minneapolis.

written so it can be read by ALL the FAMILY

The Sun prints all the news. Indeed, more of the important news appears first in The Sun than in any other New York paper. It is right that a newspaper print all the news, providing it is written humanly and interestingly, without ever transgressing the bounds of good taste. Every story and every article in The Sun is written and edited from that viewpoint.

You can take The Sun home, confident that every page can be read by every member of the family. And in it they will find everything of interest that has happened up to the moment of going to press, as well as complete expressions of expert opinion on finance, business, sport, the theatre, books, art, music, etc.

HOCKEY TEAMS TO START CUP DUELS TONIGHT

Blackhawks Battle at Toronto.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Big league hockey's final blast of the season, the Stanley cup playoffs, will get under way on three fronts tomorrow—at Boston, Toronto, and New York.

DICK IRVIN.

Here's the way the three opening playoff series, involving the three leading teams in each group of the National Hockey league, are lined up:

At Boston—First game of best three out of five series between the defending cup holders, the Montreal Canadiens, and the Boston Bruins.

Hawks at Toronto.

At Toronto—First game of home and home series, total goals to count, between the Toronto Maple Leafs and Manager Dick Irvin's Chicago Blackhawks.

At New York—First game of home and home series, total goals to count, between the New York Rangers and the Montreal Maroons.

The Boston-Canadiens' series brings together the first place teams in the American and Canadian divisions, respectively. The second game, also at Boston, will be played Thursday; the third game at Montreal Saturday, and the fourth and fifth games, if necessary, at Montreal March 31 and April 2.

The survivor of this series qualifies for the Stanley cup finals.

Return Games Thursday.

Toronto and Chicago, the two second place clubs, will play the second and final game of their series on Thursday, as will the third place clubs, the Rangers and the Montreal Maroons.

The survivors of the Toronto-Chicago and Rangers-Maroons series then will clash in a home and home series, total goals counting, for the right to meet either Boston or the Canadiens in another best three out of five series for the Stanley cup.

Irish Eleven May Cancel Indiana Game

Bloomington, Ind., March 23.—[Special]—Because Indiana university athletic officials have expressed a desire to eliminate Notre Dame as a basketball opponent in 1932, it was widely reported here tonight that the scheduled 1931 and 1932 football games between Indiana and Notre Dame also may be cancelled.

Indiana played only a few nonconference games before the opening of the Big Ten basketball season each year, and with the rise of Notre Dame basketball the Irish have become too tough as practice opponents for any team. Therefore Indiana would prefer to schedule lesser fry in getting ready for the conference race.

But Notre Dame realizes that its football team is an attraction for any stadium, especially at the Indiana seat. Some forces interested in Notre Dame are said to have insisted that the national champions should not risk one of eight or ten Saturday afternoons each fall on Indiana university.

Knute Rockne, however, feels that the Irish should meet at least one Hoosier opponent each fall, and since Notre Dame alumni have been in charge of Purdue football for six years, the only other opposition in the state has been here at Indiana.

Rockne feels that if his football team plays Indiana, Notre Dame basketball and other teams also should be scheduled by the Hoosiers. The Notre Dame coach is corresponding with Indiana football authorities, it is understood.

PICK JURY FOR $500,000 SUIT AGAINST DEMPSEY

Selection of a jury to try the $500,000 damage suit brought against Jack Dempsey for his failure to fight Harry Wills, colored boxer, was completed yesterday in Circuit Judge Pomeroy's court. The complainant is the Chicago Coliseum company, which alleges that Dempsey violated a contract by fighting Gene Tunney in Philadelphia after agreeing to a match with Wills.

The courtroom was crowded with a hundred of the former heavyweight champion's admirers as the questioning of prospective jurors got under way. Neither Wills nor his former manager, Paddy Mullins, was in court. Both are expected to appear today when the trial opens.

Dempsey refused to comment on the case, but his attorneys said they did not know anything of the alleged contract. A provisional contract was signed here, they said, on condition that articles with accompany the signing, but the money never was put up and the contract was not pursued.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TAIL WAGGING THE DOG.

THE reported intention of the North Central College association to attempt jurisdiction over Big Ten athletics, and the resultant indignation thereat in the conference remains in status quo. The next action probably will follow the meeting of Big Ten presidents in April. Both sides approach gingerly any impasse.

The Wake, probably because our field of endeavor is athletic rather than pedagogic, never had heard of this North Central body until it projected its views on the horizon sufficiently to cause to be called off the Stagg interscholastic basketball tourney and the Northwestern prep track and swimming meets.

Formed primarily, as we understand, for educational purposes, the association, either through sincerity or through ambition, as sometimes charged, is seeking to prescribe rules of conduct for college athletics, arguing that athletics is part of the college system.

When, however, an association of large numerical membership but composed mainly of units with much smaller student bodies assumes to tell state universities of 10,000 or more enrollment what is best for their athletic needs, it seems to us like the tail trying to wag the dog. This body, it appears, has power of suspension supposed to cast a shadow on the suspendee's scholarship standing.

Well, from where we sit, suspension of Big Ten universities by the North Central would neither lower their standards nor cause students to seek education elsewhere.

Now all this smoke may not produce any fire. There are plenty of conciliatory statements. But there is also in the Big Ten deep seated impression, whether rightly or wrongly, that the attitude of the North Central toward any athletic investigation is prejudged and that such prejudgment is hostile. The conference or any other body of equal power need not put up with what it regards as officious meddling.

The Wake, for one, is perfectly satisfied that control and regulation of Big Ten athletics be governed by faculty control of the conference colleges, supplemented by the long experience and advice of men of the caliber of A. A. Stagg, George Huff, Fielding Yost, Commissioner Griffith, and others.

'ON TO NEW YORK' BATTLE CRY OF GOLDEN GLOVERS

Hard Drills for Chicago Near the End.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

On to New York! That was the cry of Chicago's Golden Glovers yesterday as they started the final week of preparation for the fourth intercity amateur fights in Madison Square Garden next Monday night.

Today, tomorrow, and Thursday and the hard part of the grind will be over. Friday morning, after a jaunt on the road, bags will be packed, training gloves sacked, and the squad will leave on a special train over the New York Central. Saturday afternoon the last boxing is scheduled in the gymnasium in the Daily News building. Sunday limbering up exercises and then the big night.

Yesterday's drills at the Illinois Athletic club demonstrated all the boys are nearing top fighting form with few exceptions. Scotty Sylvano, the lightweight champion, and Dick Monty, the light heavyweight runnerup, haven't reached their best physical condition, but this doesn't mean, of course, that they won't be ready to battle next Monday night.

Goodman's Eye Injured.

Joey Kleko probably will be excused from boxing this afternoon. The cut over his eye, received at the Coliseum, has not healed entirely. While he went two rounds yesterday with Tony Muscarello with his eye well protected, the coaches believe no chances should be taken. Either he or Muscarello will fight New York's featherweight runnerup.

George Goodman, the bantamweight runnerup, was forced from the ring yesterday afternoon after two rounds with his pal, Nick Scialaba, the 118 pound champion. Nick accidentally stuck a thumb in Georgie's eye, and while the injury is not serious, it prevented completion of the workout.

Leo Rodak and Jimmy Eliopoulos, flyweight scrappers, had the gymnasium in an uproar with the fierce battering they handed each other. Scialaba and Muscarello in their one round matched the pace, but it remained for George Keenan and Fred Caserio to bring the two score of I. A. C. club members to their feet with three rounds of jabbing and punching. Their work also was equaled by Dick Monty and Tony Sutton 175 pounds.

Keep Adam Smith Busy.

Adam Smith spent another busy period with a visiting heavyweight, Pete Smagatz, champion of the Western Electric. Smith is improving rapidly, and there are many of the camp followers who are willing to bet he will flatten his New York opponent.

Louis Jallos and George Holden, rival lightweights, kept up the fast work. Holden demonstrated more ability to carry the attack, while Jallos jabbed and countered efficiently.

Johnny Kaktus of Streator, a middleweight, reported yesterday and worked in the gymnasium. He will box today. Kaktus replaced Ernest Burkhart of Michigan City, who was forced from the team by illness.

SONNENBERG PINS LEE WYKOFF IN STRAIGHT FALLS

Gus Sonnenberg defeated Lee Wykoff in straight falls last night in the main bout of a wrestling program which drew 4,500 spectators to the Coliseum. Sonnenberg scored the first fall after 24 minutes and three seconds, but they were back in the ring only seven seconds before he pinned his opponent again.

17,000 Watch Londos Slam Freeman to Mat

New York, March 23.—(AP)—A crowd estimated at 17,000 saw Jim Londos, recognized in some states as heavyweight wrestling champion, throw Herb Freeman of New York with an airplane spin and body slam after 42 minutes 40 seconds of a finish match in Madison Square Garden tonight. Londos weighed 200 pounds; Freeman 218.

Stroll Among Cauliflowers Reveals Action on All Fronts

BY ARCH WARD.

While our Golden Glove fighters are getting ready to battle the champions of New York, let's take a stroll through the cauliflowers and see what the professionals are doing to stimulate the trade.

JACK DEMPSEY.

We note with no little interest that our old pal, James (Moon) Mullen, is back in the market, offering new talent at marked down prices. He will present at the Coliseum tonight the first of what threatens to be a series of elimination bouts for the middleweight championship. His effort to bring order out of chaos in the 160 pound ranks has been applauded by the Illinois athletic commission. The survivor, if any, will be awarded a belt designating him as the champeen.

On Friday night the Stadium offers a bout between Tommy Loughran and Tuffy Griffith, the winner to meet Jack Sharkey in an outdoor match at one of the ball parks next summer.

Jack Dempsey, who used to be something of a pugilist and still is the best drawing card in the game, may referee the Stadium card. Nate Lewis last night brought the matter to Dempsey's attention. Jack has done no officiating in Illinois and does not hold a license. He intends to apply for one today when the commissioners assemble for their weekly meeting.

Dempsey established legal residence in Chicago before turning promoter at the Coliseum. He has kept a permanent address here since that time. Jack has worked as a referee in 28 states in the last year, and in several of them he had no license. The boxing boards issued him a guest license. He probably will be shown the same courtesy in Chicago.

According to the Coliseum and Stadium press agents, both cards are worthy of capacity crowds. And, for all we know, maybe they are. In an amusing, light hearted way we are supposed to have some knowledge of fighters. We have watched them sock the heavy bag, skip the rope, devour big steaks, and once, in a courageous moment, we felt the biceps of Primo Carnera. Then we picked Sammy Mandell to make a monkey out of Al Singer.

So we feel safe in going along with the publicity men who predict two great shows this week. Better men than Loughran and Griffith or Littman and Oster have made a mug out of us. This, of course, does not make us look any better in the eyes of the vegetable man who calls the next morning, frowns at us over the matutinal grapefruit, and says: "I thought you were supposed to know something about fighters."

ROCKNE'S HARD LUCK.

No matter how good a football team Knute Rockne develops at Notre Dame next season, it cannot match the success of the 1930 eleven. The South Bend boys bowled over ten opponents in parading to the national championship last autumn. This year they can whip only nine.

Southern Methodist has been dropped from the schedule. All other old foes have been retained. There is a rumor, however, that Indiana, which is listed on the ticket applications as the first game, also may be moved off the program.

The threatened rupture in football relations with Indiana is said to date back to Indiana's refusal to book a 1932 basketball game with Notre Dame. George Keogan, basketball coach of the Irish, has called the matter to Rockne's attention, with the suggestion that if the Notre Dame basketball team isn't welcomed on the Indiana schedule, perhaps the Indiana football team should not be given the privilege of losing to Notre Dame.

MIKE HALL FOOLS 'EM.

Mike Hall's triumph in the $100,000 Agua Caliente handicap is the latest example.

During the 1927 and 1928 racing seasons, and for a part of the 1929 season, Mike Hall was noted as one of the great distance runners of all time on the American turf.

To give the son of Hourless an opportunity to add to his reputation it was decided to send him to England late in the 1929 season and try for some of the fall long distance stakes.

Mike crossed the Atlantic and was in fine shape for his first engagement, which came soon after he landed on the other side. Unaccustomed to the English turf and racing methods, he made a dismal showing. A little later he failed again.

When put back into training in the United States last spring Mike Hall was a changed horse. He wouldn't work and he wouldn't run. After two months trying to get him to show his old time form the trainer gave it up as a bad job.

Robert M. Eastman, owner of the horse, was so discouraged trying to get him back into winning form he probably would have given Mike away to any one that would have offered to provide a good home for the old horse for the rest of his days.

Mike looked so good after a long summer's rest Eastman decided to give him one more chance. They would try for the west coast's $100,000 race. If Mike failed his racing days were over.

Mike didn't fail. Such a good American handicap champion as Sun Beau will testify to that.

498 Teams Play as A.A.U. Tourney Opens

[SCORES ON PAGE 27.]

The battle for the Central A. A. U. basketball championship began last night with 498 teams playing in all corners of the north, south and west sides of Chicago. The first of the 249 games began at 6 o'clock, and all through the evening basketballs were caroming off backboards or swishing through nets until the last team left the floor some time after midnight.

At the Broadway armory De La Salle institute and the 132d Infantry armory three ring basketball circuses were held, with six teams going into action simultaneously, while individual contests were waged in a score of gymnasiums and neighborhood clubs throughout the city. Besides the 498 teams which played last night there are 168 which drew byes.

Tonight the battle front will include 23 gymnasiums, but after the first two rounds action will be concentrated on four courts. The champion will be decided in the grand finale at the Chicago Stadium on Saturday.

Shields Wins and Bell Loses in Net Tilts with French

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Frank Shields, number 2 in the United States ranking and one of America's brightest Davis cup prospects, tonight defeated Jean Borotra of France, indoor champion of three countries, in straight sets of the first of the international team matches between the United States and France. The scores were 7—5, 6—1, and 6—3.

Christian Boussus, France's third ranking tennis player, defeated Berkeley Bell of Texas, three sets to two, to give the French team an even break. The scores were 5—7, 6—7, 7—5, 6—3, 6—2.

George Lott Jr. and John Van Ryn, Davis cup players, will meet Borotra and either Boussus or Pierre Landry, the third member of the French team, in a double match tomorrow night with Borotra playing Bell and Shields playing Boussus in the final singles matches Wednesday night.

Canzoneri Takes Decision in Bout with Grogan

Philadelphia, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, dapper little New York Italian who holds the lightweight boxing title, punched his way to a ten round decision tonight over Tommy Grogan, Omaha, in a nontitle battle.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oakland, Cal., March 23.—Our Cubs relaxed a bit today after their arduous string of four victories over the Pittsburgh Pirates. At least that's as good an excuse as any for the licking they took at the hands of the snappy Oakland Oaks of the Coast league. The score was: Oaks, 4; Cubs, 3.

It wasn't a bad ball game, despite the sad outcome, though we find little to cheer about in the fact that Grace struck out with two on and a run needed to tie in the ninth, and Blair was called out on strikes to end the game with the bases full and the same run needed to tie.

Teachout Full Route.

Bud Teachout went all the way for the Cubs, the fifth pitcher in successive games to perform this spring feat. He pitched absolutely perfect ball in the first four innings, only one fly getting to the outfield, but he weakened in the fifth and sixth, when the Oaks made their four runs.

Manager Hornsby brought only half of his squad across the bay, and gave the others a day off in San Francisco. He will let the other half rest one day later in the week. But, as a glance at the box score will reveal, it wasn't a second string club that took a whipping today. Hornsby, Wilson, Harnett, Cuyler, English, Jurges and Teachout of the regulars made appearances, and the first four did little before they retired. Jurges led the hitting with a single in the seventh and a homer in the ninth.

Oaks Catch Up to Teachout.

After Teachout had retired thirteen men in a row, Anton and Dean cooperated in the fifth with a double and a single and Uhalt followed with a single for the first three hits off the big Cub lefthander and a net of two runs. Powers tripled to start the next inning, after which Uhalt and Dean again hit safely, and again the net was two runs, completing the Oaks' total of four for the afternoon.

The Cubs made one hit in the second, third, fourth and sixth innings, all singles; three singles in the eighth and two more singles and a homer in the ninth. Excepting Jurges' homer, there was not a Cub smack that even remotely resembled an extra base hit.

Cubs Score on One Hit.

All of the scoring and hitting business of the first four innings was executed by the Cubs, and it was meager enough at that. In the second inning the Cubs got Cuyler across with a total hitting flurry of a Texas league single. Wilson walked and was forced by Cuyler. Ki went to second on Harnett's infield out, and scored when English sent a looper over second.

In the fourth inning the Cubs got the bases full with one out, but Ortman did a bit of bearing down and

Lively Ball Tests Logic of Moguls

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., March 23.—The baseball magnates have been twisting themselves far out of shape and twisting the truth into some curious figures, too, in their efforts to explain how it was that they decided to disenliven the lively baseball which was not a lively baseball anyway, but will not be lively any more. Their explanation sounds somewhat like the defense of a safecracker who insists that he did not crack the safe but, in any case, has decided not to do so any more.

For ten years the magnates denied that the baseball was any more frisky than it had been in the year when Home Run Baker led the major leagues in the matter of home runs with a dozen or so. But during the recent winter the magnates decided that although the baseball wasn't lively they would subdue it anyway by changing the stitches and, in the National league, by adopting a thicker cover. Then, as the training season began, they explained that although they had taken these steps with a definite sedative purpose, the ball would still be the same old ball. This seems all mixed up.

All the testimony of the athletes who have been using the ball during the last ten years, and the managers who saw the old strategy of baseball undone by home runs, insists that the ball was suddenly changed in 1921. The hitting records give similar evidence, and the only persons who have insisted all along that the ball was never altered are the manufacturers and the magnates.

It seems impossible to straighten the matter out, but if the new crop of baseballs is to be less jumpy than those of the last ten years that ought to be a good thing for baseball.

If the football authorities were to do something to the game which would make touchdowns as common as home runs have become in baseball, the public interest might be stimulated for a time and the wizard mentors in charge of certain of the great scoring machines would enjoy a fine business in testimonials, autographed sporting goods, and literary by-products. But after a while the public would begin to complain of cheap touchdowns, and it would be necessary to switch back to the old system to revive interest and confidence. The home run in baseball corresponds to the touchdown in football, and the wonder of the situation is that the patrons maintained their enthusiasm as long as they did.

In a certain sense the magnates were guilty of a wrong when they adopted the lively ball which was never a lively ball, as I understand it, although it will not be lively any more in spite of the fact that it will be just as lively as ever. The home run was an emotional event for the customers, who regarded it as an occasion for a special kind of yelling and arm waving. The stimulation of the baseball ten years ago and the consequent multiplicity of home runs therefore have represented a deliberate exploitation of the customers' tenderest and sincerest feelings.

If the customers had been told that their emotions were being deliberately toyed with they would have discounted the home runs, and, although they have suspected that they were being imposed upon, they have been hoping with a faith almost religious in character that it wasn't so.

Possibly it is because the magnates understand this that they have given out these ambiguous explanations of the change in the baseball which is to leave it just as it was, but at the same time abate its springiness without, however, reducing its elasticity.

As I understand it now, and I am sure I don't, tweedle-dum and tweedledee are entirely different but alike and interchangeable, if at all.

It has been a long time since any major league ball club trained in Cuba and it is unfortunate that the club which was selected to play in Havana this year was Uncle Wilbert Robinson's daffiness boys of Brooklyn. The daffiness boys are one club who do not need alcoholic beverages, being naturally dizzy, especially on the bases, and the pleasures of Sloppy Joe's will be wasted on them. They always run bases as though they had just come out of Sloppy Joe's, and, even though they may take the field quite sober as soon as they begin to fall over one another on the paths the customers are certain to remark

NEW YORK BATS CHASE VETERAN IN TWO INNINGS

Cissell Injured in Slide to First.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 23.—Tommy Thomas struck another snag today in his third attempt to prove there are no squeaks in his pitching arm. He was blasted off the premises in two innings. His failure, along with a few mishaps encountered by Garland Lefty Braxton, was sufficient to let the Giants cuff the White Sox easily in a battle put on for home charities. The show, staged under a boiling sun, terminated with the National leaguers ahead by 6 to 2, and gave them their third win out of a five series game.

BILL CISSELL.

Thomas, either because he couldn't cut loose or because he was afraid to, saw nothing much but line drives during his two inning stretch. In the opening frame three of them whistled through the air for two runs, and there would have been at least one other if alert fielding hadn't intervened. In the second there were three more scorchers for the same number of runs. Then Braxton was banged for a pair of tallies in the third, after which he settled down and handled the situation.

Kerr Gets Chance to Shine.

The afternoon's program was attended by an injury to Bill Cissell's right hoof. The lad who is expected to be Bush's regular second sacker reached base on an error in the third and jammed his leg against the sack when he made a quick slide to avoid being nipped by Fitzsimmons' throw to Terry. He gave the ankle a twist and was forced to quit work. Kerr took over the position and gave a dazzling defensive exhibition, which included nine fielding chances in six innings.

There was no fooling about the manner in which the Giants climbed aboard Thomas in the first round. Critz opened with a line double to left, Leach was whipped out by Cissell, Lindstrom gave the ball such a resounding whack that it vanished on the far side of the left field wall. Critz preceded him over the plate. Then Terry, in his first appearance of the year, slipped a single into center and Ott came close to doing the same thing, but Appling flagged the drive with a one-handed reach.

Enjoy Temporary Tie.

The Sox enjoyed a tie for a few moments in the second. This was made possible by the men in the lower flight of the batting order. Fitzsimmons handed a pass to Appling with one out and Luke was forced by Watwood. Kamm singled to right center. Then Tate stepped into the breach. He slapped a liner over third for two bases, sending Watwood and Kamm home.

The 2 to 2 tie lasted only until the Giants could get another look at Thomas in their half of the second. Vergez opened this assault with a double to left and scored when Hogan nicked the left center field boards for two bases. Thomas' pride was further wounded when the hostile pitcher, Fitzsimmons, pushed a single past Watwood to score the Lumbering Hogan.

Hits Greet Braxton.

As a fitting welcome for Braxton in the third the boys from the Polo grounds hung up their last pair of runs, making the scoreboard read 6 to 2 in their favor. This flurry began with a pass to Lindstrom. Terry looped a single into left. Braxton threw one just suited to the requirements of Ott and he thumped it on a line to the right field barrier for a double. Lindstrom scored and Terry rested on third. While Jackson was being thrown out on an infield roller, Terry hiked home.

The Sox will devote tomorrow to a visit to their old training base inside the racetrack at Seguin, 35 miles to the east.

NOAJOYCE TAKES ST. JOHNS SPRINT IN NOSE FINISH

Equation's Stretch Run Fails by Inches.

St. John's Park, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The Honeoye stable's Noajoyce fasted long enough to capture the St. Augustin handicap 6 furlong feature of this afternoon's turf offering here. Under a good ride by Francis Dainty, the speedy son of Noah scored by a head over Equation, while the latter was five lengths before Sunny Morn. Berber and Jack Howe completed the small field in the order named.

Jockey Dainty as a result of the victory drew up into a tie with the sensational apprentice, Frank Madely, for the lead in the local jockey standing, each had now having eight winners. Noajoyce was the favorite, paying $4.50 in the mutuels. The time was 1:15.

Jim Arthur's Berber, a candidate for the Dixie handicap, made his first start of the year. He broke in front, but his stay there was short lived. Noajoyce and Jack Howe rushed past him and fought for the lead, running like a team. Approaching the far turn, Noajoyce drew clear as Jack Howe began his usual quitting act. Equation was several lengths off the pace, while Sunny Morn was a trailer. Noajoyce saved ground and was four lengths clear in the stretch, but Equation charged after him with a rush and the choice began faltering at the sixteenth pole. Dainty plied the whip vigorously and his mount hung on long enough. Sunny Morn came from far out of it to take the show money by a head.

Chicago Team Grips 5 Man A.B.C. Lead

Buffalo, N. Y., Merach 23.—[Special.]—The J. William Thorsons are clinging to first place in the five man event of the American Bowling congress tournament. Thirty-two lineups from 25 cities failed to dethrone the Chicago quintet tonight.

Charley Reilly and Ed Rafferty, of Philadelphia crashed through to the lead in the doubles event with a 1,316 total. Reilly blasted out games of 245, 238, and 195 to set the pace for games of 434, 452, and 430.

Other changes in the standings today were Carl Rummer-George Leist, Detroit, sixth in doubles, 1,241; Mort Swancott, Utica, eighth in singles, 680, and Jack Bender, Cleveland, ninth, 676. Fred Tocco took seventh in all-events with 1,853, and Reilly eighth, 1,850. Standings:

that there is just another group of cock-eyed American tourists.

But that's justice. The Phillies or the Red Sox would have been more deserving. For a few hours in Cuba they might forget that they were Phillies or Red Sox.

A recent discussion here of the subject of the doping of prizefighters elicits a very helpful letter signed Charles Sandler, M. D. The doctor names two drugs which may be used to disable a pugilist without the pugilist's knowledge that he has been taken advantage of. One is a soporific and the other impairs the vision, distorting the fighter's judgment of distance.

The directions say they are to be used in minute quantities, but I have seen some fighters who undoubtedly had taken a couple of quarts of both.

EASTER HERO IS GRAND NATIONAL CHOICE AT 100-9

LONDON, March 23.—(AP)—J. H. Whitney's Easter Hero was the favorite today in the call over of betting odds on the Grand National steeplechase to be run at Aintree Friday.

The American horse was at 100 to 9 against, with Sir Lindsay, his stablemate, and the British owned steeplechaser, Ballasport, second choices at 100 to 7.

Other odds: Drintyre, 18 to 1; Drin, 18 to 1; Grakle, 18 to 1; Kakushin, 20 to 1; Shaun Gollin, last year's winner, 25 to 1.

The field was reduced to 47 today with the scratching of J. B. Snow's Delarue.

Milwaukee Team Wins at Last, So Art Shires Shaves

Hot Springs, Ark., March 23.—(AP)—Arthur Shires had a shave today after permitting his beard to grow several days. He had determined not to shave until his teammates, the Milwaukee Brewers, won an exhibition game. Yesterday the Brewers came through for him, defeating the Little Rock Travelers, 18 to 9.

OARSMEN PICK LONG BEACH AS REGATTA SITE

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The national regetta of the Association of Amateur Oarsmen has been awarded to Long Beach, Long island, provisional on Long Beach meeting the requirements for holding the event. The dates are July 24 and 25.

The competion includes singles sculls, double sculls, fours and eights, with various weight classifications.

Henry Penn Burke of Philadelphia, president of the amateur oarsmen and chairman of the 1932 Olympic rowing committee, said the dates for the Olympic tryouts next summer had been set as July 5 to 9 with the site still to be selected. One of the five sites being considered is the Lincoln park lagoon, Chicago.

A. A. U. HANDBALL CHAMPION WINS AS MEET OPENS

Minneapolis, Minn., March 23.—(AP)—The National A. A. U. handball crown rested undisturbed upon the head of Alfred Banuet, defending champion, after first round matches were played today in the national tournament here.

The San Francisco titleholder won his initial match in easy fashion, taking the first game from Addison Douglass, Minneapolis, 21 to 3, and bearing down a bit in the second to win, 21 to 14.

Cubs Suffer a Relapse; Lose to Oaks, 4-3

fanned Teachout and J. Moore to retire the side.

It was a bit surprising the way the Oaks hopped on Teachout when they finally got around to it in the fifth inning. Bud threw out Reese, but Anton knocked a double to give the home boys their first hit. He tied the score immediately when Dean slammed a single into left. Dean went from first to third when Teachout threw into right to catch him off first. Then Dondero, batting for Ortman, fouled to Grace. Holt singled to center, scoring Dean, but was forced at second by E. Moore.

Oaks Continue Attack.

The Cubs were helpless in the sixth, but the Oaks bounced right back in their half for two runs. Powers pushed off with a triple over D. Taylor's head and held on while Wade and Reese were being thrown out. Anton slammed a single off Teachout's shins, scoring Powers, and Dean followed with a double which scored Anton.

In the eighth the Cubs finally managed to get more than one hit. They got three, which served to manufacture their second run. Grace singled with one out and was forced by English. Then Blair and Teachout singled. English scoring.

In the ninth Jurges opened with his homer. Beck flied to Dean, but D. Taylor beat out an infield single and stopped at second when Campbell singled to center. Grace fanned. Then English walked, filling the bases. The Oaks were returned the victors when Blair was called out on strikes.

Tomorrow the Cubs will line up against the Seals in San Francisco. Les Sweetland will pitch.

NEW LAW LIMITS HUNTSMEN IN USE OF DECOY GEESE

10 Live Birds Maximum Under U. S. Rule.

BY BOB BECKER.

Next fall, when the waterfowl come down from the north on their migration, goose hunters will have to watch their setups for decoying the birds, because Uncle Sam has stepped in with a new ruling on live decoys. According to the regulations issued by the biological survey a few days ago, "not more than ten (10) live goose decoys may be used or shot over at any one gunning stand, blind or floating device."

From our knowledge of goose shooting in the Mississippi valley this regulation will require a new ratio in the staking out of live decoys immediately in front of a blind and the number of these birds which are more or less permanently penned up on a bar or in a wheat field.

Must Cut Down Decoys.

Frequently goose hunters in the middle west maintain a pen of geese with anywhere from five to eight or ten birds in it. This pen is fairly close to one pit or possibly between two. Then several live birds are staked out near the blind. Under the new regulation pen birds, if used to decoy wild birds to a certain blind, and staked out birds must not total more than ten birds.

The new government regulations also have news on brant and snow geese. The hunting of snow geese has been prohibited in all states bordering the Atlantic ocean. Furthermore, it will be unlawful to kill Ross's geese and cackling geese throughout their range. Brant have been included in the bag limit for geese, and now only four geese and brant in the aggregate of all kinds may be taken in any one day, and no person may have in his possession at any time more than eight geese and brant.

Rule on Mourning Doves.

The government has stepped in with a regulation regarding mourning dove shooting, too. Down south the practice in some localities has been to bait fields to attract these birds. Inasmuch as the dove is a migratory bird, the government has the authority to regulate the taking of this species. Under the new regulations the hunting, killing or taking of mourning doves is not permitted in any area that has been baited with salt, corn, wheat, or other grain, or other foods placed or scattered on the ground.

Instead of opening the duck season fifteen days later than last year, as originally announced, the 1931 duck hunting season in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and other north central states will begin Oct. 1. And the hour for commencement of the season is 12 o'clock noon instead of sunrise that morning.

Speed Trucks
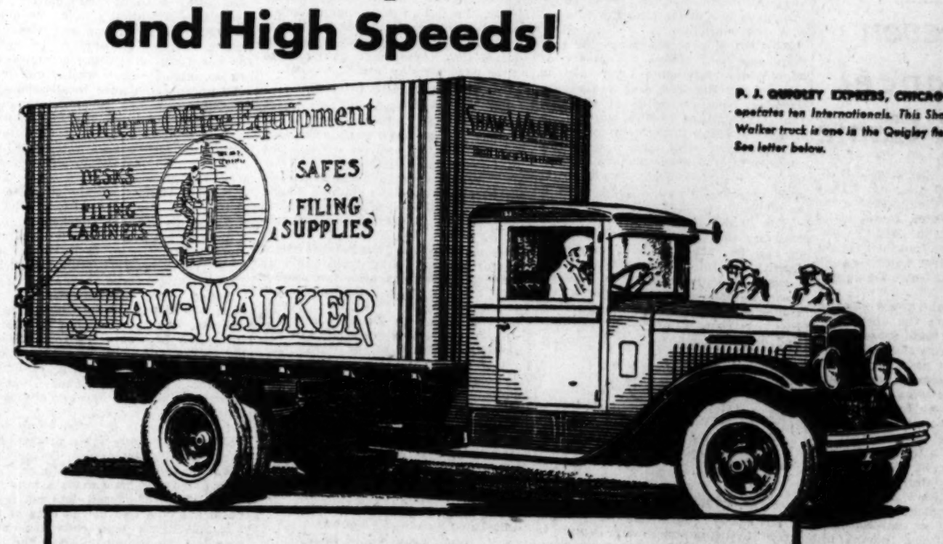
and High Speeds!



P. J. QUIGLEY EXPRESS, CHICAGO, operates ten Internationals. This Shaw-Walker truck is one in the Quigley fleet. See letter below.

Look at the line up of the four modern models in International Speed Trucks. They answer a multitude of needs in the trucking world. There is the AL-3, a 1½-ton model; the A-4, for 2 tons; and the A-5 and A-6, both of 3-ton capacity. All these are speed trucks of heavy-duty design, built to carry big loads—yet built for speed as well. And attractive prices apply on all models.

The outward appearance of each is trim and business-like—an accurate indication of the precision prevailing all through the entire engine and chassis. The new International Speed Trucks are modern in every detail... outside and inside... and provide sure and economical hauling service for all types of business.

There is a wide choice in wheelbase lengths, providing for the use of all kinds of bodies—van, panel, tank, or whatever you need!

See these trucks at one of our showrooms, or let us give you a demonstration on your job that will speak far stronger than words.

"We purchased our first International when we were using a lighter type of truck. The fine service which the new truck rendered soon gave us the idea of a standardization program, and today there are 10 International trucks in our fleet. We may add that it is our intention within the near future to make our fleet 100% International.

"Your after-sale service was one of the strong factors in reaching this decision. You have always shown a willingness to see our side of any question and have been most helpful at all times. We assure you of our continued interest in your product."

P. J. QUIGLEY

The International line also includes the ½-ton Special Delivery, 1½-ton Six-Speed Special, and heavy-duty trucks from 2½-tons up.

ATHLETICS BEAT BRAVES IN LAST GAME AT CAMP

Dykes Drives In Todt for 3 to 2 Victory.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The Athletics wound up their spring exhibition schedule at Fort Myers today by defeating the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, while Thomas A. Edison and the largest crowd of the series here looked on. To help mark the windup Connie Mack was escorted around the field by a bevy of beauties and presented with a Panama hat, while the A's players received gifts from Mayor Judah Fitch of Fort Myers.

The A's broke a 2 to 2 deadlock in the seventh. Bruce Cunningham, Boston pitcher, relieved Brandt and was rocked for a single by Todt. A pass to Miller was followed by Dykes' line drive through the pitching box, which sent Todt home with the winning run.

Score:

Boston	200	000	000	2	10	0
Philadelphia	001	001	10*	3	9	1

Batteries—Brandt, Cunningham, and Bool; Dyer, McDonald, and Cochrane.

INDIANAPOLIS, 4; YANKEES, 3.

Sarasota, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—After tying the score in the ninth, the New York Yankees lost an eleven inning decision to Indianapolis of the American association by a 4 to 3 score today.

Narlesky's single, followed by Riddle's triple off Roy Sherid, spelled the downfall of the Yankees. Babe Ruth's contribution to the Yankees' eight hit attack was a single. Score:

New York	000	010	002	00	3	8	1

Batteries—Johnson, Sherid, and Padden, Taylor; Burwell, Daney, and Angley, Biddle.

ROBINS BEAT SECOND TEAM.

HAVANA, March 23.—(AP)—With Watson Clark, veteran left hander, and Wiley Moore, who is up for another trial in the major leagues, pitching they hit ball the Brooklyn first team defeated the second team, 5 to 1, today in the third of the intra-club series. The victory gave the first team an advantage of two games to one. Score:

Second team	100	000	000	1	4	2
First team	120	001	10*	5	10	1

Batteries—Mooney, Gallivan, and Lombardi; Clark, Moore, and Richards.

CARDS WHIP PHILLIES.

Bradenton, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Phillies, 9 to 7, today. The Cardinals made five errors, but offset these by making 14 hits to the Phils' 10. Rhem, who was on the mound for the first five innings, was effective except in the fifth, when the Phils bunched four hits with two errors and scored five runs.

Philadelphia	100	050	100	7	10	4
St. Louis	430	011	00*	9	14	5

Batteries—Elliott, Shields, Benge, and Rensa; Rhem, Stout, and Wilson, Manion.

PIRATES BEAT ANGELS.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 23.—(AP)—After taking four straight defeats from the Chicago Cubs the Pittsburgh Pirates today beat Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league, 13 to 4. The Pirates' 19 hits included three home runs, three triples, and four doubles. Score:

Batteries—French, Kennedy and Hemsley, Rosy; Moss, Green, Gabler and Hannah.

BOSTON BATTING WEAK.

Pensacola, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—Training at the Red Sox camp will be on continual round of batting practice until Wednesday, when the boys start out on the road. President Bob Quinn left today for home highly pleased with the way things have gone. Manager Shano Collins is bound that within the next few days his boys will learn to hit harder and farther.

COLUMBUS BEATS CINCINNATI.

Tampa, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The Columbus Redbirds today trimmed the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 3. Two Columbus rookies held the Reds runless until the game was safely in the bag. Nick Cullop made Cincinnati's only hit off Wetherell, rookie from Greensboro, N. C., in his five innings.

Columbus	201	120	100	7	12	1

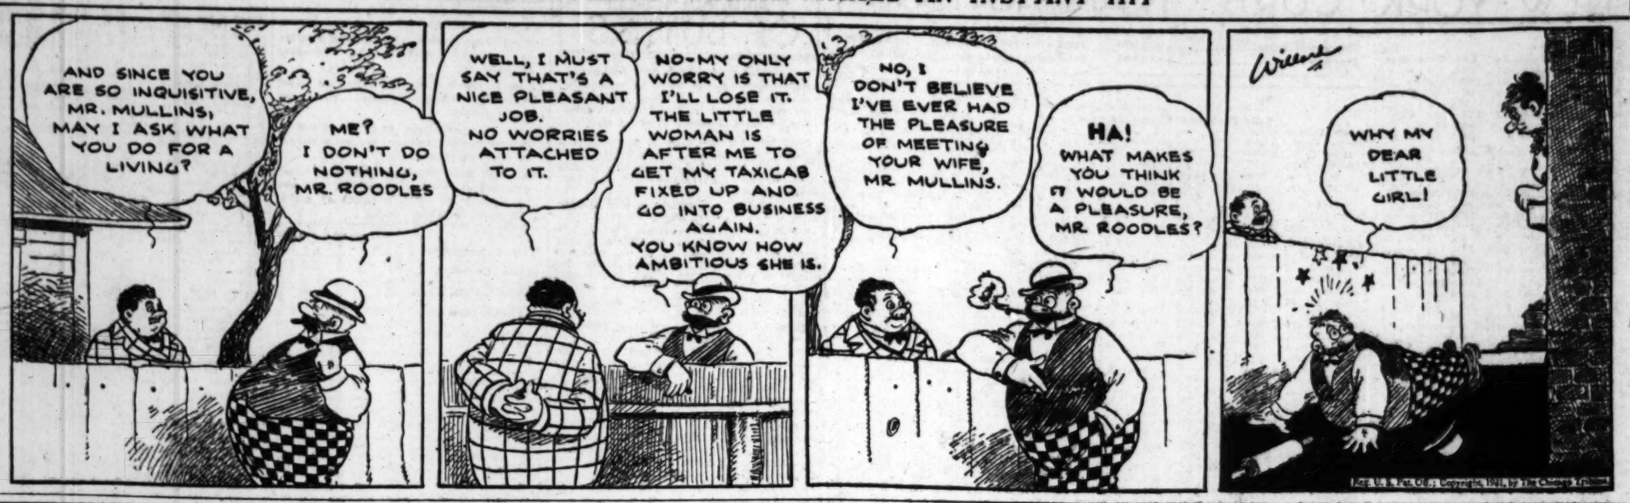
MOON MULLINS—MAMIE MAKES AN INSTANT HIT



AND SINCE YOU ARE SO INQUISITIVE, MR. MULLINS, MAY I ASK WHAT YOU DO FOR A LIVING?
ME? I DON'T DO NOTHING, MR. ROODLES
WELL, I MUST SAY THAT'S A NICE PLEASANT JOB. NO WORRIES ATTACHED TO IT.
NO-MY ONLY WORRY IS THAT I'LL LOSE IT. THE LITTLE WOMAN IS AFTER ME TO GET MY TAXICAB FIXED UP AND GO INTO BUSINESS AGAIN. YOU KNOW HOW AMBITIOUS SHE IS.
NO, I DON'T BELIEVE I'VE EVER HAD THE PLEASURE OF MEETING YOUR WIFE, MR MULLINS.
HA! WHAT MAKES YOU THINK IT WOULD BE A PLEASURE, MR ROODLES?
WHY MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL!

Sharkey Will Confer with StadiumHeads

Plans for the summer's heavyweight prize fighting program in Chicago will be put under way today when Jack Sharkey arrives to confer with Stadium officials, and Tommy Loughran and Tuffy Griffith.

Conferences today, at which the Stadium expects to close with Sharkey to meet the winner of the Loughran-Griffith fight Friday night, will be the first of a series of meetings this week which later may develop into controversy between New York promoters and the Stadium.

Brooklyn Bids for Fight.

Carey's opposition will not come alone from the Stadium. Two of his neighborhood rivals, Jimmy Johnston and Hubert Fugazy, have notified Loughran they will be here Friday. Johnston and Fugazy will promote in Brooklyn. Up to yesterday the Stadium has had the inside track, with the eastern promoters confining their operations to long distance telephone calls imploring both Griffith and Loughran to side step all negotiations until they have conferred with them.

Sharkey himself has operated along this line, asking Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, to tell Griffith and Loughran not to confer with any one until he arrived.

Row Over Lightweight Bout.

The coming of Carey presages further strife between the Garden and the Stadium, whose battle already has extended from the light field to the circus business. The latest open flare of rivalry conerns the proposed Tony Canzoneri-Jack Kid Berg lightweight championship fight, which New York promoters, with the aid of the New York State commission, attempted to take from the Stadium.

This matter came to the attention of the National Boxing association yesterday and resulted in a statement by Gen. John Clinnin, N. B. A. president, that Canzoneri and Berg would be stripped of their titles and suspended by the N. B. A. if they violate their agreement with the Stadium. The dictum is expected to save the fight for Chicago. Berg is the junior welterweight champion and only recently was awarded the N. B. A. belt by defending his title against Goldie Hess in the Stadium.

The Stadium outbid the Garden for the Loughran-Griffith fight, which headlines its second anniversary program Friday night.

Loughran boxed six rounds yesterday in preparation for Friday's fight, while Griffith confined his training to road work. He will return to the gym today. Loughran worked three rounds against K. O. White and Frank Cawley, his heavyweight protégé.

Fight Decisions

At Des Moines, Ia.—Eddie Anderson, Casper, Wyo., beat Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn. [10]; Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ill., beat Bill Vaughn, Omaha [10].

At Philadelphia—Tommy Paul, Buffalo, beat Maurice Holtzer, France [10].

At Pittsburgh—Joe Sekyra, New York, beat Benny Touchstone, Detroit [10]; Dominick Petrone, Pittsburgh, beat Steve Nugent, Cleveland [8].

At Flint, Mich.—Battling Bozo beat Frankie Wine [10]; Mel Tipton knocked out Joe Adams [2].

TOLLEY WINS A NEW TRIAL FOR HIS LIBEL SUIT

LONDON, March 23.—(AP)—Cyril Tolley, British amateur golfer, today won a new trial for his long standing libel suit against a firm of chocolate manufacturers he charges with using his name in an advertisement.

In the original trial, in July of 1929, Tolley won a verdict of 1,000 sterling [$5,000]. The judgment was reversed a few months later by the court of appeals.

Tolley took the case to the house of lords, the highest tribunal in the land, which today ordered a new trial.

Tolley argued that people reading the advertisement would assume he got more than a box of chocolates for the use of his name; whereas, he said, he got nothing.

LITTMAN-OSTER BATTLE HEADS TONIGHT'S CARD

Middleweight Tourney Opens at Coliseum.

Middleweight fighters will begin a scramble at the Coliseum tonight to take over whatever glory, honors and prospective moneys Mickey Walker left behind when he deserted his throne in that division.

Four battles have been arranged by Matchmaker Jim Mullen. They bring some new faces and some old favorites into the Chicago fighting field. The match which is attracting most attention finds Pat Littman of Milwaukee ready to square away against Willie Oster, the Boston wild man. The complete card follows:

Tait Littman vs. Willie Oster, 10 rounds.
Pete Susky vs. Haakon Hansen, 10 rounds.
Chuck Heffner vs. My Sullivan, 10 rounds.
Danny Gasparo vs. Buck Easterling, 6 rounds.

A delegation of Milwaukee ring followers will come to Chicago today to see Littman in his battle with Oster. Others arrived yesterday and did so much talking about Littman that he became the favorite to win the bout.

Pete Susky, the Scranton coal miner, is a newcomer to Chicago ficfic activities and his backers here believe he will hand a lacing to Hansen. It is possible this pair may steal the show, for both are rough and tough, and hard punchers.

Chuck Heffner of Denver and My Sullivan, from St. Paul, who has fought many battles here, come together in another match. In his only two fights here Heffner has triumphed by knockouts and Sullivan proved that he is on edge when he knocked out Izzy Greve in a round at Detroit last week.

FILM MAN BUYS APARTMENTS IN BEVERLY HILLS

Jas. E. Coston Purchases on Longwood Drive.

BY AL CHASE.

James E. Coston, who recently sold a circuit of local cinemas to Warner Brothers, and who is their western manager, yesterday purchased one of Beverly Hills' largest apartment projects, at the southeast corner of Longwood drive and 109th street extended, for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $450,000. The seller was Edwin J. Nelson.

The property is 429x258 and is in apartment buildings, containing a total of eighty-nine suites. They were erected two years ago. In the back of the property are thirty individual garages. Frank O'Brien of McKey & Poague was broker. Chapman & Cutler were attorneys.

Plans Tire Service Chain.

The All Weather Tire company has purchased the vacant northwest corner of Madison and Kilbourn, 101x175, from Leroy F. and Mary E Sullivan for an undisclosed consideration and will erect a tire service, gas and oil station to represent a reported investment of $100,000. Title to the property was taken by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company for the purchaser.

This is one of a chain of similar tire service stations contemplated by the All Weather Tire company. It recently purchased the northwest corner of Division and Elston, 100x125, and has just opened a branch. W. B. Mangold of Becker, Young & Becker was broker.

The Shell Petroleum corporation has leased the southeast corner of 22d street and Clarence avenue, in Berwyn, for ten years at $4,200 annually, with an option to buy for $65,000 any time during the first three years.

Walton Place Lease.

D. J. Waters has leased the three story residence at 75 East Walton place, at the southeast corner of Ernst court, from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, for three years at a reported $1,600 annually. The property some time ago was used for restaurant purposes. The new lessee also will operate a tea room and restaurant, opening next month. Sudler & Co. and Ross & Browne were brokers.

Mrs. Anna Raley of Duluth, Minn., has leased the three story brick building, containing twenty-one rooms, at 834 Bradley place, from the Charles Blumenthal estate and will remodel and furnish and will operate as a hotel. De Forrest A. Matteson & Co. were brokers.

LARD FINISH LOWER

Packers' brokers were credited with buying lard on the weak spots yesterday, while the selling was scattered, due in a measure to the break in hogs and grains. Trade in cash and futures was not large. The close was 21 nt lower to 2½ higher. Liverpool lard was 3@6d higher. The week's exports of lard were 10,741,000 lbs. against 10,911,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 2,018,600 lbs. compared with 6,055,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

RETREAT OF U. S. SINKS VALUES IN WHEAT PIT

Hit 1895 Levels as Props Fall Out.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A wave of speculative selling swept over the wheat future market yesterday as the last lingering doubts that the government would support the new crop months were dispelled in the minds of the grain trade.

The "hands off" announcement Sunday by the farm board was instrumental in lowering prices of deferred futures 2¼@2¾c under Saturday's finish to the lowest figures since 1895, the July touching 59½c and September 60c.

June wheat, a heretofore inactive delivery, dropped 12c on selling orders said to have come from New York, touching 65c at the low point, and closed 10c lower for the day at 67c. The trade had an impression the Stabilization corporation bought the wheat on the break. Cotton prices were also engulfed by selling, breaking around $1 a bale. The other grains were, weakened by the pressure on wheat.

Buyers Give Up Hope.

While the announcement was not a surprise to the grain trade, statements to that effect having been made numerous times previously, there were many who felt that sufficient political pressure would be put on the farm board to force it to make an effort to sustain the market, and operators who bought on this belief were among the leading sellers. Old crop months were little affected, as stabilization operations are still under way, but they closed ⅛@¼c lower, with March at 79⅛@79½c and May at 79⅝c, while new crop deliveries were 2@2⅝c lower, the July finishing at 59⅝@59¾c and the September at 60¼@60⅜c.

While there has been no official announcement recently as to the aggregate holdings of cash wheat and futures by the Stabilization corporation, trade estimates have suggested a total of around 200,000,000 bu, including the amounts of old grain back in the country that seem certain to be sold between now and the end of May in order to take advantage of the premium of nearly 22c which prevails for the old crop grain.

Predict Heavy Surplus.

For a number of months the domestic and world's statistical position has been regarded as hopeless as far as any advance in prices is concerned based on supply and demand, and it is predicted that the world's carryover at the end of the current crop year will exceed 500,000,000 bu, or about the largest on record, and under normal conditions the supply available for the 1931-32 season would again be excessive, despite the probability that the spring wheat acreage in North America will be cut down to some extent.

The failure of the withholding of the United States surplus from the world's market to have any material influence on the price, with the latter in England about the lowest since 1884, has caused the trade to take a decidedly bearish attitude toward the market, and the bulk of the support for a number of weeks has come largely from shorts and local operators.

A prediction that wheat would sell around 50c per bu in Chicago this fall, made by Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, was agreed to by a number of Chicago traders. In 1895 July wheat here sold as low as 53½c, while the cash grain sold at 49½c, and should sales be made ultimately below the latter price it would be necessary to go back to 1931-32, when the cash was below 40c, to find comparative figures.

Rye Wheat Accumulation.

The announcement that government operations would not be continued in the new crop did not satisfy the trade as to the farm board's policy, and considerable comment was heard during the day as to what it would do with its accumulations of old wheat, which some observers felt was even of more importance. B. W. Snow, the Harlett Frazier Co. statistician, in a long summary said the farm board should go through with that part of its program without allowing any uncertainty to surround its future action as to the wheat so acquired.

As the visible supply is now nearly 154,000,000 bu, on the basis of the bureau of agricultural economics report, even traders feel that sufficient old wheat will be in store at the end of the crop year to clog all commercial channels and prevent free deliveries of new crop grain on July contracts in public elevators, as car lots cannot be delivered except in the last three business days of the month.

Foreign wheat markets failed to display the pronounced weakness in America, although Winnipeg was off 1¾c for the day, with the July at 55⅝c.

Liverpool lost ⅛@1d for the day, with July at 62¾c, while Buenos Aires was 1Zc lower, with May at 46c. Export demand for North American wheat was slow, with sales of only 300,000 bu Manitobas reported.

New Low on May Corn.

Corn market was influenced almost entirely by the action of wheat and with scattered liquidation under way the May dropped 1⅝c to 62¼c, a new low for the season. An unexpected decrease of 487,000 bu in the domestic visible supply making the total 20,695,000 bu, compared with 24,497,000 bu last year, led to short covering and a rally, but the finish was at net losses of 1⅛@1⅛c, with March 60⅞c, May 62⅞@63c, July 65@65⅛c, and September 65¼@65⅛c.

Oats and rye were affected to some extent by the action of wheat, the former closing ⅛@⅞c lower, with March 30½c, May 31⅝@31¾c, and July 32c. Rye was 1⅛@1⅛c lower, with March 36½c, May 38½c, and July 40c. Scattered liquidation was on in both grains with prices at the inside close to the lowest figures on the crop.

Bankers Ponder U. S. Visit of British "Mystery Man"

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Montagu Norman, England's mystery man of finance and governor of the Bank of England, is coming to America Friday to talk to American men of money about money.

MONTAGU NORMAN.

Mr. Norman has been here before most mysteriously, and he has talked about gold. He probably will talk about gold this time—and he may talk about silver. Mysteriously and quietly, of course, since he usually travels incognito and has little to say for the press.

For months financiers have sought to bring silver out of its present slough of despond. Production has not increased materially; but sales by India, in its return to the gold standard, and by other countries to lessen the silver content of their coinage, have glutted the markets.

To Call Conference.

The situation became so acute that President Hoover was authorized by the recent congress to call an international silver conference.

Silver men expect the President, following his return from the West Indies, to call that conference—to call it perhaps while Mr. Norman is here.

Silver, priced at 62 cents an ounce in 1926, sells for about half that now. Silver mines everywhere have been closed; trade, with China, which has a silver money standard, has been demoralized. And India has been hard hit. Indians hoard the white metal as savings. They have hidden an estimated five to eight billion ounces.

It is entirely possible that the Right Hon. Mr. Norman will go to Washington, although such plan has not been announced here.

He may discuss the "Brownell plan," presented by Francis H. Brownell, chairman of the board of the American Smelting and Refining company.

What Plan Proposes.

The plan proposes that the United States, England including India, France including Indo-China, and as many other governments as possible, arrive at a "gentleman's agreement" that "no sale will be made, for a stated period—say three years, or until further notice—of any silver now or hereafter owned by each government, at less than some fixed price, say, for example, 50 cents per ounce.

"Second—an understanding that those governments will purchase the amount of silver they are now authorized by law to purchase for subsidiary coinage, whenever the price of silver in the open market is below the figure to be agreed upon as above [50 cents per ounce, for example].

"Third—as compensation for agreeing . . . and to prevent too rapid a rise—and understanding that the governments, and particularly India, may sell government-owned silver whenever the price is more than, say, five cents above the figure agreed upon as above."

CANADA BREWERS TO GUARANTEE PRICE OF BARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 23.—Guarding against a possible shortage of barley in the 1931 crop, a guaranteed rate of 55 cents a bushel for one million bushels of barley is being offered by the National Breweries' company and Molson's brewery.

The current price of barley has recently fallen as low at 25 cents a bushel, and it was feared that the low prices now quoted would lead farmers in Quebec and Ontario to neglect this grain during the coming season. The offer is being made through the department of agriculture in Ontario and officials of National Breweries stated that the same offer would be made to Quebec farmers through the Quebec department.

The rate is offered through the government in conjunction with the Canada Malting company, which will be the actual buyer of the grain, malting it for the brewery companies. The amount required is stated as 1,000,000 bushels and it is understood that this will be an absolute limit.

U. S. INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL SHOWS LOSS FOR 1930

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—The annual report of the United States Industrial Alcohol company for last year disclosed a profit, before deductions of $3,000,000 of inventories to market value of $1,104,752. After deduction of inventories the report showed a net loss of $1,895,247, compared with net income of $4,720,858 after all charges for 1929, equal to $12.63 a share on the common stock. Preliminary report for 1930 showed net of $1,160,789 before deductions. The book value of the company's stock after all charges to surplus was equal to $89.40 a share at the end of 1930.

MELLON SIGNS ORDER TO PREVENT DUMPING OF SAFETY MATCHES

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—An anti-dumping order against importation of safety matches from eight countries was signed today by Secretary Mellon.

It followed a two year investigation of charges that European safety match manufacturers were dumping their products into this country at low prices to the injury of domestic producers.

Such action previously had been taken against Russian matches. The latest nations affected are Finland, Norway, Estonia, Sweden, Latvia, Austria, Holland, and Poland.

The order provided an immediate increase in the duty assessed against the matches, which under the law must be the difference between the price charged and what the treasury thinks is the fair market value. Officials said they thought 80 cents a gross would be a fair value.

The investigation began when domestic manufacturers complained their business was being injured. Several hearings were held, and in the meantime the treasury issued its order against matches from Russia when it was determined they were being sold more cheaply here than in Russia. Officials estimated the increase in duty would provide $750,000 additional revenue.

SAYS GOV'T WILL APPEAL RULING IN PACKERS' CASE

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—Solicitor General Thomas D. Thatcher announced today the government would appeal from the recent decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals permitting modification of the packers' consent decree of 1920. Thatcher will carry the case to the Supreme court.

The District court approved a modification which would permit the packers to engage in related activities, including the handling of groceries and foods at wholesale.

Mr. Thatcher said it was anticipated the case could not be heard in the Supreme court before next fall. Although an early appeal was considered, Thatcher said, it was discovered records and briefs could not be prepared in time for presentation and argument before the court prior to its summer recess.

Discusses Outlook for Installment Plan Buying

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is generally admitted that the vast growth of installment buying in recent years contributed largely to the 1922-'28 boom and also to the 1929-'30 depression. The unexampled use of consumer credit in the purchasing of all manner of commodities created a demand that sent the wheels of industry humming and expanded production greatly.

But when the installment purchaser had bought goods to about the limit of his anticipated future excess income, the demand fell off rather quickly and the reverse course of declining industrial operations and unemployment set in. Whether this up-and-down process will be repeated now that much of the accumulated installment debt has been paid off is a topic of debate. Some of the phases and prospects are discussed by the Standard Statistics company.

Seen Permanent Institution.

"Installment selling has largely passed its period of trial and error and may now be generally accepted as a permanent institution," the analysis says. "As the bulk of consumer credit thus made available greatly increased the buying of marginal products prior to the depression, so the subsequent loss in purchasing power has correspondingly decreased buying of these products since 1929. Installment selling, therefore, tends somewhat to broaden fluctuations between good and bad times.

"We estimate that total 1930 time purchases at retail declined more than one billion dollars, or 20 per cent, from 1929. The general business depression was probably somewhat further intensified by installment sales of productive equipment, which stimulated outputs of small units of industry at the crest of the expansion. Improved methods of merchandising time payment goods and concentration of such paper in the hands of strong finance companies have placed this form of distribution on a more secure basis and have reduced the premium which consumers must pay over cash purchases.

Will Seize Opportunity.

"With a sustained recovery in trade volume and employment, consumers undoubtedly will avail themselves of the opportunity which installment selling offers for replenishment of needs of a marginal nature. Because its effects are felt through every division of the vertical business structure, we believe that practically all companies formerly directly or indirectly participating will again feel this influence."

The business decline, if not already ended, will end in the present half year, according to the Harvard Economic society, which finds that recent months have brought numerous and important exceptions to the general decline of business volume and prices.

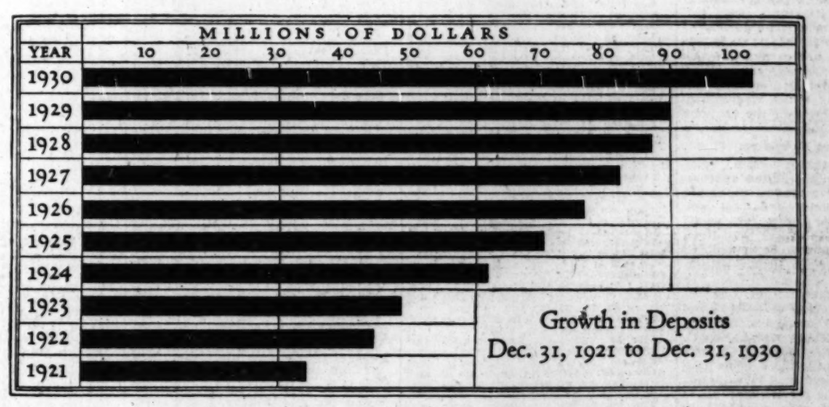
Ten Years of Growth



From $34,000,000 to $103,000,000

WHY have the deposits of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank tripled in ten years?

It is the result of close co-operation with our customers in the building of their business. We can prosper only as they grow and prosper. This philosophy has attracted new business and been helpful in increasing the old business.

The management of the bank has remained the same. There have been no consolidations.

We invite you to discuss your problems with our officers.

Here's Your Chance to Create a Safe Estate Yielding 12% Annually!

Most every man knows that he can get 3% on savings at his bank; 4% or 5% on good bonds, and 6% or 7% at the most on first-class mortgages. But he has yet to hear of 12% being guaranteed on an insurance policy by a great insurance company.

Yet that is precisely what the new Continental Family Income Policy offers. Suppose, for example, that you were to buy $10,000 worth of life insurance on this amazing new plan. If you should die at the end of six months your wife would receive a cash "clean up" fund of $1,000 and $1,200 a year (12% of the face amount of the policy) thereafter for nineteen and one-half years. Twenty years from the date of the policy she would also receive its full face amount, making a total of $34,400 paid her on only $10,000 worth of life insurance!

It would require $24,000 worth of ordinary life insurance (costing $600 yearly at age 35) to produce a yearly income of $1,200 (at 5%). A $10,000 Family Income Policy, however, costs only $269 yearly at age 35! Ask your agent or broker at once for further details of this remarkable bargain in insurance protection!

CHICAGO STOCK DEMAND CENTERS IN CORD SHARES

Advances a Fraction in a Weak Market.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Cord Corporation shares basked in the glare of the speculative spotlight on the Chicago exchange yesterday as the stock of the affiliated Auburn Automobile achieved another one of its spectacular advances on the New York exchange. It was only in point of shares traded, however, that the market performance of Cord compared with that of the fast moving Auburn.

Despite the 30,000 odd shares of Cord which turned over the circle kept within a narrow circle and the final transaction was made only a fraction above last week's closing price. Being the more unwieldy issue of the two, the stock seldom experiences more than a one point range while not infrequently Auburn's market action must be measured in numbers of two digits. Cord, however, was the undisputed trading favorite here. In other sections of the list trading was dull and price changes in nearly all active shares were on the debit side.

Fractional Losses Prevail.

Borg-Warner was in less demand and sold down more than a point to 28¼. Another popular stock, United States Radio, dropped a like amount and fractional losses prevailed generally.

The exchange listing committee is expected to take action today on the application of the Walgreen company for the listing of its common stock. The Walgreen common is now traded in on the Chicago curb and the Chicago Board of Trade. If the listing committee takes action today the matter will come before the board of governors for final approval at the regular meeting tomorrow.

The issuance of the Bendix Aviation corporation 1930 report was accompanied by no unusual activity in the company's stock. The earnings shown in the pamphlet report were the same as were contained in the preliminary statement.

Dividends paid or accrued during the year amounted to $3,607,943, or $2,224,-084 in excess of net earnings, which totaled $1,183,859, or 56 cents a share. In 1929 the company reported net profit of $7,416,408, which was equivalent to $3.53 a share on the common stock then outstanding.

Plan Sales Campaign.

Outlining the 1931 program, President Vincent Bendix stated that an intensive sales campaign to secure new accounts would be carried out. Economies effected during 1930 would be continued and efforts would be made to bring about more centralized control of the various Bendix properties, he added.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 showed quick assets of $12,996,845 and current assets of $2,569,106, as compared with $25,573,141 and $3,542,312, respectively, at the close of the previous year. Expenditures made during the year are reflected in valuation on plant, which is carried at $11,944,-568, as compared with $7,984,853 at the end of 1929.

Surplus at the close of 1930 stood at $9,244,699, as compared with $11,076,-536 at the beginning of the year. The excess of dividends paid over earnings and other miscellaneous deductions from surplus totaling $68,782 were partially offset by additions to capital surplus based on the acquisition of the Consolidated Instrument company and of minority interests in subsidiaries.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks declined yesterday. Raymond Clock was down two points and Rustless Iron, Standard of Indiana, Indiana Pipe Line and Ford Ltd. declined more than a point. Another popular stock, United States Radio, dropped a like amount and fractional losses prevailed generally.

The exchange listing committee is expected to take action today on the application of the Walgreen company for the listing of its common stock. The Walgreen common is now traded in on the Chicago curb and the Chicago Board of Trade. If the listing committee takes action today the matter will come before the board of governors for final approval at the regular meeting tomorrow.

The issuance of the Bendix Aviation corporation 1930 report was accompanied by no unusual activity in the company's stock. The earnings shown in the pamphlet report were the same as were contained in the preliminary statement.

Dividends paid or accrued during the year amounted to $3,607,943, or $2,224,-084 in excess of net earnings, which totaled $1,183,859, or 56 cents a share. In 1929 the company reported net profit of $7,416,408, which was equivalent to $3.53 a share on the common stock then outstanding.

Plan Sales Campaign.

Outlining the 1931 program, President Vincent Bendix stated that an intensive sales campaign to secure new accounts would be carried out. Economies effected during 1930 would be continued and efforts would be made to bring about more centralized control of the various Bendix properties, he added.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 showed quick assets of $12,996,845 and current assets of $2,569,106, as compared with $25,573,141 and $3,542,312, respectively, at the close of the previous year. Expenditures made during the year are reflected in valuation on plant, which is carried at $11,944,-568, as compared with $7,984,853 at the end of 1929.

Surplus at the close of 1930 stood at $9,244,699, as compared with $11,076,-536 at the beginning of the year. The excess of dividends paid over earnings and other miscellaneous deductions from surplus totaling $68,782 were partially offset by additions to capital surplus based on the acquisition of the Consolidated Instrument company and of minority interests in subsidiaries.

TREASURY FACES 700 MILLIONS OF DEFICIT FOR 1931

March Income Taxes Off 200 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—March income tax collections will run approximately 200 million dollars below those received at the treasury for the same period last year, high treasury officials said today in commenting upon the effect of the economic depression upon the national finances. March receipts will run about 350 millions, compared to 559 millions received for the same month last year, it was said.

On the basis of collections received thus far, the total income tax collections for the year will run more than 300 millions below receipts for last year from this source. The treasury deficit on June 30 is now expected by treasury officials to run about 700 million dollars.

In some quarters there was a tendency to believe that the President, upon his return from Porto Rico, may call upon government departments to effect such economies in administration as can be done without affecting the national building and construction programs.

The latest exact figure given was for the first twenty days of March, during which receipts had amounted to $283,229,000, a reduction of 177 millions from the same period last year. The fiscal year collection through that date was $1,454,660,300, a cut of 258 millions. Receipts March 20 amounted to $44,105,000, as compared with $75,475,000 the same date a year ago.

Telegraphic reports for an additional day showed that the treasury would be about $86,000,000 behind the earlier estimate when figures for March 21 are tabulated, and if the same trend is followed up to March 31 the decrease under the estimate will be 100 million dollars for the month.

Treasury officials, like most of the administration leaders in congress, are opposed to tax increases being considered in the next session of congress in December, on the eve of a national campaign, unless conditions make such action mandatory. But the treasury experts will make a complete study of the situation after the March collections are all in and be prepared to present a comprehensive picture of the problem to congressional advisers.

National Dairy Products.

Kindly give me what information you have regarding earnings, rating, and what you think of National Dairy Products common stock. I inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply, which I would appreciate at as early a date as possible.—L. L.

National Dairy Products corporation was organized in December, 1923, as a holding company and has grown rapidly through the acquisition of established concerns.

It has a large number of subsidiaries engaged in the wholesale and retail distribution of dairy products and the manufacture and sale of ice cream, condensed milk, and milk by-products. General Ice Cream corporation was acquired in 1928. A number of other going concerns were added in 1929, and last year the company took over the assets and business of Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation.

Although this industry proved to be not entirely depression proof last year, the company was able to show not only increased sales but larger earnings per share on its outstanding common. Because of the rapid turnover of the company's food products, inventory losses in 1930 were not severe despite the fact that the decline in commodity prices was the most drastic in its history. The balance sheet at the close of 1930 showed inventory of about $25,000,000, equal to about one-fifteenth of yearly sales.

Last year net sales were $374,558,412, against $300,021,483 in 1929.

Net income was $23,931,192, or about 30 times dividend requirements on the 111,912 7 per cent preferred shares (par $100) and was equal to $3.73 per share earned on the 6,202,177 no par common shares outstanding in the hands of the public. In 1929 net income was $18,961,141, or $3.53 per share on 5,135,645 common shares.

The consolidated balance sheet at the end of 1930 showed current assets of $68,152,625 and current liabilities of $21,144,798. This left a working capital of $47,007,827, which compares with $34,211,669 on Dec. 31, 1929. Funded debt was $80,151,040. Earned surplus was $37,369,222, against $29,733,848 at the close of 1929.

Leaving out of consideration the results of newly acquired companies, sales in 1930 showed a decline of about 9 per cent, as compared with the same divisions of the business in 1929. About 4 per cent was due to lower commodity prices and about 5 per cent to actual falling off in business.

Beginning Jan. 2, 1931, the common dividend rate was changed to a yearly basis of $2.60 per share in cash instead of $2 in cash and 4 per cent in stock. The common is regarded as high grade.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube to Offer $25,000,000 Issue

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, fourth largest steel company in the country, will publicly offer $25,000,000 of first sinking fund 5 per cent bonds, series B, tomorrow at 101, it was learned today. The offering, which will be undertaken through a banking group headed by the Bankers' Trust company, represents the first public financing by the company since 1927.

The new issue is of the same class as was the $75,000,000 of bonds, series A, offered by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. at 101 in November, 1927.

H. T. FERRISS PREDICTS LARGER ABSORPTION OF NEW SECURITIES

Within a decade or less American investors will be absorbing every year around 16 or 17 billion dollars of new securities. This prophecy was made by Henry T. Ferriss, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, before the central states group of the association at a dinner in the Blackstone hotel.

"The average rate of increase of new security issues has been 8½ per cent over the last ten years," he said. "Offerings reached about 11½ billions in 1929 but dropped back to 8½ billions in 1930. This year may see a smaller total than last year but we expect offerings of 16 or 17 billion dollars annually eight or ten years from now.

BRITISH TYPE OF INVESTMENT TRUST EXPLAINED

James M. Balfour, investment trust expert of London, England, yesterday explained British investment trust practice before members of the Bond Men's club of Chicago at a luncheon at the Union League club.

Mr. Balfour stressed three points considered by managers of British trusts in making selections for their portfolios: First, investments are made for revenue rather than with expectation of capital appreciation; second, investments are made with an eye to world aspects, and third, not too much consideration is given to statistics in building portfolios.

British trusts have been in existence for about fifty years, but until comparatively recently they have been limited in numbers, Mr. Balfour explained in opening his talk. As in this country, there are various schools of thought in England, and Mr. Balfour said his remarks were based on those trusts with which he is connected.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, but despite the rather indifferent attitude of buyers, offerings were not aggressive and prices were unchanged, with holders asking from 3.30@3.35c.

Although not very active raw futures were firmer, influenced by the steadiness of spots, better London cables, and press reports intimating that the beet sugar acreage in Europe would be curtailed as a result of the Chadbourne plan. Final prices were from 3 to 4 points net higher. Approximate sales 11,350 tons. Prices follow:

Dated April 1, 1931 — Due April 1, 1970

Interest payable April 1 and October 1, without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not exceeding 2% per annum which the Company may be required or permitted to pay thereon or retain therefrom. Pennsylvania Four Mill Tax refundable upon application made within 60 days after each such payment. Principal and interest payable at the office of Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee. Redeemable on any interest payment date on 60 days' previous notice:—as a whole only or for Sinking Fund at the option of the Company at 105 through April 1, 1941; thereafter as a whole or in part at the option of the Company or for the Sinking Fund as follows: at 104 through April 1, 1946; thereafter at 103 through April 1, 1951; thereafter at 102 through April 1, 1956; thereafter at 101 through April 1, 1961; and thereafter at 100; accrued interest to be included in all cases to the date fixed for redemption. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500 registerable as to principal; registered bonds in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 and any multiple of $10,000. Coupon bonds and fully registered bonds interchangeable upon the conditions provided in the Mortgage.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee

A Sinking Fund is provided sufficient to retire 78% of this Series of Bonds by maturity, at the rate of $500,000 bonds per annum.

The following information is summarized from the letter of Mr. J. A. Campbell, Chairman of the Board of the Company:

Business and Properties: The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, organized in 1900, is one of the largest steel companies in the United States, with an annual ingot capacity of over 3,100,000 tons. It constitutes a completely integrated unit in the industry, manufacturing and selling a diversified line of products. The Company has under consideration the construction of important additions to its finishing capacity in both the Youngstown and Chicago districts.

Purpose of Issue: These Bonds are being issued to reimburse the Company in part for expenditures already made for additions, betterments and improvements. The proceeds from the sale of these Bonds will provide the Company with funds for further additions, betterments, and improvements, and for other corporate purposes.

Capitalization: The capitalization of the Company upon completion of this financing will be as follows:

First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds (Authorized $175,000,000)
Series "A", 5%, due January 1, 1978	$70,500,000
Series "B", 5%, due April 1, 1970 (this issue)	25,000,000	$95,500,000
5½% Cumulative Preferred Shares, $100 par value		$15,000,000
Common Shares (no par value)		1,200,000 shs.*

*Including 13,966 shares held for Employees' subscriptions.

Earnings: Consolidated net earnings of the Company and subsidiaries, available for interest, before Federal Taxes, but after deduction for depreciation and depletion, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., have averaged $17,513,471 annually for the eight years ended December 31, 1930, equivalent to 3.66 times annual interest requirements of $4,775,000 on the total First Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding. Such earnings for the year 1930 were $11,318,455 or 2.37 times these requirements. Current income from operations is at a reduced rate due to conditions prevailing in the industry.

Security: These Bonds are to be issued under the First Mortgage of the Company to Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee, dated December 21, 1927 and are to be secured equally and ratably with all other bonds issued thereunder. The First Mortgage Bonds are secured by a direct first mortgage on all of the fixed assets of the Company owned on November 1, 1927 and upon all additions and betterments thereto (less retirements and releases) and by pledge of certain stocks and obligations of subsidiary companies as defined in the Mortgage. The Company made an Agreement dated March 12, 1930 to sell its entire property, assets and good will to Bethlehem Steel Corporation; a decree of the lower court in Ohio enjoining the carrying out of such Agreement is now on appeal. In the event of the consummation of said sale, the First Mortgage Bonds will be assumed by Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Price 101 and accrued interest to yield 4.94%

These Bonds are offered for delivery when, as, and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. All legal matters in connection with the issuance of these Bonds are to be passed upon for the bankers by Messrs. White & Case and for the Company by J. C. Argetsinger, Esq., General Counsel of the Company. It is anticipated that temporary bonds or interim receipts will be available for delivery on or about April 15, 1931.

Top yesterday, $9.25; average, $8.25.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 17,000.

Buyers gained advantage in the live stock markets yesterday and dished quotations whenever possible. Cattle slipped back mostly 25c, some of the medium to good kinds selling at 40@50c loss later in the day.

Hogs held up surprisingly well, considering the size of fresh receipts and the comparatively slow movement of fresh pork yesterday. The extreme top for hogs at $8.10 was 10c above Saturday's peak, while the general average held steady at $7.45. Despite the higher level of quotations in the east, lambs slumped 40@50c after a steady opening.

The hog market was erratic, light weights selling to better advantage, while declines were noted in hogs averaging 250 lbs and heavier. Shippers, city butchers and small packers obtained about 26,000, while Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled most 23,000, including directs.

Hog receipts at Chicago were about the same size as a week ago, but other leading points reported substantial decreases. The eleven markets showed a decrease of 25,000. The year to date movement at 11 markets shows a decrease of 2 per cent compared with a year ago and 8 per cent compared with two years ago.

Hog Futures Slow.

Trading in hog futures was slow and bids and offers weak to lower. April and May light weights were offered at $8.50 and September light were offered at $9.50, with bids of 8.75 made for the latter at the close. May mediums were offered at $8.50 and bid $8.00, while September offers were at $9.00. May heavy were bid 8.75. On the "to arrive" market light weights for today's delivery were bid $7.75, mediums $7.40, and heavy $7.00.

Cattle receipts at 21,000 were largest of the year and proved too much for the trade. A big share of the day's offerings had to go at $7.50@8.50, with only occasional loads at 9.75 and above. Choice 1,225 lb steers sold at $10.50, the day's peak, while $10.25 was paid for 1,102 lb long yearlings.

Spring Lambs Bring $16.00.

Fat lambs opened steady on speculative account yesterday, but tumbled 40@50c at noon, when bulk of the supply changed hands. Most aged wool lambs went to packers at $8.50@9.00, with top to them at $8.75 and to shippers at $8.85. A load to a yard trader reached $9.25 at the opening. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Movement of the "new" crop of springers has started from several states. California and Arizona are furnishing the bulk. Native springers sold up to $16.00 in the east, with top wool lambs at $10.15 and shorn at $9.25.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The trade's assumption was that the buying of June wheat came from the farm board. The Farmers' National has had orders to buy and sell June wheat of late. There were bids Saturday at 77c and there was buying yesterday said to be for the Farmers' National but not for the Stabilization corporation. The latter has had no trades in June or July wheat.

A point was made by one of the closest observers who said that the June wheat shorts might have a lot of trouble in getting the cash wheat to deliver on their sales as the farm board will probably own all the cash wheat and shorts might have to pay higher prices to get the grain for delivery. Should the millers deliver all their cash wheat to the farm board agencies in May the point raised by one operator yesterday was "Where will they get cash wheat to grind in June, as the new crop will not be available until July.

Wheat traders were well pleased with the farm board announcement that they will not go into the new crop, but they are trying to find out now how and when the present holdings of upwards of 175,000,000 bu of wheat attributed to be owned by the farm board will be liquidated. Until they are informed irregular markets are to be expected. It is said that the farm board will have to take delivery of many millions of bushels of cash wheat in May and the trade is anxious to know how the shorts are going to get in on their May. There were numerous predictions of 50c for July wheat.

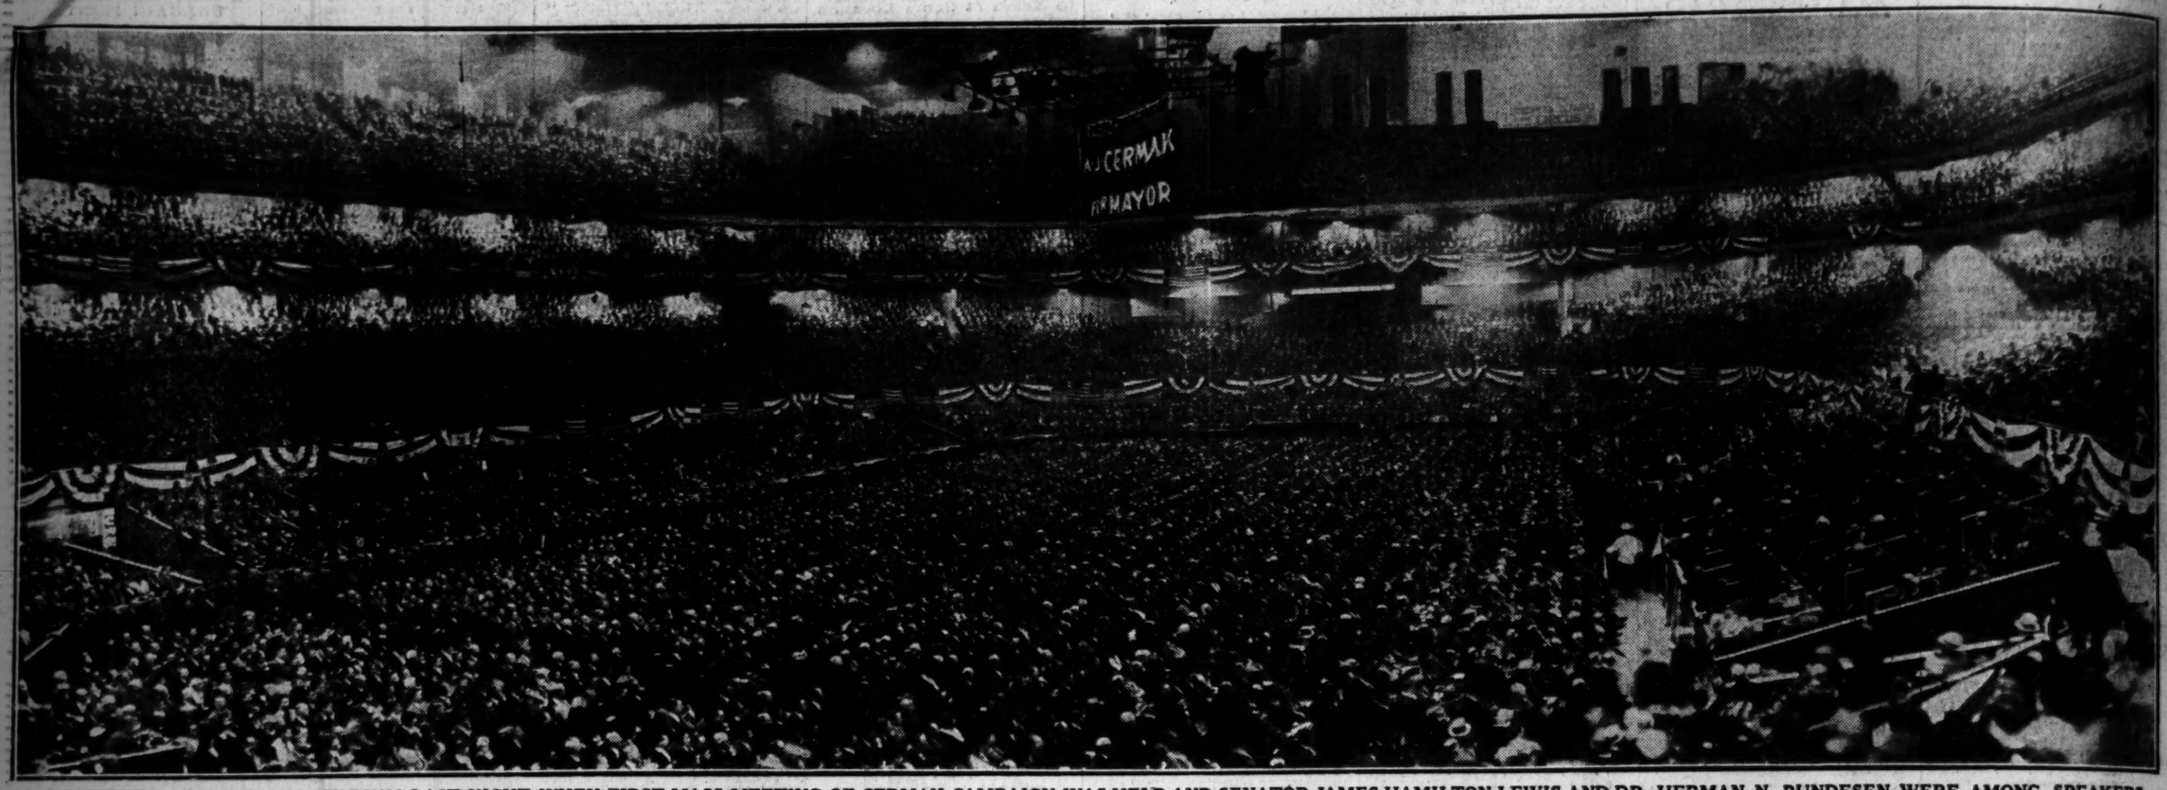
Near West Side Wards Turn Out Crowd of 26,000 to Jam Chicago Stadium at Cermak Campaign Opening



SCENE IN THE CHICAGO STADIUM LAST NIGHT WHEN FIRST MASS MEETING OF CERMAK CAMPAIGN WAS HELD AND SENATOR JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS AND DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN WERE AMONG SPEAKERS. General view of the big amphitheater as it appeared last night when every seat was filled by Chicagoans from the wards numbered from 20 to 38, inclusive, who turned out in spite of the light rain which was falling and which interfered somewhat with the torchlight automobile parade which had been arranged as one of the attractions. The mayoralty candidate, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Michael L. Igoe, U. S. Schwartz, Martin Durkin, and Judge Harry Fisher were the speakers at the meeting.
